JUDGES ORDER SANITARY GRAFT CASE TO TRIAL

Conspiracy Count in Indictment Upheld.

Timothy J. Crowe, president of the Sanitary district board during the "whoopee era" of 1927-1923, and seven other officials and former officials of the district, must go to trial on a charge of graft conspiracy in the near future. This ruling was announced yesterday by Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court after he and two associates, Judges James J. Kelly and John Prystalski, had finished listening to arguments to quash the indictment.

The three judges, sitting en banc, agreed that the first count of the ten count indictment is sound legally and describes a crime in sufficient legal language to assure a trial of the defendants. No decision, however, was given on the sufficiency of the nine other counts.

General Conspiracy Charged.

The first count charges general conspiracy to obtain $5,000,000 from the Sanitary district by false pretenses. Under it the proof of the state may be limited only to pay roll padding.

The other counts charge conspiracy to squander money through construction of various projects not authorized by law and through pay roll padding and contract juggling. Included in the projects which the indictment says were not authorized by law were the $1,000,000 bridle path along the north shore channel boulevard and the $750,000 ornamental lighting system of the boulevard.

Defendants Are Listed.

The defendants in the case besides Crowe are James M. Whalen and John J. Touhy who are still trustees of the district; Frank J. Link, John K. Lawler, and August W. Miller, former trustees; John T. Miller former superintendent of permanent plants and structures, and Martin Edelstein, former real estate agent. Timothy Connolly, former purchasing agent of the district, is a defendant but has never been apprehended.

By the ruling of the three judges, First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup has won his long fight to bring the defendants to trial, unless, it was pointed out, some of the other counts are later quashed and the prosecutor decides that not enough of the indictment is left to warrant the state's going through with the trial.

Northup Explains Counts.

The attitude of the judges and the effect that the quashing of nine of the counts would have on the case came out early in the afternoon during an exchange between the judges and Prosecutor Northup.

JUDGE PRYSTALSKI—Mr. Northup, the first and second counts of this indictment are practically the same. You admit that in your argument. Why do you have two counts charging the same thing?

JUDGE FISHER—If the first or second count is good, and they are both general conspiracy counts, what is the practical advantage to the prosecution in the counts numbered from three to ten?

MR. NORTHUP—Certain proof which we have would not be admissible under a general count. Under the first count we could present only about one-third of our evidence, I would say.

Judge Fisher's Statement.

The decision of the judges was announced by Judge Fisher within fifteen minutes after the arguments were concluded. The attorneys and defendants were asked to wait for a few minutes while the judges retired. After the three had returned to the bench Judge Fisher said:

"Without being at all affected by the sentiment created in this case, the judges feel that a speedy disposition should be made of it. Because of that feeling we have conferred each day after the arguments ended for that day and we have already read the briefs presented by the attorneys.

"On certain matters we have come to a definite conclusion. We have all agreed on these matters and we feel that we should make known our decision on those matters at this time.

Takes Up Defense Points.

"We feel that we would not be justified in quashing this indictment on the ground that the grand jury was illegally constituted. (This was one of the points raised by the defense). Neither were we impressed on the whole by the argument as to the statute of limitations. (Another of the points urged by defense counsel.)

"That argument might apply to some of the counts, but not as to the entire indictment. Moreover, we find

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—(AP)—An upward leap in business sentiment was reported today from many parts of the world in cables and radiograms from commerce department representatives.

The weekly review of favorable and unfavorable factors in world conditions recorded a generally stronger outlook in Great Britain; improved conditions in parts of Canada due to higher grain prices; an increase in Egyptian exports during August; a favorable trade balance in Italy; improvement in Chile and Argentina and better merchandise movement in Mexico.

Flood conditions in south China were reported rapidly improving, with trade satisfactory in that section and activity fair in the Shanghai and Hankow regions. The Chinese situation, however, still was clouded by political uncertainty.

MAID CONFESSES TAKING JEWELS WORTH $100,000

The Chicago police yesterday discovered the identity of the thief who took an $85,000 necklace and other jewelry, valued at $15,000 more, from the Glencoe home of Lawrence Stern, head of Lawrence Stern & Co., investments, on Sept. 1.

Wilma Harjes, 27 years old, who was Mrs. Stern's maid, was the one who took the loot. She was arrested in the loop and confessed to Lieut. Leo Carr of the detective bureau. On information given by her a raid was made on a flat in Gary. Three men were arrested.

These men are Ernest Levy, sweetheart of the maid; his brother, Max, and David Blumenfeld, an ex-convict. The woman told Lieut. Carr that she had been given $2,000 by the men for her part in the plot, and the money was found in the raided flat. No trace has been found of the loot.

Seize Veteran Who Testifies on Legion Beer

Boleslaw Lidikewicz, 57 years old, janitor of an apartment at 3301 North Kimball avenue, was haled before Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday for violating the prohibition law.

A federal agent testified that he had raided the janitor's flat last April 10 and confiscated two half barrels of 4 per cent beer. Lidikewicz had no attorney and offered no defense.

The government was represented by Assistant United States Attorney Walter Wiles.

"Sixty days and $100 fine," said the judge.

A Witness Appears.

At that moment a young man stepped forward, gained the recognition of the court, and identified himself as Charles L. Wiley, proprietor of a drapery shop in the Merchandise Mart and tenant of the janitor's building. In Wiley's button hole was the ribbon of a medal won in wartime combat.

"I'm a bit to blame for this man's plight," Wiley said. "He used to make a little beer for his own use. I sampled it and found it good. I was planning a smoker for a few of my friends in the Legion and asked him to make me some as a personal favor."

Judge Barnes was listening attentively. Lidikewicz, who speaks English with difficulty, was nodding emphatic agreement.

"There's no question of sale or profit involved here," Wiley continued. "This man doesn't sell beer. He has refused to sell it to me and to my neighbors. Couldn't the court grant him some leniency?"

Prosecutor Asks New Charge.

Judge Barnes turned to hear the recommendation of Prosecutor Wiles. Lidikewicz looked hopeful. The assistant United States attorney frowned thoughtfully.

"I recommend that lenience be denied and that this witness be held as an accessory," the prosecutor announced. "The witness has come into court pleading for a confessed violator. By his own statement he is the defendant's accomplice."

"But you can't charge this man with a violation," the judge remonstrated. "You can't prove a sale and you can't prove possession. What charge have you?"

"Make it conspiracy," the prosecutor decided. "I suggest the court fix bail at $1,000."

The judge ordered the clerk to enter the order. Wiley and the janitor were led away and thrust into a cell with three Chinese deportees and two narcotics peddlers.

Small Daughter Is Ill.

Wiley thought of telephoning his wife to raise bail but gave it up when he reflected that she was in quarantine with their 7 year old daughter, who has chicken pox. The prosecutor consented to let him telephone the commander of his Legion post, Nelson Metz.

"It's an outrage," Metz declared on arriving at the Federal building. "Here's a man who was in five major engagements in France, a man who was shell shocked. I'm going to see the district attorney."

Mr. Metz got an audience with George E. Q. Johnson, United States attorney. Mr. Johnson took the case from Prosecutor Wiles and instructed his first assistant, Victor La Rue, to arrange for the prisoner's release on a bond signed by Metz.

"What a law," Wiley commented. "I don't know why they jumped on me, unless it was because I shouted for beer with the other Legionnaires at the Detroit convention."

TWO BROTHERS TURN ROBBERS; ONE SHOT IN THEIR FIRST HOLDUP

Wayne Christie, 24 years old, 5111 Montrose avenue, and his brother Donald, 29 years old, decided early last evening to become stickup men. They were mechanics out of work, amateurs at robbery.

Donald went into a Fannie May candy store at 109 West Jackson boulevard and told the clerk, Marge Gallagher, to hand him the money in the cash register. Before she obeyed there was a command from the darkened rear part of the store.

"You stick 'em up. I'm a police officer."

The order was given by Policeman Charles Gallagher. Donald Christie turned to fire at him, but Gallagher fired first. The robber was shot in the throat and the jaw. He fled to the car in which his brother waited. They sped away, eluding the pursuing policeman.

Instead of completing the escape, Wayne Christie drove to St. Luke's hospital.

"Help my brother," he pleaded, "and send for the police. We're both stickup men."

According to Wayne, who was locked up at the detective bureau, Donald Christie is a son-in-law of Jerome C. Alderman, 1106 East Washington street, Lombard, assistant general manager of the Great Lakes Dredge & Dock company. Wayne said his brother had been married about seven years, but was now separated from his wife.

Gov. Roosevelt Beats Smith in Test of Power

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Voters of this state voiced their approval today of the policies of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and so added to his prestige as the leading Democratic aspirant for presidential honors in 1932.

The eyes of the nation were turned toward New York because of the break between Gov. Roosevelt and former Gov. Alfred E. Smith over a $20,000,000 amendment to the constitution to provide for reforestation of abandoned farm lands.

Tonight the amendment, supported by Gov. Roosevelt and bitterly attacked as "opening the way for lumber thieves" by Mr. Smith, appears to have been carried by a vote of about 2 to 1.

The controversy over reforestation between the two most prominent men in the Democratic party has been followed with absorbing interest throughout the country.

Tammany Deserts Al.

Tammany sided with Mr. Roosevelt at the polls and the Republicans already had been giving support to the amendment. The result was that the man once hailed as the "Happy Warrior" tonight found himself in second place in the esteem of the voters.

While the test of strength between the two idols of this state's democracy was considered everywhere as of wide political importance in the national plans for 1932, both Gov. Roosevelt and Mr. Smith insisted that it was purely a local issue. Nevertheless, it appears certain that Gov. Roosevelt has outdistanced Mr. Smith in the affection of the people of his own state and that Roosevelt now will be looked to as the leader.

The second issue of national importance in New York's general election was the contest for control of the state assembly.

The Democrats fought desperately but the complete returns showed that the makeup of the assembly would remain exactly the same—eighty Republicans and seventy Democrats, although there were a few switches.

Tammany Triumph.

In New York City Tammany Hall and its allied Democratic organizations won a sweeping victory in the face of charges of political corruption. Tammany styled the fight one for "vindication" and tonight insisted the Democratic organization had been vindicated. Just the same, the Republican control of the assembly insures that Samuel Seabury and the legislative investigating committee will continue its city inquiries.

Samuel Levy, Democratic candidate for borough president of Manhattan was elected by almost 200,000 plurality over Col. Edward C. Carrington, Republican, and Norman Thomas, Socialist, ran a close third. Only two Republicans survived the Democratic landslide in the city. They were Assemblyman A. L. Moffatt and Alderman Joseph C. Baldwin.

In Manhattan the Democrats failed to carry the 15th legislative district, in spite of the concerted fight to defeat Assemblyman Moffatt who is a member of the legislative committee investigating the activities of the Tammany administration.

They did, however, defeat Robert K. Story Jr., the Republican assemblyman who introduced the resolution creating the Hofstadter investigating committee. George W. Stewart, Democrat, captured Story's seat.

The returns indicated approximately 4,000,000 voters went to the polls—a larger number than voted in the election last year, when a governor and full state ticket was elected.

Democrats Sweep Jersey.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—By winning the governorship of New Jersey in a landslide vote today A. Harry Moore, Democrat, became a national political figure and focused at-

ELECTIONS GIVE DEMOCRATS 217 MEMBERS TO 215

Gain in Michigan After 33 Years.

Five congressional elections held yesterday to fill vacancies gave the Democrats a lead of two seats in the national house of representatives.

A Democratic victory in Michigan made the turnover. The house makeup now is 217 Democrats, 215 Republicans, one Farmer-Labor and two vacancies.

The results yesterday were:

MICHIGAN — Eighth district, Michael J. Hart, Democrat, defeated Foss O. Eldred, Republican, Seat gained by Democrats.

OHIO—First district, John B. Hollister, Republican, defeated David Lorbach, Democrat. No change.

OHIO—Twentieth district, Martin Sweeney, Democrat, defeated D. Hayden Parry, Republican. No change.

NEW YORK—Seventh district, Joseph Delaney, Democrat, defeated William L. Padgett, Republican. No change.

PENNSYLVANIA—Second district, Edward L. Stokes, Republican, defeated Charles S. Hill, Democrat. No change.

All five successful candidates campaigned on the wet side of the prohibition question.

There are two other congressional vacancies. One is in the Fifth New Jersey district. If a Republican should be elected there on Dec. 1 the G. O. P. would have 216 votes, one less than the present Democratic total. The other district [in New Hampshire] does not elect until Jan. 6, too late to participate in the election of a speaker.

John Garner of Texas is expected to be the Democratic choice for speaker.

BIG DEMOCRATIC VICTORY

Saginaw, Mich., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Michael J. Hart, Democrat and advocate of prohibition modification, was elected to congress in a special election today in the traditionally Republican Eighth Michigan district which for years sent Joseph W. Fordney to the house of representatives.

Complete returns gave Hart 23,744 votes and Foss O. Eldred, Republican, 20,643.

Eldred, in conceding his defeat and congratulating his opponent, attributed the Democratic victory to "dissatisfaction with economic conditions," although he also stated that "the prohibition issue had considerable to do" with the result.

Hart Has His Explanation.

In a statement tonight Hart attributed his victory to "a protest against the false leadership of a majority party which, securely entrenched with overwhelming majorities, believed itself secure in riding roughshod over the rights of the people."

Hart carried Saginaw county, an industrial center, and Montcalm, an entirely rural county. He also was victorious in Ionia county, the home of his opponent.

Hart was the first Democrat to carry the district since 1896, when the late Ferdinand Brucker, father of the present Republican governor, was elected. Brucker was beaten by Fordney in 1898, and Fordney served until 1923 when he was succeeded by Bird J. Vincent, whose death made necessary the special election.

In 1930, Vincent defeated Hart by a vote of 33,891 to 19,823.

Gov. Green Is Bitter.

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Election of Michael J. Hart, Democrat, in the Eighth Michigan district, was conceded tonight by former Gov. Fred W. Green, leader in the campaign for Foss O. Eldred, the Republican nominee.

Mr. Green said:

"I attribute the success of the Democratic candidate in the Eighth district largely to general dissatisfaction among the people with economic conditions. I believe the wet and dry issue had very little to do with Mr. Hart's victory.

"It was evident from campaign meetings that the people were inclined to listen to the Democrat. In these meetings Democratic speakers stressed depression and unemployment rather than prohibition modification."

The former governor criticised the Republican national committee for not giving more aid in the Eighth district.

"The Republican national commit-

...ee left the fight largely to the Michigan organization," he added. "There was a little contribution from national headquarters but in spite of the importance of the contest the burden was borne by the state committee."

Two Ohio Wets Win.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Two avowed enemies of prohibition, one a Democrat and one a Republican, today were elected to congress from Ohio.

In the First Ohio district (Cincinnati) Republicans rolled up their old time majority to elect John B. Hollister to the seat left vacant by the late Speaker Nicholas Longworth. He was opposed by State Senator David Lorasch, Democrat.

In the Twentieth Ohio district, a Democratic stronghold, Municipal Judge Martin J. Sweeney swung a heavy 3 to 1 majority over D. Haydn Parry, Republican candidate. Sweeney's public career has several times been marked by clashes with the Dry Maintenance league.

Hollister, a young attorney, is a law partner of Charles and Robert Taft, sons of former President William Howard Taft.

Polo Player in Congress.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Edward Lowber Stokes, Republican, was today elected to congress from the Second Pennsylvania district. His election fills the vacancy created by the death last July of Representative George S. Graham, who was also a Republican.

Stokes is widely known as a polo player. He is 50 years of age, is head of an investment brokerage firm and a member of an old and prominent Philadelphia family. He has never held public office before. Stokes favors light wines and beer pending repeal or modification of the federal prohibition amendment.

Stokes' opponents today were Charles S. Hill, Democrat, and John W. Edelman, Socialist.

The Republicans elected their entire city and county ticket. Mayor Elect J. Hamilton Moore broke a precedent of 50 years in being elected to a second term.

Democrat Wins N. Y. Seat.

New York, Nov. 3.—(AP)—John J. Delaney, Democratic lawyer who served in the house of representatives during the Wilson administration, today won the Seventh district congressional seat made vacant by the death of Matthew V. O'Malley, also a Democrat.

With virtually complete returns, Delaney was leading William L. Padgett, Republican, by nearly 16,000 votes, 75 districts out of 78 giving him 23,803 to Padgett's 7,820.

O'Malley died May 26 without having filled the seat. He was chosen congressman at a special election Feb. 17 to elect a successor to John F. Quale, Democrat, who died several weeks after his reelection in November, 1930.

CERMAK FAILS TO SEE SMITH OR ROOSEVELT

New York, Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago and his party boarded the Broadway Limited and left for home this afternoon. The mayor did not indicate in any way the "real" purpose of his "courtesy calls" upon Mayor James J. Walker, Tammany Leader John F. Curry, and Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City.

The mayor simply had "nothing to say" regarding prospective Democratic presidential candidates, nor did he comment upon the possibility of the dispute between Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt and former Gov. Alfred E. Smith over reforestation having an effect upon the candidate to be chosen as party standard bearer in 1932.

Regarding Chicago's chances to win the Democratic national convention, Mayor Cermak was more talkative. He explained that was one of the purposes of his visit to New York.

"We have talked with a group of New York leaders and feel confident they will back our bid to have the convention held in Chicago," the mayor said.

"Chicago's mayor entrained for home leaving behind him certainty on only three points. The Democrats of Illinois want Senator J. Hamilton Lewis as a presidential nominee; they won't put up with any one who is not a "dripping wet," and after Mr. Lewis almost any big man in the Democratic party will satisfy, provided he is sufficiently damp.

While Mr. Cermak was himself silent regarding a possible preference among the Illinois Democrats, aside from Senator Lewis, persons close to him declared that feeling for Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland is running strong.

Gov. Ritchie passed through New York yesterday while Mayor Cermak was in conference, and he sent a telegram to the Chicago leader expressing his regrets at not having seen him.

LIFE IS SAVED BY ELECTION CARDS IN COAT POCKET

Bowling Green, Ky., Nov. 3.—(AP)—A package of election cards in his coat pocket probably saved W. K. Dent, election worker, from being wounded in an election fight here today. Officials said H. B. "Hank" Hines, prominent Warren county Democrat, fired a pistol shot at Dent during an argument and the bullet passed through the election cards and two coats and lodged in Dent's clothing. The fight occurred at a suburban precinct. Hines was bruised about the face and head, allegedly by Dent. County Judge R. C. P. Thomas ordered an investigation of the quarrel.

Husband Has His Wife's Lawyer Seized as Robber

Attorney H. S. Gratch, representing Mrs. Blanche Pinsker, 28 years old, 4033 Gladys avenue, who is seeking support from her husband, Saul, in the Domestic Relations court, was arrested and held for an hour yesterday on a robbery charge. Pinsker caused the attorney's arrest. Judge Joseph A. Graber, however, said that Pinsker's accusations were too weak, and ordered him into court on Nov. 13 on a contempt charge.

GOV. ROOSEVELT BEATS SMITH IN TEST OF POWERS

tention upon New Jersey balloting as a possible indicator of the trend in the presidential campaign of 1932. The New Jersey house probably will be Democratic.

The contest was bitterly fought between Moore and his Republican opponent, William Baird Jr. Both of them injected national politics. Baird pleaded for a big vote to sustain the Hoover administration in the economic crisis. Moore asked the voters to "rebuke Hoover" for failure to lead the country out of the economic morass.

The answer of the voters was a plurality for Moore of around 200,000—the biggest victory a Democrat has scored in New Jersey within the memory of present day politicians. Of this huge margin more than 100,000 came from Hudson county, where Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City is the Democratic czar.

With returns from 2,360 of 3,349 precincts, the vote stood 342,071 for Moore against 229,642 for Baird.

A Disorderly Election.

The election, one of the most bitterly contested in recent years, was marked by many disorders at the polls, by arrests, charges and counter charges. In Camden, disorder was most frequent and scores of arrests were made.

Particular interest centered in Essex county, including Newark, which gave the late Dwight W. Morrow a plurality of 40,000 in his victorious race for the United States senatorship. Moore overturned this Republican stronghold and ran up a lead of 24,000 over Baird.

Supporters of Baird conceded his defeat when only a fifth of the returns were in hand. At that hour, E. Bertram Mott, state Republican chairman, said there was no doubt Moore had won by "a substantial plurality."

The race for the governorship also involved the question of who will succeed the late Mr. Morrow in the United States senate. Under the New Jersey law the governor fills any vacancy in the senatorship pending a special election.

No One Named Yet.

The present governor, Morgan F. Larson, has refrained from naming a successor to Morrow but is expected to do so before he retires from office on Dec. 31. The new governor thereafter has the authority to call a special election, but Mr. Moore has stated that the cost would mount to $2,000,000 and he did not expect to saddle the expense upon the state. Unless he changes his mind, in the hope of giving the senate Democrats another vote, Gov. Larson's appointee will serve until the regular election in 1932.

The prohibition question figured to a large extent in the election. Mr. Moore ran as a dripping wet. He demanded repeal of the 18th amendment and of the enforcement act. During the early stages of the campaign Mr. Baird soft pedaled the prohibition issue but more recently he had also come out for repeal.

As soon as the landslide proportion of Moore's victory became apparent, Mayor Hague and his other ardent supporters started beating the tomtoms for him as presidential timber.

It was recalled that Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago, who conferred with Mayor Hague while in New York for the week end, also listed Mr. Moore as a likely candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in case his expected election to the governorship came to pass.

Democrats Sweep Connecticut.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 3.—[Special.] — Unprecedented Democratic majorities were today registered in all three of Connecticut's leading cities.

John W. Murphy piled up an 8,276 margin over his Republican opponent, Lawson W. Hall, in New Haven.

William J. Rankin of Hartford, won by 5,341 over William J. Mullican, Republican.

Mayor Edward T. Buckingham of Bridgeport, was reelected by a majority of 2,640 over Jasper McClevy, Socialist and a majority of 8,713 over William S. Mason, Republican.

In Waterbury, Connecticut's next largest city, the Democrats a few weeks ago piled up a majority of more than 6,000.

A New "Boy Governor."

Jackson, Miss., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Mississippi's next governor, Martin Sennett [Mike] Conner, 40, won the governorship after three trials through homely speech to the farmers.

He was plain Mike Conner to the countryfolk, who for the moment forgot his education at the University of Mississippi and Yale, and accepted his as a son of the soil.

In the campaign it was Mike Conner, farmer and practical politician, against Hugh White, millionaire. In droll speech, aided by a performer who mimicked the bay of a fox-hound named Mike, he swept in votes from the hustings.

After Conner was graduated from Yale, he opened a law office in the town of Seminary, but soon hearkened to the call of politics. At 24 he was in the state legislature and the same year was made speaker of the house. At 32 he made his first run for governor but was badly beaten. He came back four years later but again was beaten. Then he ran this year and went into a second primary with Hugh White, whom he defeated by a heavy majority. Today his nomination was turned into election without opposition and he takes office Jan. 19 in succession to Gov. Theodore G. Bilbo.

Kentucky Counts Today.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Kentuckians who will count tomorrow their votes cast today for governor, other state-wide officials and senate and house, were reported to have gone to the polls today in greater numbers than since the 1928 presidential election.

CONGRESSMAN-ELECT FROM CLEVELAND A FOE OF PROHIBITION

Cleveland, O., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Municipal Judge Martin L. Sweeney, who was elected to congress today from the 20th Ohio district, is a determined enemy of the prohibition laws.

Verbal skirmishes between Judge Sweeney and the Dry Maintenance league here have occurred several times, and once the league endeavored to force him from office.

Federal prohibition agents had visited an alleged liquor resort at the same time Judge Sweeney was there. It was at a time when he was a candidate for reelection to the bench, with the endorsement of the Cleveland Bar association.

The dry league asked the association to withdraw its endorsement and to bring pressure to bear to obtain Judge Sweeney's resignation. The association took no action, however, and the judge said he had visited the resort on business and had seen no liquor sold in his presence.

In a speech on prohibition Judge Sweeney said:

"The man or woman who doesn't think prohibition has increased intoxication on the streets of Cleveland is either 'cock-eyed' or plays loosely with the truth. In 1929 32,000 persons were held to the Municipal court here on intoxication charges.

"Many of the intoxicated persons brought to court are young men and women from homes of respectable parents. The average of drunks at the workhouse in this district is 23 years."

CITY MANAGER FORM VOTED OUT BY CLEVELAND

Ohio Defeats $7,500,000 Building Program.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The city manager form of government appeared doomed tonight in Cleveland, the largest city in the United States to adopt it.

Returns from about a third of the city's precincts showed the amendment to the city charter running ahead comfortably with a 2,000 majority, the ratio that has been maintained since the beginning of tabulation.

On this basis, the amendment, which provides for the mayor-council form of government, would carry by 10,000 votes.

Fight on Personalities.

Supplementing the amendment fight, has been the campaign of personalities of former City Manager William R. Hopkins and Maurice Maschke, councilmanic "boss" and opponent of the amendment.

Hopkins tonight won an overwhelming victory in his race for council from his district on a platform opposing Maschke dominance. The control of the Republican organization in the council remained in doubt with incomplete returns.

Voted On for Eight Times.

The city manager plan was adopted in November, 1923, and it went into effect in January, 1924. This is the eighth time it has been attacked, the last four attacks seriously endangering it.

The change from the city manager form would take place Saturday, City Manager Daniel E. Morgan being replaced by his law director, Harold H. Burton, who would become mayor. A new council would be elected next year, the members elected tonight holding office until that time.

Votes Down Building Program.

Columbus, O., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Defeat of the $7,500,000 bond issue for state welfare rehabilitation was conceded by Gov. George White, who sponsored the proposal, when almost half the state had rolled up a majority of almost 163,000 against it.

Expressing deep regret over failure of the bond issue, the governor declared it places the state in a "precarious situation."

Asserting that the state's welfare institutions are "sorely overcrowded," the governor declared that "if any thing happens, the people of Ohio should share the responsibility."

Rich Sportsman Named Mayor.

Toledo, O., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Addison Q. Thatcher, wealthy sportsman and promoter of the Jess Willard-Jack Dempsey world's heavyweight championship fight, was elected mayor of Toledo here today over Mayor William Jackson by a vote of three to one.

Detroit Mayor Reelected.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Mayor Frank Murphy was reelected today by one of the greatest majorities ever given a mayoralty candidate in Detroit.

With only 47 of the city's 895 precincts unreported he had a majority of nearly 70,000 over Harold H. Emmons, former police commissioner. The vote was Murphy 155,098, Emmons 85,592.

Campaigning for his first full term—he was elected last fall to succeed the recalled Mayor Charles Bowles—Mayor Murphy made adequate care for the unemployed a paramount issue. Emmons, whose discharge by Mayor Bowles from the police commissionership precipitated the recall movement in 1930, attacked the administration's expenditure of $20,000,000 in doles during the last fiscal year.

The city council last summer limited the welfare department to $7,000,000 during the ensuing fiscal year and the mayor has since been active in solicitation of private subscriptions to augment available tax funds.

In the council race, it appeared certain that Frank Couzens, son of U. S. Senator James Couzens, and former Mayor John W. Smith and John C. Lodge would be elected and that the new council would include only three of the nine present members.

San Francisco Mayor Leads.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Mayor Angelo J. Rossi slowly forged ahead of Adolph Uhl in their race for the mayoralty post tonight as results of today's election were tabulated. On the face of complete returns from 700 of the 1,155 precincts in the city Rossi held a lead of 3,538 votes. The vote was: Rossi, 44,644; Uhl, 41,106.

WET G. O. P. ELECTED TO LEGISLATURE IN DRY NEW YORK COUNTY

Genesee, N. Y., Nov. 3.—(AP)—James [Jerry] Wadsworth, 26 year old son of former United States Senator James W. Wadsworth, was elected to the New York state assembly today. Like his father, he is a Republican.

Wadsworth is the third member of as many generations of the house of Wadsworth to start their political careers with a seat in the legislature.

Young "Jerry" ran as a wet in a normally dry county against a dry candidate James J. Griffin, Democrat.

U. S. PLANS TAX BOOST TO CUT 2½ BILLION DEFICIT

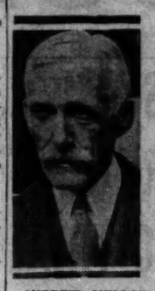
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Faced by a possible deficit of two billion five hundred millions at the end of the current fiscal year, treasury officials today expedited plans for laying a tax increase program before President Hoover. Indications today were that Secretary Mellon would have his recommendation at the White House within a few days.



ANDREW MELLON

While no definite announcement has been forthcoming from the White House it is apparent that a boost in taxes will be asked of congress if the recommendations of treasury heads are followed. It is probable the President's message to congress will carry the White House tax views, although in some quarters it is believed the President may withhold his decision on taxation until after the first of the year.

Set Aside No Sinking Fund.

Figures released at the treasury disclosed that during the first four months of the current fiscal year a deficit of 674 millions was run up, compared with 183 millions for the same period last year. If the fact that no money has been set aside for the public debt sinking fund thus far this year is taken into consideration, statistics show that in reality the treasury is running 556 million behind the rate maintained last year.

Revenue Collections Drop.

Not long ago it was indicated at the treasury that serious consideration was being given to the adoption of a limited sales tax on luxuries and semi-luxuries. Officials took the view at that time that such a tax together with other revisions of the present tax system would provide revenues needed to bolster up the nation's finances so the deficit could be held to reasonable proportions.

The rising cost of federal government plus diminishing returns from income and internal revenue taxes supply the reasons for the big deficit. During the first four months of the fiscal year the total revenue of the government from taxation amounted to 715 millions, a decrease of 253 millions as compared with the same period in 1931. Annual expenditures mounted to one billion 389 million during the first four months of this year, an increase of 239 millions compared with the corresponding period last year.

While some kind of an increase in taxes is regarded by many as inevitable, in view of increasing expenditures and dwindling revenues there undoubtedly will be opposition. In a recent talk Silas H Strawn president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, declared that that commercial body believed "that the burden of taxation, federal, state, and local, is now so great, compared with the ability of our people to pay, that it constitutes one of the great impediments to business recovery."

Phonograph Campaigner Defeated, but in Close Race

New York, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Herbert Brownell Jr., 23, lawyer who campaigned for the state assembly by sending phonograph records with band music and a ten second speech by himself to 18,000 voters in the Tenth New York county assembly district, was defeated by the Democratic incumbent, Landon W. Post. He ran a comparatively close race, however, polling 5,254 votes to 6,945, with only two election districts missing.

SCIENTISTS RAP MOVE FOR BAN ON VIVISECTION

Answer Foes at Meeting of Council Committee.

PROF. CARLSON.

Prof. Anton J. Carlson of the University of Chicago, arose yesterday before a city council committee and in the quiet tones which he uses in the classroom voiced his weariness at the tactics of anti-vivisectionists.

His remarks were part of a scientific barrage which met a woman reformer and a poet. The latter two went before the committee on judiciary, headed by Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady [14th], to urge passage of an ordinance which physicians say will prevent the medical schools and research institutions of Chicago from getting animals from the city pound for experimental purposes.

Hobbies Opposes Ordinance.

Another of the opponents of the ordinance was President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago. He warned the committee that plans to make Chicago the medical center of the country would go for naught if anti-vivisectionists had their way. He urged the passage of a substitute ordinance drafted by Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th], giving the mayor specific power to turn dogs over to reputable institutions for research purposes.

"I speak for four great universities of which Chicago is proud—Chicago, Illinois, Loyola, and Northwestern," President Hutchins said. "They have a capital investment in medical schools of $15,000,000, and they spend annually the income on $100,000,000 in medical education and research.

"This research will practically come to a standstill if the ordinance of Ald. Arvey does not pass. During the last summer Dr. O. H. Robertson, who was carrying on research on pneumonia, was refused further dogs at the city pound. His research came to a stop."

Scientists' Star Witness.

Dr. A. C. Ivey of Northwestern, Dean D. J. Davis and L. L. Moorhead, heads of the medical schools at the University of Illinois and Loyola university, respectively, and Dr. Herman L. Kretschmer, president elect of the Chicago Medical society, also spoke. But Dr. Carlson, who is head of the department of physiology at the University of Chicago and one of the world's authorities on the mechanism of hunger and the digestive system, was the star witness for the scientists.

"I have grown weary of these anti-vivisectionist fights," he said. "I haven't many more years to work and I would like peace to finish my research into the functions and disorders of the alimentary canal. The city fathers shouldn't put any obstacles in the path of medical research.

"Where would we be today in our understanding of gastro-intestinal disorders, diabetes, and other ailments, if we hadn't worked on animals?"

Tells About Anaesthetic.

Dr. Carlson turned to the council gallery, which was crowded with medical students and physicians, and motioned. The man who stood up was Dr. Arno B. Luckhardt, under whose direction at the University of Chicago the use of ethylene as an anaesthetic was developed.

"There is a man who has done more to save women and children pain than any one else in Chicago," said Dr. Carlson. "The use of ethylene as an anaesthetic could never have been developed had not Dr. Luckhardt carried on his early experiments on animals. We have been getting dogs from the city pound since the days of Mayor Busse, and the charge that we inflict any cruelty on them is preposterous."

Mrs. Charlotte Hunt, president of the Chicago Humane Educational society, appeared in support of the ordinance to which the medical authorities object. Her own plea was principally for the appointment of a veterinarian as head of the pound. She introduced James Heron, a poet, as an honorary member of her society.

Poet Speaks to Council.

"Every stray dog is an adventurer, like a little child which has strayed from home," Heron told the aldermen. "Every one is a heart throb in some domestic household. It would be a mistake to let these societies take those heart throbs away. Chicago will become greater because of its humanitarian activities than it can by building itself up as a great medical center."

"Don't you believe that we have kiddies in our homes who are greater 'heart throbs' than dogs?" demanded Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th]. Ald. Ross, a physician, detected the joker in the ordinance directed against vivisection and at the last council meeting caused the measure to be sent back to committee.

"I don't think you understand what Mr. Heron means," Ald. Arvey said to him. "I think he prefers experiments on babies in the interest of dogs."

Club Woman Is Speaker.

Mrs. Lena K. Sadler of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs and Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, president of the Chicago Heart association, pleaded with the committee not to allow sentimentalism to interfere with scientific research.

"I represent 70,000 women who are mothers and who have dogs in many of our homes," Mrs. Sadler said. "They and I love babies more than we do dogs."

Mrs. Hunt will bring more opponents of vivisection before the committee next Monday.

RESCUE 2 MEN ADRIFT IN BOAT ON ATLANTIC OCEAN FOR NINE DAYS

New York, ov. 3.—[Special.]—Two men who had drifted nine days on the Atlantic in an open boat with no food and but little water were rescued today by the coast guard patrol boat Cayahoga about 125 miles east of New York City off Martha's Vineyard.

The two castaways, who set out from an inlet in the Rockaways for Sheepshead bay on Oct. 25, were David Warshauer, a truckman, and Jerry Tuckyner, both of Brooklyn.

They were landed at Stapleton, S. I., and rushed to the State Island hospital at New Brighton, a little after 9 o'clock tonight. Both men, after days of privation and exposure, had fevers and their legs were blue and cracked from the cold and damp. They were in danger not only of pneumonia, doctors said, but also from that dread disease of seafarers, "damp gangrene."

Divorced in 1928

Yuma, Ariz., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Dorothy Mackaill, screen star, and Neil Albert Miller, Los Angeles radio singer, were married here this afternoon by a justice of the peace. The bride wore a sport suit of blue and tan. Miller was dressed in a gray suit, blue shirt and checkered tie. Both gave their age as 26.

They arrived here by airplane and planned to return to the coast the same way. The actress said she and her former husband, Lothar Mendez, film director, were divorced in 1928.

F. R. Dickinson Elected to Science Academy Board

Francis R. Dickinson has been elected a patron of the Chicago Academy of Sciences. That was announced yesterday by Dr. Henry C. Cowles, president of the academy. Mr. Dickinson, already a member of the board of scientific governors of the academy, has been a member of various field expeditions of the institution.

RALPH CAPONE IS ABSENT AS PRISON WAITS

Mystery Marks His Trail in N. Y. and Miami.

Mystery surrounded the movements of Ralph Capone and one of Al Capone's attorneys yesterday, while the immediate future of the gangster brothers, so far as Leavenworth penitentiary is concerned, remained uncertain.

A mittimus for the confinement of Ralph Capone in the penitentiary to serve his three year sentence for income tax fraud was received late in the day by the United States marshal's office, after the United States Circuit Court of Appeals had denied a stay of execution.

The stay was asked by Capone's attorney to permit him to appeal for a rehearing before the United States Supreme court which on Monday refused to review the case.

Here the Mystery Begins.

Though the stay was denied Ralph was not available for arrest on the mittimus. A photograph arrived from New York showing Ralph and Attorney Michael Ahern leaving the 20th Century Limited there on Monday morning. The photographer who made the picture said that the gangster and the lawyer were startled when he appeared and that neither would discuss their business in New York.

Mr. Ahern is one of the attorneys for Al Capone and has not represented Ralph in connection with his income tax troubles. There have been reports that the lawyer had left for Washington to seek bail for Al from the Supreme court, but dispatches from Washington said he had not applied there. Mr. Ahern's secretary said he was in Chicago but not in his office.

Ralph Also in Miami.

Ralph Capone's lawyer, George N. Murdock, informed Edward King, chief deputy marshal, that he had talked with his client in Miami, Fla., by long distance telephone on Monday night. Capone would have had to ride an airplane to reach Miami from New York by Monday night. Attorney Murdock said Ralph was taking the next train for Chicago.

The United States attorney's office notified Mr. Murdock and Ralph's bondsmen to appear at 2 p. m. tomorrow and show cause why his $35,000 real estate bond should not be forfeited. If the gangster arrives before then he will be served with the mittimus, taken into custody, and held until the next shipment of prisoners leaves for Leavenworth either Friday or Saturday night.

The federal prosecutors said they did not believe Capone would jump his bond and flee the country, but they declared his bond will be forfeited if he does not appear by tomorrow. He would then become a fugitive from justice and subject to arrest and incarceration at any time, even though his bond is forfeited.

Though the Circuit Court of Appeals refused Mr. Murdock's request for a stay of execution, the lawyer said he would send his petition to the Supreme court anyway, by air mail. The prosecutors were not concerned about this, however, for they regard it as unlikely that the Supreme court will grant a "rehearing" when it declined to review the case in the first place.

Advise Al to Go to Prison.

Al Capone was still in the county jail yesterday, where he is being held without bail pending his appeal from conviction and sentence to eleven years' imprisonment for income tax evasion.

It was learned from an authoritative source that his lawyers had advised a voluntary trip to Leavenworth, despite a supersedeas staying his confinement there, so that he might receive credit for his prison service pending the appeal. Capone's lawyers have said in court that if the Supreme court denied bail Capone would probably leave immediately for Leavenworth.

Capone's hopes of bail are slim, the prosecutors believe, because of Judge James H. Wilkerson's recent denunciation of the hoodlum's gang.

U. S. HOLDS TWO OF FIVE MEN ARRESTED WITH GANG ARSENAL

Federal authorities yesterday took charge of two of the five prisoners seized on Monday when 64 revolvers, dies and molds for counterfeiting silver dollars and quarters, and a quantity of whisky and gin were found in a gun repair shop at 604 Blue Island avenue.

Silvio Belgivello, 39 years old, was held to the federal grand jury by United States Commissioner Walker on charges of counterfeiting and violation of the prohibition laws. Commissioner Walker also held Louis Scaramuzzo, 41 years old, owner of the shop, on a liquor charge. He discharged Peter Honig, 46 years old, an employé of the gun shop, but Honig was taken into custody again by the police, and the others are also to be prosecuted under state laws.

Two other men arrested in the place, Sam Triola and Louis Grossi, were also held at the detective bureau while policemen under the direction of Capt. William Stapleton were applying an acid process to the guns to restore the serial numbers which had been effaced.

When the numbers are brought out the makers of the guns will be asked to trace their sales. Meanwhile ballistic experts will be making tests to determine if any of the guns were used in recent murders.

U. S. EXPERTS AT TRIAL OF SLAYER OF 2 DRY AGENTS

Invade State Court to Avenge Deaths.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Picked experts of the federal law enforcing agencies gathered here today at the opening of the trial of George Adams, Fort Wayne war veteran who killed two federal prohibition agents when they had lured him into an entrapment ambuscade here last July 22.

The government is taking the unusual step of invading the state courts of Indiana and "assisting" County Prosecutor Walter E. Helmke in an endeavor to obtain the death penalty for Adams, who will plead self-defense.

Amos W. W. Woodcock, United States prohibition administrator, led the array of federal legal talent into Fort Wayne today. Other federal officials in attendance are John F. Coldiron, special assistant United States attorney general sent on from Washington, and Oliver M. Loomis, United States district attorney, and Howard Long, district dry enforcement chief, both of South Bend.

Woodcock declared that he had not come with the intention of influencing the trial by his presence. He may stay only a day or two, but probably will return later in the trial.

Start Selecting Jury.

Adams is being tried on an indictment charging first degree murder for the killing of Federal Agent John I. Wilson. Another indictment charging second degree murder is based on the shooting of Walter N. Gilbert, Adams' other victim. A motion by the state to consolidate the two charges recently was denied by Judge C. R. McNabb of the Allen Circuit court, who is presiding at the trial.

Selection of a jury was begun in Allen County Circuit court here today.

In addition to the regular panel of 24 deputies, Fred G. Lunz, sheriff, summoned the first twenty persons listed on the special venire of 100.

Questioning of the men in the jury box was being conducted by Prosecutor E. Helmke and Dan C. Flanagan, deputy prosecutor, and by Defense Attorneys David E. Smith and R. C. Parrish.

Eleven Men in Jury Box.

Little progress was made on the first day, although eleven jurors sat in the box as tentatively accepted by both state and defense. None of the eleven, now in the box, is certain of sitting through the trial.

The only outstanding point raised during the first day of questioning veniremen came when a state's attorney asked that a prospective juror by excused because he admitted prejudice against the prohibition law. After a heated argument between counsel Judge McNabb overruled the state's objection.

Mrs. Adams sat beside her husband and wept occasionally, but only once did she break to the point where it was necessary to leave the room.

The defense attorneys issued this statement today:

"We expect to show that any shooting which was done by Adams was in defense of his own person."

What Would YOU Wear?

—shopping, bridging, or even to a royal reception in Buckingham Palace? Stevens answers the question by showing the newest and smartest wearables every day in the week. Rely on them—and the question of what to wear EVERYWHERE will give you no more concern than it does the great Gandhi on his way to see the king!

A Cool Reception

is exactly what these new "Muffsac" handbags won't let you have. Each provides a capacious handbag with a satin lined muff in the back. Upper—zipper fastened "Muffsac," $8.50. Gold or silver initials for greater smartness, each $1. Lower—vagabond envelope "Muffsac" with Soochow jade ornament, $13.50. Both in antelope, black or brown.

HANDBAGS, FIRST FLOOR

Thanks

to cold and the chronic lack of steam heat in the esteemed B. Isles, Ascot scarfs are getting smarter by the minute. Dozens of our new Ascots are in the new shorter length, which the younger generation calls "keen." Upper—Rainbow stripes, $2.75. Center—wool jersey, $1.75. Lower—Shadow stripes, $3.

SCARFS, FIRST FLOOR

are not included in our new Pin menagerie, because we know you'd much prefer this homely English bull or the orthodox Indian elephant. (Another playmate not shown is a Russian wolfhound.) All carved from Mahogany, Ebony, or Birch and mounted on a pin back—the very newest little costume accessory. Each, $1.

JEWELRY, FIRST FLOOR

at receptions, teas, or the common garden variety of Volsteadian era gatherings are always promoted more successfully with plenty of artistic cigarette boxes (well filled). Highly recommended is this wood-lined box of Italian embossed leather, in multi-colors or plain. Its interior has three sections, $5.

WALTER J. HUNTER TO BE BACK IN AIR AT CHARITY SHOW

Pilot Burned in Races Has Regained Health.

Walter J. Hunter, one of the Hunter brothers who set a short-lived endurance record over Sky Harbor airport in the summer of 1930, and who barely escaped death when his racing plane caught fire and he jumped with a parachute from an altitude of 200 feet two months ago, is back in the air and will fly in the charity air show next Sunday afternoon.

W. J. HUNTER. [Tribune photo.]

Hunter wired his acceptance of an invitation to participate in the air show, all proceeds from which will be given the joint emergency relief fund. He was flying his Travelair Mystery racer at Cleveland during the national air races when it caught fire. It was destroyed and he was severely burned.

Six Ocean Flyers Coming.

The charity air show, besides ten famous racing pilots, will be attended by six transoceanic flyers. Russell Boardman and John Polando, who flew from New York to Turkey last July, setting a new world's distance record of 4,999 miles, will participate in the event.

Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon Jr., who flew around the world in their Bellanca monoplane, including a nonstop flight from Japan to the United States across the Pacific, will be present. Pangborn is considered by many aviation enthusiasts one of the most capable pilots in the United States.

Parnt Balchen, who not only flew the Atlantic with Admiral Byrd, but also piloted Byrd planes on arctic and antarctic expeditions, will participate. George Haldeman, pilot of Miss Ruth Elder's plane on a trans-Atlantic flight that ended in midocean when the oil line began to leak, will be present.

Pilot to Show Autogiro.

Jim Ray, foremost autogiro pilot in the United States and chief pilot for the Autogiro company, will fly his "windmill" plane from Philadelphia to participate in the air show. He plans a "slow race" with a parachute jumper, both beginning their descent at the same altitude and the one who touches ground last winning.

Casey Jones, vice president of the Curtiss-Wright Flying Services, yesterday announced he would be present to describe to the spectators, over a public address system, a stunting exhibition being arranged by Earl S. Daw, manager of Curtiss-Reynolds airport. Casey is a member of the Early Birds, organization of flyers of prewar days, and a well known stunt pilot himself.

Eddie Stinson to Perform.

Another Early Bird who will participate in the show is Eddie Stinson, who flew with Lincoln Beachey in the original Wright pusher type planes. Stinson has outgrown his days of stunting but will entertain the spectators with a show of skillful flying in one of his Stinson Junior cabin monoplanes, a plane that enjoys great popularity.

Mrs. Ruth Stewart of St. Louis and Miss Debie Stanford of Toronto plan to arrive Saturday afternoon in the Lockheed Vega monoplane in which they will take off later this month for a 5,000 mile flight from New York to South America. The plane is powered by a Wright J-5 motor.

Navy Official to Be Guest.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy E. L. Jahncke has accepted an invitation from THE TRIBUNE to attend the charity air show. He will be in Chicago with Mrs. Jahncke and their daughter, Miss Adele Jahncke, who will christen planes of the American Airways system early Sunday morning. Miss Jahncke was Queen of Comus at this year's Mardi Gras celebration in New Orleans and was presented at the court of St. James. With her mother she will return to New Orleans over the air line following the christening ceremony at Chicago airport. The assistant secretary of the navy will remain in Chicago for the charity air show.

Safety precautions for participants in the air show were advanced yesterday when arrangements were completed for the coast guard to have five patrol boats placed at strategic points along the lake front. The boats will be held in readiness to rescue any pilots that might be forced to land in the lake.

Flying Forecasts

Special flying route forecasts for the period from 9 p. m., Nov. 3 to 12 noon, Nov. 4:

Chicago-Cleveland and Chicago-Detroit-Cleveland—Fair; strong northwest winds and gales diminishing somewhat by morning.

Chicago-St. Louis, Chicago-Twin Cities, Chicago-Omaha, and Chicago-Kansas City—Fair; fresh to strong northwest winds.

Omaha-Cheyenne, Kansas City-Denver, Kansas City-Amarillo, and Kansas City-Dallas—Fair; moderate to fresh north to northwest winds.

Route forecasts for 12 hours ending noon, Nov. 4:

Evansville-Atlanta—Clear sky; gentle to moderate southwest winds near Atlanta and moderate northerly near Evansville up to 1,000 feet, and moderate west or northwest near Atlanta and fresh northwest near Evansville at 5,000 feet.

Dayton-Washington—Partly cloudy sky; fresh northwest winds near Dayton and moderate to fresh southwest shifting to west near Washington up to 1,000 feet, and fresh northwest near Dayton and strong west shifting to west northwest over east of mountains at 5,000 feet.

Cleveland-New York—Mostly cloudy sky, except partly cloudy near Cleveland; strong northwest winds near Cleveland and strong southwest shifting to west near New York up to a 1,000 feet, and west northwest gales at 5,000 feet.

Cleveland-Albany, via Buffalo—Generally cloudy sky, except partly cloudy near Cleveland; probably light local rain.

Buffalo-Albany—Strong west or west northwest winds Cleveland to Buffalo and fresh to strong southwest shifting to west near Albany up to 1,000 feet and west northwest or northwest gales at 5,000 feet.

CITY SLIGHTED ON $45,845,000 ROAD PROGRAM

County Submits Plan for 108 Projects.

BY HAL FOUST.

The Cook county highway department yesterday presented a five year $45,845,000 road construction program to committees of the Chicago Association of Commerce and of the Chicago Regional Planning association for their approval. The press was not invited to the session.

As proposed by the highway department, this vast revenue from gasoline tax and county road tax for the years of 1932 to 1936, inclusive, will be spread over 108 projects, only a minority of them of importance to traffic, and with the rural sections, the subdivision areas of the county, receiving most of the improvements.

Chicago, with its urgent requirements for through street connections and express traffic facilities, has forty-one projects in this tentative program, consisting of 68.9 miles of twenty foot pavement, 37.4 miles of forty foot pavement, 23.5 miles of widening, seventeen railroad grade separations and twelve bridges.

Projects for Suburbs.

The suburbs of Chicago are scheduled for twenty-one projects with 43.8 miles of twenty foot pavement, 12.4 miles of forty foot pavement, 28.2 miles of widening, four railroad grade separations, and eight bridges.

Rural Cook county, which already has a network of little traveled concrete forming the skeleton for subdivisions for years to come, is scheduled for thirty-eight projects with 186.1 miles of twenty foot pavement, 20.2 miles of forty foot pavement, 58.6 miles of widening, five railroad grade separations, two highway grade separations and eleven bridges.

Adding these figures makes a total for the county of 298.8 miles of twenty foot pavement, 70 miles of forty foot pavement, 110.6 miles of widening, twenty-six railroad grade separations, two highway grade separations, and thirty-one bridges. In addition to these 108 specific projects, the highway department's program sets aside $6,000,000 for the building of additional grade separations and $5,000,000 for purchase of right of way.

Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club, after studying the highway department's recommendations, urged that the program be revised almost in its entirety and a new program drafted on different general principles, giving first consideration to the improvement of existing traffic routes rather than the construction of new roads.

"To begin with," said Mr. Hayes, "I believe every one admits that Chicago needs improved traffic facilities more than any other section of the county. Let's spend more money in the city.

Urges Through Highways.

"In the country, the county's network of subdivision pavements is already interfering seriously with travel on traffic arteries. The stop and go signals and stop signs on the supposedly high speed highways are becoming almost as great a nuisance as on city streets. What this area needs is a system of wide super-highways where the hazards and delays due to cross traffic are entirely eliminated through grade separations. And let's allot the expenditure of this fund of tax money at meetings open to the press.

"The state highway system likewise is in need of further improvements on the main arteries. Although much widening has been done in the last two years, there are still many state highways, such as 22d street and Butterfield road, which need forty feet of concrete. On many of the highways which were widened the forty foot pavement was not extended far enough from Chicago, was not extended in conformity with traffic requirements, such as on Northwest highway, Route 4 south of Joliet, Rand road, Milwaukee avenue and Dixie highway."

The highway grade separations on the department program are at Pfingsten road and Lake avenue and at Glenview road and Grosse Point road, which are not the busiest intersections in the county.

The outstanding major project on the program is the construction of a depressed boulevard, with forty feet of concrete, in the bed of the old Illinois and Michigan canal from Lemont, to Cicero avenue near 39th street, a distance of twenty-three miles. A fund of $1,500,000 is set aside for the construction of ramps to the bridges over the canal so that they will serve as grade separations.

The program provides for 23.6 miles of pavement on the so-called Tri-State highway, a new road circling Chicago, which has been promoted for several years by the Chicago Regional Planning association.

AVIATION NOTES

L. H. Steward, flying a Lockheed Orion plane, which has a retractable landing gear and is powered by a Wasp motor, yesterday broke the new speed record he established a week ago by flying from Chicago to Washington, D. C., in three hours flat. Last week he flew the 632 miles in three hours, ten minutues. Steward's plane is on the daily schedule of Continental Airways, Inc. He carried three passengers, and between Canton and Pittsburgh reached a top speed of 246 miles an hour. His average for the distance was 210 miles an hour.

The first of 135 Wasp powered Boeing high speed pursuit planes ordered by the army air corps under a $1,541,366 contract have been delivered at Seattle. Two high speed bombers have been built for the army by the Boeing Airplane company.

Pittsburghers planning to attend the theater in New York now can make reservations for both the theater and round trip travel on Transcontinental and Western Air, through Postal Telegraph. The plane, on a new schedule, will leave Pittsburgh for New York every afternoon at 3:05 o'clock, arriving in time for dinner before the theater.

America's DRESSING UP because this BIG NEWS pointed the way!

MILLIONS of American men were waiting for this news... Men who were skimping along in old clothes—waiting for something to happen—hoping clothes prices would come down to meet their 1931 pocketbooks.

Well, something did happen—and we made it happen. We put prices back to fifteen years ago at one fell swoop—at one big jump.

And at the same time we pushed quality ahead and went forward to new peaks of value and style—finer linings, finer tailoring, better fit; quality that couldn't be produced fifteen years ago.

Get the new suits you have earned and wanted like thousands of men are doing everywhere through the whole land. Pay the prices you want to pay—and not one nickel more.

Trust Hart Schaffner & Marx as you always have. The clothes are a big step up in quality and a big step down in price. They're ready for you.

WALL ST. FACES TOWARD EUROPE AND WOES THERE

Wiggin Among Those Who Have World Plan.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Wall street derives its name from a long-fallen wall which the Dutch built to keep out the English. Today it seems more of a bridge for England and Europe to walk into the stronghold of American finance. The salt breeze that gently moves the curtains in the offices of bankers and brokers, the sight of ships and masts and flags of many nations at the street ends, the sensitivity of the financial nerves to changing conditions abroad, reflect how a world economic outlook.

"What can Wall street do about the depression?" asked the vice president of one of the leading banking groups. "We are held back by political handicaps and insular prejudice."

The Chase National bank group, through its pilot, Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the board of governors, and its economist, Dr. Benjamin M. Anderson Jr., have been pointing the way toward a new policy in international commerce, a policy which, they are convinced, offers a sound and adequate remedy for early recovery from present world conditions.

Gains Support in Wall Street.

It has gained the support of the other great Wall street groups and may be said to be their main contribution to the discussion of the economic ills of the day.

The formula is found in the report of the Basle committee on international credits of which Mr. Wiggin, the only representative from the United States, was chairman. The report, which was written by Walter T. Layton, British economist, declares in substance that there should be a rapprochement between France and Germany, that reparations and interallied debts should be reduced, and that tariffs should be reduced. Recent political history has shown the development of this idea since the report last August. The suggestion for a next step is found in this paragraph:

"We would point out that the case of Germany provides the most forcible illustration of the fact that in recent years the world has been endeavoring to pursue two contradictory policies, in permitting the development of an international financial system which involves the annual payment of large sums by debtor to creditor countries, while at the same time putting obstacles in the way of free movement of goods.

"So long as these obstacles remain, such movements of capital must necessarily throw the world's financial balance out of equilibrium. Financial remedies will be powerless to restore the world's economic prosperity until there is a radical change in this policy of obstruction, and international commerce—on which depends the program of civilization—is allowed to resume its natural development."

Has Pretentious Headquarters.

The Chase bank headquarters is a block away from the House of Morgan, on Pine street, and is a much more pretentious structure. Its main floor is like the lobby of a grand hotel, with marble pillars, gold ceilings, and mahogany desks at which the subofficers sit.

Here is a large reception room, paneled in oak, decorated with large oil paintings, among them that of the civil war secretary of the treasury, Salmon P. Chase, in large wing collar and black stock. There are two oval tables and chairs for informal conference with secretaries. This room opens into a series of roomy offices, in one of which sits Mr. Wiggin. Visitors call him "Albert," and he links arms in friendly manner as he strolls from one conference room to another. He is not only chairman of this bank and its subsidiaries, but a director of the Finance company of Great Britain and America, Ltd., and trustee or director of at least twenty-five of the greatest corporations in this country.

Mr. Wiggin is a portly and affable gentleman who says that his job is merely running a bank and that thought about social and economic changes must be sought from the economists. He indicates that their theories are all right and interesting, but that he does not expect any great changes to come from the present experience. He is cheerful about the outlook for general business in this country and says that things are working out all right, and that substantial improvement is in sight.

There is no superman or superplan that is going to pull this country up by its bootstraps or keep it permanently out of trouble. He thought that a liberalizing of the anti-trust laws might be helpful if this did not lead in the end to a price fixing governmental agency.

Testifying in Washington on the creation of an economic council, Mr. Wiggin said that he did not think it would do much harm or much good. "Human nature is human nature," he said. "Lives go on as long as business activity goes on, and we are bound to have conditions of crisis once in so often. You may learn from each one how to avoid that particular calamity the next time, but you are always going to have, once in so many years, difficulties in business, times that are prosperous and times that are not prosperous. There is no commission or any brain in the world that can prevent it."

While the business men of this country are not going to sit still until the rest of the world braces up, Mr. Wiggin calls attention to foreign trade as an essential factor in the prosperity of the United States.

Dr. Anderson carries out this thesis as follows:

"We continually meet the question of why we should try to restore England and Germany and Europe instead of trying to restore the various shattered elements in our own economic life. Why should we concern ourselves about England and Germany when we have so many unemployed in the United States? The answer is that we must concern ourselves with England and Germany for the sake of the unemployed in the United States. We must help Europe in order to help Latin America, in order to help Asia, and, above all, in order to help ourselves. We are part of a world economy and we cannot make headway alone. And we know it now.

"In the present world situation both national and international politics must be suspended and adequate measures must be taken."

National City Viewpoint.

The National City bank in discussing the Wiggin report says:

"The world at least needs assurance at the earliest possible moment that the breathing spell accorded by the suspension of international debts will be adequate to give time either for reconsideration of these debts or for the restoration of economic conditions to levels which will render them less burdensome.

"So long as no one knows what is going to happen in Europe, business cannot be expected to go ahead with confident plans for the future, and this hesitancy is one of the factors tending to depress the commodity markets."

Otto H. Kahn has this to say on cooperation with other nations:

"America has grown to a stature and world position which, whether we like it or not, precludes a policy of isolation, even if only from what the American Declaration of Independence calls 'a decent respect for the opinion of mankind.' That does not mean getting ourselves involved in political entanglements, nor does it mean joining the league of nations. Neither does it mean going beyond the limits of prudent liberality in incurring financial commitments. It does not mean developing a 'European complex' which, for America, is neither called for nor salutary.

Must Plan on World Basis.

"It does mean closer interest and more foresighted planning in world affairs than we were called upon to practice in former and wholly different times. It means definite cooperation in, or even initiation of, endeavors to straighten out involved situations of general concern and importance which do not yield to ordinary measures of alleviation and settlement.

"It means purposeful action as and when need arises in recognition of the fact that the promotion of peace and stability and of understanding, harmony, contentment, and prosperity among the nations is distinctly within the field of our duty and interest.

"It means, in the existing situation, prompt cooperative action in writing the second chapter to the 'Hoover moratorium,' for which the world is anxiously waiting. It means, I believe, assembling a conference such as, it seems to me, has been too long delayed to consider comprehensively the problem of the gold situation and the entire subject of the world's monetary arrangements.

"'The world is out of joint.' It is seething with turmoil and gripped by distress. Without doing violence to our traditions, or going beyond the line of our proper functions and well conceived interests, we can do more, probably, than any other nation to help set it right.

"Whatever betide in Europe and elsewhere outside of our own borders, our ship, however it may be buffeted and battered, is staunch enough, beyond peradventure, to tide the storm if we but keep our courage high and steer our course with a firm hand and steady nerve.

"I express the conviction that for any one who studies the lessons of America's history and experiences, and who calmly takes stock of the underlying features of her development, her actualities and her potentialities, there can be no doubt that, in its allotted course, the sun of prosperity will once again lighten the American sky and that it will shine upon a people which will not permit the lessons learned through an all too prolonged and severe ordeal of adversity to go unheeded in the future."

OPEN CAMPAIGN ON FAULTY AUTOS TO CURB DEATHS

Police Will Test Brakes After All Accidents.

A campaign against defective brakes, faulty steering equipment, and poor lights as contributing factors to fatal and serious automobile accidents was opened yesterday at a meeting of police heads with officials of the Chicago Motor club and Judge Frank M. Padden of the Traffic court in the Palmer house. Preventive measures advanced are:

1. Test of brakes, steering gear, and lights of automobiles involved in accidents by policeman at scene.
2. A Traffic court campaign against motorists driving with defective brakes.
3. Proposed legislation to require periodic tests of automobiles and to impose a penalty on dealers selling automobiles in a defective condition.
4. Education of public opinion toward removing "motor wrecks" from streets and highways.

Require Police Reports.

Commissioner of Police James P. Allman is to send out an order today directing all policemen at the scene of an accident to include in their accident reports a statement of the condition of brakes, steering gear, and lights of the car or cars involved. Capt. Timothy J. Howard, chief of the South park police, who attended the meeting, is to give similar orders. The system has been adopted in the west park district by Capt. William Schram, also present at the meeting.

Lieut. Andy Smith, head of the motor division, who represented Commissioner Allman, said more than 50 per cent of the automobiles in Cook county have defective brakes. He urged that dealers in used cars be forced by city ordinance or state law to correct defective brakes, lights, and steering apparatus before making sales.

Blamed for Fatal Accidents.

Attorney Joseph Braun of the motor club said President Hoover's conference on street and highway safety found 25 per cent of all fatal accidents due to mechanical defects. Of this total, he said, defective brakes contributed 24 to 28 per cent; lights, 13 to 25 per cent, and steering gear, 7 per cent. The police officials declared the percentage is now greater than that covered in the report from 1925 to 1929.

Mr. Braun suggested state legislation requiring periodic tests of cars with a scale of penalties for habitual offenders. To curb sale of faulty cars he advocated requirement of an affidavit as to the condition of the automobile at the time of sale and further affidavits on application for state and city licenses.

"The driver of a car in poor condition drives at his peril," Judge Padden said. "He is a menace to the community. In addition to offenders with faulty brakes and steering apparatus those who drive with cowl lights not sufficiently bright are as bad as drivers without lights.

Judge Will Coöperate.

"I will lend my coöperation to a movement to correct faulty automobiles in the Traffic court. The statutes provide a driver with faulty brakes can be punished. If such offenders are brought before me I shall order a test of their car and fine them, in the interest of curbing fatal and serious accidents, in accordance with the degree of variance from standard."

President Charles M. Hayes of the motor club presented a tabulation by the United States bureau of standards on the number of feet in which a car should stop at a given speed. These are:

Speed.	Distance 4 whl. brakes.	Distance 2 whl. brakes.
20 miles	17 feet	28 feet
25 miles	26 feet	47 feet
30 miles	39 feet	68 feet
35 miles	53 feet	93 feet
40 miles	55 feet	119 feet

"We carry a moral obligation to remove the wrecks from our streets," Mr. Hayes said. "The dangerous car can be removed only by education of the public in coöperation with official movements. It, as has been indicated, 50 per cent of the cars are defective, the motor club will offer its aid in providing testing stations at advantageous points to aid all motorists interested in preserving life and limb to discover defects as the first step toward their eradication."

Dressmakers Sue Novelist for Estranged Wife's Bills

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 3.—A fashionable firm of French dressmakers today brought suit for $1,325 against Gilbert Frankau, novelist, for bills run up by his second wife between November, 1927, to the end of 1928. Frankau testified that she was allowed $3,000 annually for clothing and pocket money on the understanding that she would pay her own bills. The couple was married in 1922. They separated a year ago and a divorce is now pending.

CHICKEN THIEVES PEN A POEM AND POST IT IN THE POULTRY HOUSE

Ashgrove, Mo., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Chicken thieves are getting poetic, farmers living near here reported to Sheriff Marcell Hendrix today.

One Ashgrove farmer went to his poultry yard this morning and found his entire flock of chickens gone except one hen and an old rooster.

Posted in a prominent place in the poultry house, was this note:

"We steal from the rich—
"We steal from the poor:
"We leave these two so you can raise some more."

JAPAN ORDERS ITS TROOPS INTO RUSSIAN ZONE

Army Will Ignore Pact with Moscow.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Nov. 3.—The Japanese military authorities here decided today to force the issue with regard to reopening the Taonan-Tsitsihar railway in northern Manchuria. Gen. Shigeru Honjo, commander of the Japanese army in Manchuria, ordered a repair gang, accompanied by a strong military force, to start tomorrow for the Nonni river, south of Tsitsihar, where Chinese troops a fortnight ago destroyed a bridge. This district is in the zone of Russian influence.

[Last Saturday the Japanese government at Tokio announced an agreement with Moscow whereby both nations would send no troops into northern Manchuria, where both have large economic interests. The Tokio announcement said specifically that Japan had agreed to send no troops with the gang sent to repair the Taonan-Tsitsihar railway.]

Sends Ultimatum to Chinese.

At the same time Gen. Honjo sent an ultimatium to Gen. Ma Chan-shan, Chinese commander at Tsitsihar, and to Gen. Chang Sai-peng, stationed at Taonan, ordering them to withdraw their forces ten kilometers [slightly more than six miles] from the river to enable the repair gang to function.

Considerable significance it attached to Gen. Honjo's ultimatum in view of the recent Japanese allegation that Gen. Ma Chan-shan was receiving support from soviet Russia. This allegation was denied by Moscow. Russia, on the other hand, alleged that the Japanese were supporting Chang Sai-peng with the object of extending the Japanese influence in Heilungkiang province.

Gen. Honjo's statement this morning declared that a fortnight had elapsed since the bridge was destroyed by Gen. Ma Chan-shan's troops and that, despite repeated warnings from the Japanese consul at Tsitsihar, Gen. Ma had failed to make repairs. The railway contains Japanese investments, he said, and a reopening of transportation is needed in order to move fall crops.

Charges Chinese Open Attack.

Gen. Honjo charged that when railway officials, accompanied by a Japanese adviser, inspected the bridge recently they were fired on by Gen. Ma Chan-shan's troops, who used machine guns and artillery.

Since the continued closure of transportation is causing losses both to the Chinese railway and the Japanese owned South Manchuria railway, he said, the Japanese had decided to effect repairs under Japanese military protection beginning Nov. 4. His ultimatum to the Chinese generals to withdraw their troops followed.

It was announced this afternoon that the Japanese had dispatched an armored train to protect a repair gang rebuilding bridges on the Chinese railway between Chenchiatun and Tunghad, which were destroyed by Chinese bandits. After repairing three bridges, it was alleged, the laborers were fired on. It was stated that banditry is increasing in the district.

Eighty Die in Six Hour Battle.

TOKIO, Nov. 4 [Wednesday].—(AP)—A Mukden dispatch today said a Japanese battalion clashed Monday with 800 Chinese bandits near Touttaokou, 75 miles north of Mukden, and that 80 Chinese were killed and 100 wounded. Only one Japanese was reported killed. The battle lasted more than six hours, the dispatch said, and was intensely fought.

China Prepares to Take Over Area.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Nov. 4.—[Wednesday.]—China today prepared active measures to take over the portions of southern Manchuria which were seized on Sept. 18 by Japan. The Chinese plan to begin taking over the area on Nov. 16, the date set by the league of nations council for the completion of the Japanese evacuation. The Nanking government appointed Wellington Koo as head of the organization to assume control in the district and arranged for ample Chinese forces to back up his action. China has officially notified the league of nations of its action.

Meanwhile, the Nanking government is preparing documentary evidence that Japan, instead of preparing to evacuate Manchuria, is steadily increasing its forces there and that she is also aiding, with armored trains and airplanes, rebel forces, which she has armed and equipped, to seize additional Manchurian territory. Specific evidence is being compiled definitely connecting Japan with virtually all the expanding disorders in Kirin and Heilungkiang provinces.

Charges Attack on City.

Among the new acts of aggression with which China accuses Japan is an attack on the city of Tungliao. Japanese troops, it is alleged, showered the city and various other regions along the Tsanan-Ssupingkai railway with machine gun bullets, while a Japanese armored train is said to have laid down a heavy barrage on Tungliao.

It is also alleged by the Chinese government that Mongol bandits, aided by a Japanese airplane, were engaged in battle by the local Chinese militia ten miles from Tungliao. This battle, it is charged, was followed soon afterward by the arrival of four armored Japanese trains.

League Is Alarmed.

GENEVA, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Fresh alarm over the Manchurian situation was spread in league of nations quarters today when news was officially received that Japanese troops had moved on Tsitsihar, an important strategic point in northwest Manchuria.

Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese spokesman, called at the league secretariat and held a private conference with Sir Eric Drummond, secretary general, in which he voiced China's fears that the new developments indicate Japan has no intention of withdrawing its troops within the railway zone.

League authorities were concerned lest Russia step in and take some military action against Japanese occupation.

FRANCE MODIFIES HER TERMS FOR AID TO GERMANY

Report Laval Agrees to New Reparations Deal.

BY EGBERT SWENSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 3.—Premier Laval today put two important pieces of business behind him.

First, he won the cabinet's unanimous approval of his handling of his recent trip to the United States. He laid before his fellow ministers full details of his activities in Washington.

Second, he held a two hour conversation with Dr. Leopold von Hoesch, German ambassador. Although the meeting was steeped in secrecy, THE TRIBUNE is informed from excellent sources that it marked a sensational change in the French policy toward Germany.

Withdraws Some Demands.

Premier Laval, it is said, will no longer demand that Chancellor Bruening muzzle the steel helmet, Fascists and other nationalistic manifestations in Germany. Recent events, particularly Sunday's by-elections in Germany, which resulted in a heavy Hitlerite victory, have convinced the French premier that eventually there must be Hitlerite or Nationalist participation in the Berlin government.

Instead of repeating the demand he made on Chancellor Bruening during last summer's conferences in Paris to throttle the Teuton right-wingers, Premier Laval will send lieutenants to Berlin to visit the Hitlerite and Nationalist headquarters and dicker with them regarding what France may expect in the way of security if and when these parties enter the German government or completely take it over.

Another high light in the Laval-Von Hoesch conversation, according to THE TRIBUNE'S information, was the admission by Premier Laval that France is ready to consider a revision of the unconditional part of the reparations payments—that item which has heretofore been treated as sacred.

Foreign Minister Briand, Finance Minister Flandin and M. Bizot, French financial expert, were present at today's conference. Ambassador Von Hoesch did not, as had been expected, make a formal demand for the appointment of a consultative committee, as provided under the Young plan, to fix Germany's capacity to pay. France, it is understood, while not willing to reduce the amount of reparations appreciably is prepared to change their nature, accept more payments in kind and otherwise make it easier for Germany to pay.

The question of security also played a large part in the conversations.

Germany Studies Proposals.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 3—Chancellor Bruening, Dr. Hans Luther, president of the Reichsbank, and members of President von Hindenburg's economic committee tonight discussed the result of Ambassador von Hoesch's conversations with Premier Laval in Paris.

An air of pessimism was apparent. Officials pointed out that with reparations, interest on debts abroad, interest on the Dawes loan and other payments, a total of $800,000,000 in foreign currency will be needed annually to meet Germany's obligations, and Germany declares she does not know where it can be found.

The anxiety was increased by the Reichsbank statement of Oct. 31, which revealed that gold covering of note circulation had fallen to less than 27 per cent. Circulation of notes has advanced by $85,000,000, while gold holdings are unchanged and holdings of foreign securities have declined by nearly $3,000,000.

FREED ON CHECK CHARGE.

A. K. Weast, Howe Baxter, and A. M. Henderson, were freed by Judge Alfar M. Eberhardt in the Felony court on a charge of attempting to pass a $4,500 check on the Lake Shore Trust and Savings bank for want of prosecution yesterday.

CHINESE ENVOYS PROTEST CHICAGO CHINATOWN RAID

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Chinese diplomatic representatives today registered protests at the state and labor departments against the raid conducted on Chicago's Chinatown last Sunday, in which 42 Chinese were arrested as illegal alien suspects by immigration agents and police. The raid was conducted in line with the labor department's drive against alien smuggling.

The protests were made by Yung Kwei, Chinese minister here, following receipt of a telegram from Consul General Koliang Yih at Chicago.

At the state department it was pointed out that the Chinese representations do not constitute a formal protest against the arrest of the Chinese in Chicago.

A FOR THE LIFE OF A JAILBIRD IN GRUNDY COUNTY

Tell of Sheriff's Favors to Capone Aid.

Confinement in the Grundy county jail at Morris as described yesterday by witnesses in the federal court of Judge Charles E. Woodward was largely a matter of motoring about the country, strolling around the courthouse square, playing ball with the sheriff's son, lolling beneath the cooling shade of the trees during the Sunday sun and dropping across the street to Jake's place for a nice cold bottle of pop.

At least, such was the manner of confinement meted out by Sheriff John Perucca to Anton Rench, political henchman of Al Capone, during part of Rench's term in Sheriff Perucca's jail.

Charged with Contempt.

Both Perucca and Rench are on trial before Judge Woodward on charges of contempt of court. Rench, who was elected as president of the Village of Stickney, Capone vice dominals, and then was ousted after County Judge Jarecki discovered gross frauds in the election of Rench, had been sent to the Morris jail by Judge Woodward for violations of the prohibition law in Rench's La Ruth bungalow in Stickney.

Assistant United States Attorney Edward A. Fisher is undertaking to prove his charges that Perucca permitted the Capone minion to hold the keys to the jail, to stage booze parties in and out of the jail, to maintain his residence in the sheriff's private rooms, and that Rench was granted many other favors instead of being imprisoned and treated in the orthodox prisoner fashion.

Former Cellmate Questioned.

One witness, James Ogden, who had been a cellmate of Rench in the jail, and was then released, testified that he later drove Mrs. Rench, wife of the Capone aid, to the jail on many occasions, and that on several of them she spent the week-end in Morris, stopping at the sheriff's home. Ogden did not state whether Rench stayed in his wife's company constantly during these week-end visits.

Ogden, like most of the other witnesses for the government, was reluctant to testify against Rench and Sheriff Perucca, but under Judge Woodward's cross-examination he was compelled to tell of using Rench's car to pilot Mrs. Rench and other friends of the prisoner to Morris. Ogden said he had been sent to the Morris jail for running a brewery.

Tells of Rench's Trip.

Judge Ryder, Morris hotel keeper—he was baptized "Judge," not elected—told the court that one of the hotel guests named McLaughlin had gone violently insane, and that after he had been committed by the court, Sheriff Perucca asked Ryder to help drive McLaughlin to the Elgin insane asylum.

"Rench rode along with us," said Ryder. "I didn't know at the time who he was. I thought he was a deputy sheriff."

In cross-examining Ryder and the other government witnesses, Attorney James W. Faulkner, counsel for Perucca, sought to make it appear that Rench had always been under supervision or observation by jail officers.

"During the whole ride to Elgin and back," said Attorney Faulkner, "Rench was within view of the sheriff at all time, was he not?"

Judge Puts a Question.

The witness started to answer, but Judge Woodward caustically interrupted with another question:

"Was Rench also within view of the Grundy county jail during his ride to Elgin and back?"

Ryder was confused at first and answered affirmatively. Then he said, "No."

J. S. Stein, Grundy county clerk, testified he saw Rench around the courthouse, unguarded, sweeping the place out, mowing the lawn, playing ball with the sheriff's 4 year old son. C. H. Black, an alderman of Morris, and H. E. McDonald Jr., a Morris lumber dealer, told of seeing Rench playing ball in the courthouse grounds.

Trips to "Jake's Place."

William Schober, plumbing and heating contractor, saw Rench in the cigar store and soft drink parlor of Howard Burden, called "Jake's Place," situated across from the county jail. Burden himself told of Rench coming into his place frequently, without any guards, and Burden said Rench bought milk. Another witness said it was pop the prisoner purchased.

Robert E. Curry of Joliet, an employé of the sanitary district of Chicago who is awaiting trial on a federal charge of violating the prohibition law, testified he had driven Rench's car on several occasions.

Thomas Steele, former sheriff of Morris, said he saw Rench playing ball with other prisoners, lying in the shade of the trees on the courthouse lawn, and strolling about late at night. In an effort to show that Steele had a personal feeling against Sheriff Perucca.

ONTARIO OPENS DRIVE ON BOOTLEGGERS WHO RUN RUM FROM U. S.

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The Ontario Citizen today quoted Gen. V. A. C. Williams, Ontario commissioner, as saying he is taking steps to stamp out a ring of bootleggers operating in the Ottawa district. In an interview the commissioner asserted "the police are aware that a great deal of alcohol is finding its way into Canada from the United States, where large quantities are being produced at the present time."

He was also quoted as voicing the belief that liquor traffic was being carried on between Rochester and Syracuse, N. Y., and Ottawa.

"We are not so much concerned about keeping them from running beer and stuff to the United States," he said. "That is the federal government's job. We are more concerned because we know that a lot of the stuff is being short-circuited. By that I mean the liquor is presumably shipped out to some part of the United States, when in reality it is bound for some other part of Ontario or Canada."

ALLMAN DECIDES ON 7 CAPTAINS TO BE INSPECTORS

Probable List Made Known by Inference.

Police Commissioner Allman declared yesterday that while he has practically decided upon the seven captains who are to be promoted to the office of inspector he was not ready to appoint them.

Council authority is necessary to create the new positions which are comparable to the deputy commissioners of former days and it may be, the commissioner said, that the appointments will not be made before the first of next year.

Studies Records of All.

The commissioner said he had studied the qualifications of the 54 police captains and his mind is made up. From what he said there was an inference that those most likely to be made inspectors are the following:

Capt. Matthew Zimmer, who was a deputy commissioner during the Dever administration.

Capt. Ira J. McDowell, who was a deputy commissioner until the office was abolished a year ago.

Capt. John E. Piacek, a friend of Mayor Cermak and formerly the department disciplinarian with the rank of deputy commissioner.

Capt. Thomas Condon, who was selected by Mayor Cermak recently to clean up one of the south side "bad" districts, and who is known as one of the "iron men" of the force.

Capt. Daniel A. Gilbert, one of the younger captains chosen by the mayor for an important post before the appointment of Allman as commissioner.

Capt. Richard Gill, also sent by Cermak to the south side for cleanup duty and who is a brother of the clerk of the municipal court, Joseph Gill, a prominent Democratic leader.

Capt. John Horan, put in charge of the loop under Mayor Cermak and who is a brother of Al Horan, bailiff of the municipal court and a west side Democratic leader.

One To Be Chief Inspector.

One of the seven is to be chief inspector and Capts. Zimmer and McDowell were said to be under consideration for this office. Capts. Zimmer, McDewell and Condon had the general approval of the mayor's advisory committee for the post of commissioner when Allman was chosen.

According to present plans there will be two districts on the west side, two on the south side and two on the north side, and divisional headquarters will be at the stations now designated as headquarters for receiving the calls of patrolmen on beats and as central stations for the dispatching of auto patrols.

ACCUSED ARMY MAN PERMITTED TO QUIT SERVICE

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The war department today announced the resignation of First Lieut. Edward A. Dolph "for the good of the service."

Dolph disappeared Sept. 10 from Fort Totten, New York City, where post exchange officers reported a shortage of $6,000 to $7,000 in Dolph's accounts. The case was placed in the hands of the army and Dolph was scheduled to be court martialed.

The announcement today, that he had been allowed to resign, was interpreted as indicating the shortage had been made up.

Dolph's disappearance followed unsuccessful efforts on his part to have his superiors change an order transferring him to Fort Monroe, Va.

A native of Michigan, he graduated from West Point in 1918. He is the author of "Sound Off," a volume of soldier poems.

ADAMS DENIES HE'LL QUIT OVER NAVY CUT PLAN

Hoover Inquiry to Meet at Capital Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams today denied that he would resign from the Hoover cabinet as a protest against White House economy moves which threaten to drop the operating United States fleet to its lowest level of combat strength since before the world war.

The secretary's action in definitely scotching reports that he would retire came as arrangements were being made for meetings Wednesday at which final plans for the White House investigation of the Navy league's accusations against President Hoover will be completed. On that day the committee of five which will look into the Navy league criticisms of the President's naval policy will perfect its organization and select a chairman. The Navy league executive committee meets the same day to formulate a plan of defense.

Work on Warship Program.

Simultaneously it became known that the navy department has resumed work on a 130 million dollar warship authorization program which it hopes President Hoover will approve in time to submit to congress when that body meets in December. A number of measures are being prepared in the hope that a program can be found which the White House will approve. In this connection it was said that the final terms of the naval building truce to which this country is committed have been arranged so that a building bill can be approved by congress without violating the spirit of the holiday agreement.

Just what action the White House will take when the revamped plan is submitted has not been divulged, although officials at the state department were of the opinion that the administration would eventually approve an authorization bill. Chairman Fred A. Britten [Rep., Ill.] reiterated again today that he plans to push a warship authorization bill at the coming session of congress regardless of what action is taken by the White House.

Mr. Britten believes, he said, that a program authorizing at least one aircraft carrier, one flying deck 6 inch gun cruiser, and a number of destroyers and submarines should be approved this winter so they can be begun in the 1933 fiscal year. His view today was that ten or fifteen destroyers and at least five submarines should be appropriated for in addition to the carrier and the flying deck cruiser this year.

Calls for Ships to Cost Billion.

Both the navy department and Chairman Britten would like to see congress authorize all the warships which the United States is permitted to build under the terms of the London treaty. This program would include close to a billion dollars' worth of ships.

Indications today were that Admiral Hugh Rodman, the only navy officer on the Hoover investigating committee, would be selected as chairman. The committee had planned to meet today, but was unable to take any action, due to the absence of John Hays Hammond. The other members are Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ernest Lee Jahncke, Undersecretary of State William R. Castle Jr., and Elliot Wadsworth, former assistant secretary of the treasury.

At Thursday's meeting the Hoover committee will decide whether to hold open hearings and what witnesses to call. Indications now are that the committee will spend the bulk of its time checking the Navy league statistics with official figures at the navy department. The committee also would examine the assertions of fact made by William Howard Gardiner, Navy league president,

Try to Disprove Charges.

It is apparent that statistics will be placed before the committee in an attempt to disprove the Gardiner charges that President Hoover had unduly restricted the navy during his term of office.

Admiral Rodman is remembered in naval circles not only because of his war record but also because of his chairmanship of the Rodman board which recommended the closing of a number of shore properties in 1924. Many of the navy yards and stations named by Admiral Rodman as those which should be the first to go if economy dictated were those now appearing on the Adams economy report.

AKRON CARRIES 207 PASSENGERS, A NEW RECORD

New York, Nov. 3.—[Special.]—The navy's aerial dreadnaught, the Akron, proved her mettle today by breaking the record for the number of persons taken aloft by a single ship.

After a day and a night in the air she rose for a second day's cruise with 207 persons aboard. As she soared smoothly and easily from her portable mooring mast at the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J., she took from the German seaplane DO-X the record it had held since it carried 169 persons on a half hour flight over Lake Constance three years ago. The greatest number taken up by the Akron heretofore was 112, on a test flight at Akron, O.

C. E. ROSENDAHL. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, who heads the crew of 76 officers and men, again piloted the ship over Philadelphia, and other eastern cities, but today's cruise, unlike yesterday's, was not made on a display schedule and no time was announced in advance for the ship's arrival over any point.

The big airship went as far south as Atlantic City today, returning to her Lakehurst hangar a little after 7 p. m.

NAVY BLIMP WRECKED BY WIND AS IT'S BEING PLACED IN ITS HANGAR

Cape May, N. J., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The Navy Blimp K-1, largest non-rigid dirigible in the world, was wrecked here tonight as a ground crew maneuvered it into its hangar.

The 220-foot dirigible was just back from a cruise to Lakehurst and had been brought to the ground when the accident occurred. Darkness had fallen as the ground crew was working the blimp into its hangar when a gust of wind caught it and hurled it against the hangar door.

The nose of the craft was torn and with a roar of escaping helium, the ship collapsed. Lurching in the wind, the gas bag was caught in a barbed wire enclosure and the fabric ripped to ribbons.

The ship's crew of five, commanded by Lieut. F. Bailey, had left the gondola before the berthing was started.

The K-1, with a capacity of 32,000 cubic feet of hellum, had had 20 hours in the air, officials said. Built at Akron, O., it was assembled at Lakehurst. The cabin on which its two motors were mounted, had been constructed with secrecy at the navy's aircraft factory at the Philadelphia navy yard.

CANADIAN RUM BOAT SUNK BY U. S. DRY NAVY

Rammed Twenty Miles Off Massachusetts.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—The 98-foot Canadian power boat Sophie E., said by coast guardsmen to be one of the most notorious craft on the rum running blacklist, was rammed and sunk twenty miles east of Gloucester last night by the coast guard patrol boat Harriet Lane. This was revealed today with the arrival here of the Lane bringing the Sophie E. rescued crew of nine men.

While a special board of investigation was appointed to inquire into the sinking, Capt. James Bellman of the Sophie E. conferred with British Vice Consul W. S. H. Bernard, who later announced the Sophie's skipper charged that the coast guard vessel deliberately rammed his vessel to sink it.

Tells of Threat to Get Ship.

The vice consul said also that Capt. Bellman declared that he had been told several weeks ago by the skipper of the Firefly, a recently seized British rum vessel, that a threat had been made to "get" the Sophie E. Bellman. According to the vice consul, Bellman admitted that while the Sophie E. was lying to just before the collision signals had been flashed to contact boats to come alongside to take off liquor. He claimed that inasmuch as the vessel was seven miles beyond the twelve mile territorial limit he had the right to invite the contact craft.

Capt. Bellman also is understood to have charged that the Harriet Lane was running without lights, that the weather at the time was not bad, and that the sea was reasonably smooth with fair visibility. He said that the Sophie E. was struck on the starboard side aft and that part of the stern was sheared off, causing her to settle to such a degree that the crew was ordered into dories after rescuing their belongings. The Lane stood by to pick them up.

Must Await Detailed Report.

Commander Rose of base 5 reported no charges will be made against the Sophie's crew, since she was well outside the twelve mile limit when the collision occurred. Members of the crew were turned over to immigration officials, and after examination they were classified as seamen in distress, entitled to sixty days in which to return to their homes in Newfoundland.

Coast guard headquarters gave out a brief report of the collision coupled with the statement that details are not available, as the Harriet Lane, which virtually was undamaged, put to sea again after landing the Sophie's crew, and her commander, Boatswain M. D. Jester, would delay his report until his return.

From another source it was said that the Sophie E., although registered from Newfoundland and carrying a Canadian crew, was in reality owned by a Massachusetts syndicate recently reported to coast guards as ready to land $120,000 worth of liquor on Cape Cod.

Nan Britton Put on Stand; Case May Reach Jury Today

Toledo, O., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Nan Britton rested her case in her $50,000 libel suit late today after another stormy session behind locked doors of Federal Judge John M. Killits' courtroom.

It was learned after court adjourned that final arguments will begin tomorrow, with the probability that the case will go to the jury before night or early Thursday.

Miss Britton took the stand late in the afternoon and it is understood to have answered questions concerning six excerpts from "The Answer to The President's Daughter," the volume sold by C. A. Klunk of Marion, O., which provoked the suit. The excerpts were not announced in view of Judge Killits' secrecy order.

Shortly after Miss Britton left the stand, her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Willits of Chicago, was called to testify.

Daughter in Anteroom.

While Mrs. Willits was on the witness stand, Elizabeth Ann, daughter of Miss Britton, remained alone in the United States marshal's office. She came that near to the courtroom because Mrs. Willits has been her companion since Judge Killits barred the child from court.

Immediately after Miss Britton rested her case the court and attorneys for both sides went into conference and it was agreed, the judge announced, that both sides would be permitted ample time to make their arguments.

Another legal battle is in prospect when the arguments begin if the attorney for Miss Britton attempts to get before the jury some of the facts barred from the testimony by Judge Killits. The defense has fought all attempts to make the trial a parentage fight. Miss Britton charged in her book that the late President Warren G. Harding was the father of her child.

Denies Libel Ruling.

Court did not get under way until 1:30 today as Judge Killits devoted the morning session to denying he has declared a libel against Miss Britton had been proved as was stated in some accounts of the trial Monday. In a lengthy statement the court explained that his comment was based on the status of the trial at that time, but that it was subject to the right of the defense to prove, if possible, that the alleged libels were truthful statements.

Judge Killits repeated his statement of yesterday that Miss Britton's book had not libeled President Harding because it was published four years after his death.

FEDERAL TRIAL OF BUFFALO DRY AGENTS TODAY

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Three federal agents, two of whom are alleged to have held the son of a hotel man at Irving, N. Y., one day last summer while the other one beat the young man, will go on trial in federal court here tomorrow on charges of assault, second degree. The men are Edward Baker, Fred Wilson, and James Mahoney, agents working out of the Buffalo office.

Their accuser is Walton Baird, 27 years old, who said he was severely beaten that he was confined to his bed for some time. The case originally was set for trial in Chautauqua county, where the alleged assault occurred and where, it was charged, there is considerable feeling against the agents. On motion of Richard H. Templeton, federal district attorney, who will defend the accused men, the case was shifted to federal court here.

CONSUL DISPELS DOLE HOPES OF BRITONS IN U. S.

Robert Ross, acting British consul general in Chicago, yesterday issued a warning to any British subjects who may have the idea that they can go back to the old country and have themselves put on "the dole."

The message read as follows:

"It is desirable to correct any impression there may be that British subjects formerly resident in Great Britain and northern Ireland prior to return thereto after a period of absence will immediately become eligible for unemployment benefit. If they have been abroad for any length of time they cannot draw unemployment benefit in the United Kingdom without first securing a sufficient amount of employment in an insured trade to enable them to qualify for benefit should they subsequently become unemployed."

The French knack of fine laundering, as told by
Mrs. Edward J. Brundage

All her life Mrs. Brundage has enjoyed the miracles of French needlework that are so precious to all women. Lingerie sheer as tinted dreams . . . linens and point lace no fingers but French could fashion.

"Because these treasures are so fragile, and because beauty-loving French women are so thrifty," says Mrs. Brundage, "we have learned to launder fine things with the tenderest care.

"The secret is in the soap. It must be pure above all else. It must also be rich in suds so that dirt will disappear almost instantly. Then, too, it must rinse out thoroughly so that the fabric will iron as smooth as new.

"All these virtues I find in but one soap—American Family Flakes. Its rich fluffy suds can be relied upon never to harm even my most delicate fabrics. And they do utterly amazing things for woolens, especially sports clothes.

"I'll tell you another bit of French thrift. We always buy American Family Flakes by the case; buying in larger quantities is so much more economical. We also keep a case of American Family Soap drying out in the attic, because it goes farther in our heavy household cleaning."

No other soap comes to you with this proof of merit—the fact that 4 out of 5 prominent Chicago women find American Family Flakes safest for clothes, most efficient in cleaning and dishwashing. It's the double-suds that makes the difference—in safety—in speed—in the good looks of your hands after housekeeping tasks are finished. Try it and see.

Mrs. Edward J. Brundage

—a Frenchwoman who came to Chicago University for her education; who adores the American woman's freedom and activity; who cannot get enough of golf, swimming, tennis, hunting, fishing, riding; who takes her own thoroughbred horses everywhere—from her beautiful Lake Forest home to her Rock River farm or to Ormond Beach, Florida, for the winter season. She has spent many a summer in a picturesque villa on the coast of France, with her handsome quartet of sons and daughters. As wife of the distinguished lawyer and former Attorney-general of Illinois, she entertains with true French warmth and hospitality, setting a table that is exquisite with French laces and china.

The Flakes—double-sudsing—the only soap trusted with the costly laundry of 4 out of 5 Gold Coast women.

The Cake Soap—double-sudsing—for 90 years used by more Chicago women than all other laundry soaps combined.

It's cheaper to buy good soap than new clothes.

OOKING SCHOOL PENING DRAWS VERFLOW CROWD

,000 Pack Hall to Hear Culinary Expert.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

Five thousand women attended the opening session of THE TRIBUNE School of Cookery yesterday. Several thousand others tried to gain admission but were denied entrance because the Trianon ballroom, 6201 Cottage Grove avenue, where the first week's lectures are being held, seats only 5,000. Although the program did not begin until 1:45 o'clock, as had been announced, women started forming in lines at 9:30 o'clock in the morning. By 11 o'clock there were 500 women awaiting admission at the doors. By 12 o'clock there were several thousand, with more arriving constantly by street car, automobile and on foot.

At 12:20 o'clock, when officials and policemen assigned to the cooking school saw that at least 5,000 women were waiting, the doors were swung open and the crowd entered.

Women Rush for Seats.

Apparently one idea was uppermost in every feminine mind: to reach the front row of seats in the ballroom first. Through the lobby and up the broad flight of stairs leading to the ballroom they came. Upstairs, waiting to usher them to their seats decorously, were men ushers in chefs' uniforms. The women rushed past them, looking for the first seats.

The doors were allowed to remain open less than 30 minutes. Every available seat was filled. Policemen at the doors explained this to the women who gathered in increasing numbers, but it did no good.

"They can't have opened the doors yet," one woman said. "He's only trying to discourage us. I'll get in, you see. I promised George something different for dinner and I'm going to get in."

"I've been here since 12:30," said another at 1:30, when the crowd continued to stand in massed formation before the entrances.

"I'm a south side lady, officer," another woman said, grasping a policeman by the sleeve. "I happen to know that a friend of mine from the west side got in. Now is that fair, when the west side gets its turn in a couple of weeks?"

"I'm sorry, but what can I do?" murmured the policeman.

As late as 4 o'clock, a handful of women remained at one of the entrances. As a performer who had done her part in the entertainment emerged, they clamored, "Now can I get in, officer?"

Gives Pie Demonstration.

Within, the women listened intently to Mrs. Ida M. Chitwood's directions on how to make a pie crust that is neither heavy, nor salty, nor lumpy nor soggy. Mrs. Chitwood is conducting the school in cooperation with Mary Meade, TRIBUNE home economics editor.

As Mrs. Chitwood held up a bowl and showed how, with only the tips of the fingers, one is supposed to crumble the dough lightly when it's in the shortening and flour stage, necks were craned from the balconies and women stood up in the rear of the ballroom.

Making a pie assumed dramatic aspects. A hush fell on the audience when Miss Chitwood, after literally tossing the dought on a flowered board, rolled it lightly from center to edge and then, picking it up, folded it into a ball. There was an excited murmur. Veteran cooks wagged their heads in the negative. The method was new to them.

Ready for the Pan.

"You see this," said Mrs. Chitwood. "Now then, take your dough like this, and spank it hard—once, twice, three times. Now then—" and at this point the dough unrolled and in a jiffy was fitted smoothly in the bottom of a pie pan, which the expert held for all to see.

Immediately the entire mass of 5,000 women burst into laughter. Mrs. Chitwood stopped.

"What is the matter?" she asked.

One voice spoke out:

"It's just that it's so marvelous."

Then another:

"We never saw pie dough treated like that."

Again Mrs. Chitwood rolled dough out, then rolled it up tight and held it in the palm of her hand, spanking it. Then she let it go, and it unfuried itself and settled on a pie pan.

"You may cut windows in your top crust," said Mrs. Chitwood, but I don't."

Makes a Sausage Pie

Just as she made the most familiar pie, apple pie, so did Mrs. Chitwood concoct a sausage pie. A sausage pie, it seems, is not to be eaten for dessert but for a main dish.

The afternoon program opened with a welcome by Phil Maxwell, master of ceremonies. This was followed by community singing, led by Frank Bennett, assisted by Cathryne Bennett at the piano.

Miss Meade introduced Mrs. Chitwood. Both of them pointed out that the audience alone was ample proof that cooking is not a dead or dying art but one most in demand.

Ruth Streeter and Henry Phillips sang several duets and a group of children entertainers from the Ethel and Gertrude Morgan School of Dancing danced. J. Arthur Edmunds, baritone, sang, assisted by Miriam Mims.

Principals from "Girl Crazy," a musical comedy, now playing at the Garrick theater, entertained the audience.

Prizes Are Awarded.

The awarding of prizes concluded the program. More than 100 packages of food, as well as 10 special prizes donated by THE TRIBUNE, were given away, a feature which will be repeated daily during the school. On Friday the grand prizes will be distributed among women who have attended one or more classes previously during the week.

Mrs. Chitwood, in cooperation with Miss Meade, will conduct classes at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon, tomorrow, and Friday in the Trianon ballroom. Women of other parts of the city will attend classes during the following two weeks elsewhere, with the final classes in the Coliseum on Nov. 23 and 24.

NOTES OF COOKING SCHOOL

Two men, in addition to officials, ushers and entertainers, attend the cooking school. King Miller, 704 East 78th street, said he had come just to enjoy it. Arthur J. Cavell, 5331 Lake Park avenue, attended the class with his mother, Mrs. Sarah Ann Cavell, of the same address.

Miss Agnes Sarles, 7009 Harper avenue, the last person to be admitted by policemen, sat on the corner of a marble pillar.

Although Mrs. Emma Bowles, 75 years old, of 7627 East End avenue, couldn't begin to estimate the number of meals she's cooked, she was one of those who came to learn more about cooking. She is the mother of eight children and the grandmother of eight.

In addition to all the prizes, Mrs. Ida Chitwood gave away her coffee souffle pie and a baked ham decorated with pineapple at the close of the program.

The lecturer gave an illustration of how an ambitious wife usually does but never should make pie crust. She whacked her dough with her rolling pin. She banged it down and pressed hard as she rolled it out. This makes the dough so tough that none but the noblest of husbands will eat it, according to Mrs. Chitwood.

One of the ushers remarked at the close of the day: "Well, I haven't done much good around here, but at least I can go home and tell my wife a thing or two about making apple pie."

GUNMAN HOLDS UP TIVOLI THEATER; RECEIPTS SAVED

A young gunman held up three employés of the Tivoli theater, 6329 Cottage Grove avenue, last night, but got only $74. Ten minutes before he entered the theater office the afternoon receipts, $3,000, had been placed in a safe which can be opened only by employés of the express company which collects money from Balaban & Katz theaters.

The bandit entered the theater lobby when it was empty of patrons and found James Allen, chief of service, standing near the door of the office. He forced him inside and there found James Thompson, assistant manager, and Norbert Miller, secretary of the playhouse, who raised their hands at his command.

Thompson opened the safe and gave the robber the money which it contained.

QUITS VOLIVA'S CHURCH; LOCKED UP AS INSANE

State's Attorney A. V. Smith of Waukegan and Police Captain E. W. Casperson of Zion, Ill., engaged in a legal tussle last night before County Judge Harry L. Persons over the custody of Walter Hamon of Zion, 24 years old, married and the father of one child.

"This young man is crazy," asserted Capt. Casperson. "He has quit the Christian Catholic Apostolic church of his fathers and renounced the teachings of Overseer Wilbur Glenn Voliva. He has been attending the revival meetings of a Chicago evangelist. We have had him locked up since last Sunday at request of his parents."

"This young man is no more crazy than I am," declared the Rev. Thomas H. Nelson, independent Protestant minister and Voliva's principal rival in Zion. "Some one's trying to railroad him to the asylum because he dared to tell Voliva what he thought of him."

At the request of State's Attorney Smith the court issued a writ of habeas corpus compelling the Zion police to release Hamon to the custody of the Rev. Mr. Nelson until next Thursday, when a sanity hearing will be opened.

Riverside Woman Kills Herself with Gun in Home

Mrs. Helene F. Fenley, 42 years old, shot and killed herself yesterday in the library of her home, 277 Nuttall road, Riverside. She was the wife of William H. Fenley, western manager of the Kerite Insulated Wire and Cable company. Mr. Fenley said that his wife had been in ill health for two years. There are two children, William H. Fenley Jr., 16 years old, and Robert Hope Fenley, 11.

RAILROADS DENY REPORT OF UNION PARLEY ON WAGES

Refer Labor Request to Separate Groups.

Reports that the Association of Railway Executives would shortly confer with railway labor leaders concerning unemployment and wage stabilization were denied by a spokeman for R. H. Aishton, chairman of the association, yesterday.

A meeting of the American Railway association, of which Mr. Aishton is president, is scheduled for 10 o'clock this morning at the Blackstone hotel, but his spokesman declared that this group would not consider the proposal of the Railway Labor Executives' association for a round table discussion.

Today's meeting will hear reports on operating matters from divisional chairmen and elect officers. No date for a meeting of the Association of Railway Executives has been set.

Aishton Gets Request.

The proposal of the labor leaders was sent to Mr. Aishton yesterday from their convention headquarters in Washington, D. C. Mr. Aishton replied that he had transmitted the request to L. F. Loree, chairman of the Eastern Presidents' conference; W. R. Cole, chairman of the Southeastern Presidents' conference, and J. W. Higgins, chairman of the Western Railway Executives' association, "with the request that they give the matter immediate consideration."

Mr. Aishton also informed D. B. Robertson, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association, that the Association of Railway executives had no jurisdiction over the questions of unemployment and wage stabilization. The reply to Mr. Robertson stated that Alfred P. Thom, general counsel for the association, and Mr. Aishton had been authorized as a committee to confer with the labor leaders regarding matters other than wages.

Consider Pension System.

These matters were said to include legislation proposed by the Washington labor convention and the working out of a general pension system. This meeting is to be held as soon as possible after Mr. Aishton's arrival in Washington tomorrow.

J. E. Gorman, president of the Rock Island railway, yesterday announced that all officers and nonunion employés of the road who receive $3,000 a year or more have accepted a salary cut. It was reported that salary cuts had been discussed on the Santa Fe and the Burlington railways, but that no action had been taken.

Pay Rewards in Robbery Conviction of Niemoth

Three residents of Baltimore, Md., yesterday were paid rewards for their aid in the capture and conviction of Willie Niemoth, Chicago gangster, who took part in a $46,000 pay roll robbery at the Henry Sonneborn company plant in Baltimore on Oct. 1, 1930. Niemoth is now serving a ten year term in the Maryland penitentiary. The total paid the trio who aided the authorities was $833.33. They are Robert Speller, colored; Mrs. Emily Brown and Frederick H. Bock.

As a Horseshoe Tosser Anthony Wins a Cell

Anthony Fritz, 1232 Cornelia avenue, who seized a horseshoe as an impromptu weapon and scored a ringer on the nose of Frank Deyaert, 1952 Humboldt boulevard, was sent to the Bridewell for thirty days yesterday by Municipal Judge Robert E. McMillan. Deyaert appeared in court with his nose broken and swathed in bandages, and charged that Fritz, who was intoxicated, picked up the horseshoe from a news stand and struck him following a quarrel in a restaurant.

British Jobless Total Drops 11,786 in a Week's Time

LONDON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—England's unemployed on Oct. 26 totaled 2,726,092, a decrease of 11,786 from the previous week, but 488,591 more than at the same time a year ago.

AFFORDS TOUR OF EUROPE; CAN AFFORD ALIMONY

Allen Golinkin, president of the General Outdoor Lighting company, appealed to Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude yesterday for a reduction of the $50 a week temporary alimony he is paying Mrs. Mabelle Alice Golinkin, 3520 Sheridan road, pending trial of her suit for separate maintenance.

"Business is terrible," he pleaded.

"Didn't you take a trip to Europe this summer?" demanded Benjamin B. Davis, the wife's attorney. Golinkin admitted that he had.

"Did you go alone?" Davis asked. Golinkin stood on his constitutional rights and refused to answer.

"In that case," Judge Trude said, "the petition to reduce alimony is denied, and the defendant must pay $400 in arrears by tomorrow morning, or go to jail."

Attorney Davis told the court that Golinkin had obtained a passport for himself and "wife, Gladys." Mrs. Golinkin in her bill names Gladys Harris as co-respondent.

PLOT TO DEFRAUD BANKER CHARGED AS 4 ARE SOUGHT

Fred [The Deacon] Buckminster, pal of Yellow Kid Weil, was sought by authorities last night as the leader of a gang who tried to defraud Chauncey J. Jones, millionaire chairman of the board of the First National bank of Waukegan, of $15,000 worth of securities.

One of the men named in the warrants sworn out by Mr. Jones is Charles J. Clark, 62 years old. This man is thought by police to be the silver-haired Buckminster. "Clark" and a man represented as his son are reported to have gone to Jones several weeks ago with a story of untold wealth in their South American oil wells.

According to reports, the Clarks told Jones that they needed some money to develop their wells. Jones is reported to have given them $15,000 worth of stock on the understanding that it would be used as collateral on a loan, but the men tried to sell it outright.

Besides Clark and his "son," the warrants name George W. Fay and J. J. Adams. Their part in the scheme has not been revealed. The warrants were sent to the Chicago detective bureau by the Waukegan police.

ITALY THAWS OUT BILLIONS IN BANK REORGANIZATION

Business Magnates Take Over Frozen Assets.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MILAN, Italy, Nov. 3.—The directors of the Banca Commerciale Italiana, Italy's leading banking institution, which is estimated to hold three-fourths of Italy's wealth, today adopted measures to "thaw out" several billion lire of frozen industrial securities. The bank had become loaded with these frozen assets as a result of the function which had devolved on it of salvaging business activities and rescuing industrial enterprises which were in difficulties.

This step, it is understood, is a prelude to other adjustments which will lead to a further fusion of banking institutions. It is proposed to strengthen them by centralizing them through the Bank of Italy, or possibly in some other way. It is reported that Guiseppe Toeplitz, for many years head of the Banca Commerciale Italiana, may shortly retire.

Holdings Are Transferred.

Today's action is regarded as having vastly strengthened the bank by putting it in a position of 100 per cent liquidity, enabling it to devote its operations strictly to banking activities. It will be relieved of its former task of resuscitating industry.

The industrial holdings of the Banca Commerciale Italiana, according to today's decision, will be transferred to a new society for industrial financing, whose capital will be assured by a group of Italian business magnates. The transfer, it is announced, will be made in such a manner as not to depress market quotations and values.

Furthermore, it was announced, the consortium which now holds most of the Banca Commerciale Italiana's stock will acquire the remaining stock in the bank which at present it not held by it.

Will Ease Credit Conditions.

Today's readjustment is expected to ease credit conditions, enabling the bank to dispose of its resources, which were formerly tied up in industries. Banking circles declare that the reorganization corresponds with the new trend now being followed by the financial world to meet the crisis caused by overproduction.

The readjustment was not reflected in stock prices, since all Italian markets are closed until Thursday because of the holidays on the occasion of the ninth anniversary of the march on Rome.

For some time the Banca Commerciale has been the subject of criticism for its reported discord with the existing monetary policy. "From now on," says Il Giornale d'Italia tonight, "all banking institutions will follow the Bank of Italy's policy, directed by the Fascist government, of firmly resisting inflation tendencies."

Fifty barrels of gold arrived from the United States today for the Bank of Italy's vaults.

Fined $100 for Illegal Sale of Copyright Songs

Samuel Gordon, 24 years old, 1043 Bryn Mawr avenue, was fined $100 yesterday by Judge J. William Brooks in the Boys' court for distributing a song sheet on which the words, slightly altered, of fifty copyrighted songs were printed. Charles Paul, 18 years old, 618 North Clark street, who admitted selling the sheets for Gordon at 10 cents apiece, was fined $25 and costs.

ECONOMIC BOARD FOR STABILIZING INDUSTRY URGED

Should Have Power to Enforce Rulings.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—The organization of a council representing industry, labor, and the public to formulate plans for production and employment and force the building up of financial reserves to cope with depressive conditions was asked on behalf of labor today by Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, who testified before a special committee of the senate.

Mr. Hillman was invited by Chairman Robert M. La Follette, radical Republican, Wisconsin, to discuss the latter's proposed bill providing for the formation of a national economic council to advise business as to industrial trends. His own plan was presented as an elaboration of the La Follette plan to cope with present emergency conditions.

The council advocated by Mr. Hillman differed from Senator La Follette's in that it would be granted powers to force adoption of its methods under the supervision of congress.

Wants Responsibility Fixed.

"Definite responsibility should be placed on this instrumentality," said Mr. Hillman, "to adjust production so that employment can be found for any person willing to work, so that standards of living will be maintained and consuming power created sufficient to match our productive capacity and so that a method will be found of bringing about general planning for industry. Through lack of planning we in the clothing industry and in other industries have been building up only to see our resources squandered and our work largely destroyed in times such as these."

Mr. Hillman denounced the "degrading" forms of charity which he said had been made necessary to feed and clothe the needy.

"National economic planning is essential to any reconstruction program," he said. "However, the council that does the planning must be responsible to congress or we shall have a fascist dictatorship. The idea of minimizing the effects of the depressions, which has been going on in certain quarters since 1929, has been responsible for a great deal of the conditions today. It has been like old days when people accepted plagues as an act of God and did nothing to prevent them. Our plauge now is a plague of planlessness in industry, and unless you can get constructive plans there always will be depressions."

Criticizes Railroads.

The committee heard severe criticism of the railroads during the testimony of D. E. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Firemen and Enginemen, the other witness heard today, who testified that with the exception of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad's "shop plan" no effort has been made by railroad managements before or since the depression set in to care for men displaced by technological improvements. The B. & O. plan was described as consisting of a guaranteed minimum of work for twelve month periods.

The trainmen have voluntarily cut their own working time, to as much as half normal working time in some instances, in order to spread the available work among more men, Mr. Robertson testified. He estimated that "there are 40,000 or 50,000 more men employed in railroading than there would be without this voluntary spreading around of work."

Burglar Locks Woman and Baby in Closet

Returning to her apartment at 6940 Jeffery avenue last night, Mrs. Harold Ross encountered a Negro burglar, who drew a gun, took from her two rings valued at $800 and a $400 fur coat, and fled after locking the woman and her 1 year old daughter in a clothes closet. Neighbors released them.

SHAW'S EGOTISM BRIGHTEST SPOT OF SOVIET TRIP

Speaker Describes His Talks to Reds.

One of the vivid impressions Miss Gertrude Ely got out of her trip through Russia with George Bernard Shaw, Lady Astor and others, was that the egotism of the literary lion who headed the party was "so perfectly, beautifully commanding and complete" that it made him a fascinating subject for study.

The spectacle of the Shavian self-satisfaction was much more intriguing than irritating, Miss Ely told her audience yesterday in an address at the Casino club.

Shaw Talks on Own Charms.

"For instance, on one occasion he informed a crowd of Russians to whom he was speaking," she said, "that one of the worst experiences of living was being compelled to associate with humans. He was expansive on the subject of the many women who had fallen in love with him, discouraing with much humor on the various reasons why so many of them had fallen victims to his charms."

Although the general impression of the journey made by Shaw's group through soviet Russia was that the members were guests of the government, and therefore in duty bound to say polite things about the country, the fact was that each paid his or her own way, Miss Ely said.

Reception at Red Square.

Shaw's reception in the Red square at Moscow was participated in by many thousands of curious persons, the speaker related. Enthusiasm for Shaw reached such a pitch that amid the bedlam of bands and shouts, flag waving and pushing, the other members of the group not only were completely ignored but were actually endangered by the disorder.

Mrs. William Gold Hibbard, president of the Illinois League of Women Voters, under whose auspices Miss Ely appeared, was chairman for the occasion and introduced the speaker, who was also her guest.

LA SALLE, ILL., BROKE, FIRES POLICE FORCE; BUT THEY WORK ON

La Salle, Ill., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—In defiance of the La Salle council's edict that all street lights be turned off and that all police and other city employé except three firemen and waterworks employés abandon their duties, due to the city's financial crisis, Commissioner Frank Reinke, head of the department of public works, ordered the lights on tonight, while members of the police force volunteered their services to give citizens police protection.

At a council meeting last night Mayor H. M. Orr and council members ordered everything shut down and employés relieved with the exception of three fire truck drivers and waterworks employés. Unable to get credit at local banks at this time, the order for radical economy was adopted. City employés have not been paid for the last eight weeks.

Local bankers, following this move on the part of the council, said that they would not give aid at "the point of a gun." Willingness to aid in a reasonable manner was announced.

Mayor Orr stated that it would be "up to Reinke," if he allows the lights to be turned on in opposition to the council agreement. He must stand the responsibility and face other council members, he said.

Chief of Police Walloch, Patrolmen Franke Mallie, and Ed Ryan were on their "beats," seeing that law and order is maintained. Others of the force were expected to report for duty at their regular hours.

County Treasurer Smith announced today that the city has but $7,601 due from taxes, but a small part of the money needed to carry on city government. Unless banks here come to the aid of the city, there is little hope of the financial muddle being cleared up, city officials said today.

Investigate Bombing of Flat Owned by Widow

The Austin police are investigating the bombing early yesterday of a two flat building at 1411 North Hamlin avenue. There were twenty-five persons, sixteen of them children, in the building when the blast occurred on the front doorstep. Mrs. Philomena Diasio, 32 years old, a widow, is owner of the building.

BANKER WITNESS FOUND; CHARGES INTIMIDATION

Edmund H. Glos, 40 years old, president of the defunct Citizens' State bank of Melrose Park, who has been sought as a state's witness in an embezzlement case, appeared at the state's attorney's office yesterday. His attorney, Francis Hinkley, said that Glos had been intimidated.

When Assistant State's Attorney Henry E. Ayers had finished questioning Glos, he announced that he would "turn Melrose Park and Maywood upside down to get to the bottom of this intimidation." He would not reveal the nature of the alleged threats, but hinted that the chiefs of police of both suburbs might be questioned by the grand jury. Glos lives in Maywood.

Glos, who had been missing for a month, is the state's star witness against Charles J. Wolf, a former president of the same bank, accused of a $58,000 embezzlement. A motion of the defense to quash the indictment will be decided when the case comes up for trial before Judge Walter T. Stanton in the Criminal court on Nov. 13.

"— take the slight trouble beforehand to see what the market really affords"

The time to be critical is BEFORE you buy!

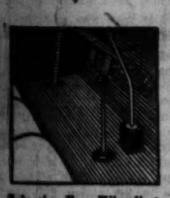
SOMEWHAT more than a million persons, in the next few months, will be buying new motor cars.

Of this number, a surprising majority will buy virtually "sight unseen."

They will have read an advertisement here and there, listened to garage gossip and curbstone counsel, perhaps have had what the salesman calls a "demonstration."

Later, some will be happy and satisfied with their choice—but some will grow critical and wish they had "looked around" a little more.



Selective Free Wheeling—Hudson and Essex drivers can "select" to free wheel or not, according to the road. On the straightaway and rolling highways you can enjoy the floating speed and gas-economy of free wheeling. Descending steep grades where you need the engine's extra braking power, a convenient control near the clutch lever throws the motor into conventional gear—instantly—without clashing. An optional feature

If you feel that in these times the sizable investment required in a motor car deserves more than casual thought, this message is addressed to you.

We want you to visit our showrooms, inspect and investigate Hudson and Essex cars in detail, make some real comparisons before you decide what car to buy.

We promise you that the experience will be educative and well worth your while; it may even get you more for your money than you otherwise could.

If we weren't pretty confident that our cars have something special to offer, something entitled to your careful attention, we wouldn't be buying this valuable advertising space to tell you about it.

Hudson has grown up in the automobile business from a very small company to a very large one.

It has been able to do this without mergers or consolidations by steadily keeping a little ahead of the procession.

Controlled and administered today by the same group of men which launched the company a quarter century ago, it is now perhaps the most mobile, manageable and progressive large unit in the industry.

Startix, the Automatic Self-Starter—a new safety feature available at slight extra cost—makes Hudson and Essex motors stall-proof. Should you stall your motor on hills or in traffic, Startix restarts it—instantly and automatically. Operated by the ignition lock, Startix starts your motor the moment you turn the switch, and keeps it going as long as the ignition is "on"

It builds superior values in good cars in what is probably the best-equipped plant in America—a plant with greater production capacity per foot of floor space than any other in the business.

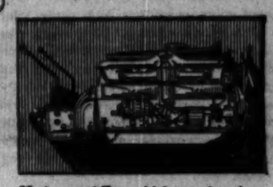
The famous Hudson compensated inherently balanced crankshaft is the most accurately balanced crankshaft in use today—so satin-smooth and vibrationless in action that it eliminates the need for cushioning vibration as needed in the case of many other cars

The Lubricated Cork Cushion Clutch is an exclusive patented feature of Hudson and Essex cars. A clutch is strictly a friction device. Cork is the finest friction material known. Lubrication is absolutely necessary to preserve the durability of any friction surface. Lubricated cork inserts in the Hudson and Essex clutch "cushion" as the clutch engages, giving a soft, velvety shift, without jar or chatter, especially when going from free wheeling into gear

The time to be critical of a motor car is before you buy.

Don't be herded into an unthinking purchase. Take the slight trouble beforehand to see what the market really affords—it may save you disappointment and cash. Go over Hudson and Essex cars critically and carefully—not to include them in your consideration is tantamount to buying with your eyes shut.

In engineering, construction and performance you will find them rich and distinguished in those characteristic advancements which have given Hudson the reputation in the trade year after year of "pacing the industry."



Hudson and Essex high-speed engines are the highest compression power units in use today, operating on standard fuels. The eight-cylinder Hudson "Greater Eight" develops 87 horsepower at 3600 r. p. m.; the Essex "Super Six," 60 horsepower at 3300 r. p. m. So efficient is Hudson and Essex engine design, owners may use ordinary gasoline without annoyance from engine knock

In the long roll of contributions to the art of the motor car Hudson has more than sixty important "first's" to its credit.

Duoflo Automatic Oiling System—another exclusive Hudson and Essex development. An oversize aviation type pump forces two simultaneous streams of oil (A and B) to the front and rear of the engine, drenching every bearing in a continuous spray of fresh oil. Oil returns (C) to pump from a series of cooling baffles which reduce its temperature 45°, keeping it from thinning out with heat and reducing oil consumption

These range all the way from the first Sedan and Coach bodies, from the first compensated inherently balanced crankshaft, to the variety of desirable innovations which individualize the cars today.

This habit and practice of leading the field in developing improvements which enhance the satisfaction of motor car ownership has given rise in the industry to the saying: "Watch Hudson!"

For the man who intends to buy a motor car in the popular price range today there could be no sounder advice. Hudson Motor Car Company, Detroit, Michigan.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

CRITICISM AND THE COURT OF INQUIRY.

President Hoover has selected his court of inquiry to examine the statements of William Howard Gardiner, president of the Navy league, which were denounced as false. Admiral Hugh Rodman will be chairman. The other judges will be Johns Hays Hammond, Ernest Lee Jahncke, assistant secretary of the navy; Undersecretary of State William R. Castle Jr., and Eliot Wadsworth, former assistant secretary of the treasury. All are friends of the President. The court of inquiry will engage itself, according to announcement, only with the statements to which the President took exception in the Navy league pamphlet of Oct. 28.

Mr. Hoover charges that Mr. Gardiner has misrepresented navy conditions and made false statements with the purpose of obstructing the economy measures of the administration. Ordinarily, when a President feels that the opposition has been untruthful or unfair he either personally makes a statement clearing the record or a spokesman important in his party undertakes to handle the situation, expose whatever malice may be involved and refute whatever misstatements may have been made.

There are ordinary ways in political or governmental controversy by which an administration maintains its side. Opposition means criticism and it is intended that government shall be subjected to it. Criticism may at times be misinformed and it may at times be malicious.

Mr. Gardiner has offended Mr. Hoover by saying that his otherwise fine mind "falters before his emotional humanitarianism and 'congenital pacifism,'" by saying that he had been led "into abysmal ignorance of why navies are maintained" and by saying that the agreements reached in the Rapidan meeting with Mr. MacDonald "have never been officially divulged in their entirety." Part of Mr. Gardiner's offense lies in the expression of his opinion; part of it is in the statement of what he avers are facts.

Mr. Hoover has replied by appointing the court of inquiry to receive proof that the Navy league president is wrong and that the purpose of the opposition to the navy economy is reprehensible. Mr. Hoover anticipates that this proof will be convincing and that Mr. Gardiner will be compelled to acknowledge his wrongdoing and apologize. Similar procedure was employed when William B. Shearer offended the administration by his work against navy reductions. He was taken before a senate court of inquiry after the President had referred the case to the attorney general.

The disposition to meet criticism with a court of inquiry controlled by the government must be viewed with misgivings. It throws the weight of the President's office upon the neck of private citizens and the method unpleasantly suggests the star chamber, the ecclesiastical courts of high commission and our own American sedition act, which endeavored to make citizens criminally liable for their criticism of government and government officials.

A critic must expect to be held responsible for the sincerity and accuracy of his utterances. An exposure of unreliability can always be made by the government without recourse to the inquisition. Theodore Roosevelt was forever thundering his opponents and ill-wishers into the Ananias club. In controversy the head of the government has always the advantage which attaches to his office.

In the procedure which Mr. Hoover adopts there must be an intimation that critics should beware lest they put themselves in a very uncomfortable spot. That picture is one not of refuting criticism but of suppressing it.

CRANE JUNIOR COLLEGE.

The governor has included in his legislative call the matter of the Crane Junior college. Some doubt has arisen regarding the right of the board of education to operate a college. The special session presumably will decide the matter by authorizing or not authorizing the board to provide collegiate training.

The legislature has been called primarily to solve Chicago's financial difficulties. Among the most pressing are those of the public school system. There is not enough money on hand to pay the teachers all that is due them. Recent efforts to economize have resulted in larger classes with the inevitable consequence of inferior instruction. Any money which the Chicago board of education appropriates for a college is money taken from the children in the lower grades for whose education the school system was called into being.

If the city had made adequate provision for the grade schools and high schools and still had funds available there might be some justification for the operation of a free college. The fact is, of course, that the teachers are unpaid and the cost of high schools is becoming so oppressive that many students of educational problems are convinced that it will soon be necessary either to limit enrollment in the high schools to the abler pupils or charge tuition for high school training.

Under these circumstances it is idle to think of maintaining a free college.

REPRESENTATIVE GOVERNMENT IN ILLINOIS.

Judge Shurtleff in the Circuit court in Boone county has issued an injunction restraining the secretary of state from receiving petitions from candidates and printing ballots for elections in the new congressional districts of the state as established in the reapportionment by the legislature. Judge Shurtleff held that inequalities in the population of the various districts so conflicted with the requirement of equal representation that the act must be held invalid. The reapportionment was the first since 1901, and by grouping Cook, Lake, Will, and Du Page counties it gave the metropolitan area fourteen of the state's twenty-seven congressmen.

In this recognition of the concentration of population the act tended toward a restoration of equality in representation, but the court found it failed to satisfy the political rights of some citizens. It was pointed out that the Fifth district in Chicago would have 521,000 voters and the Seventeenth district, downstate, would have 158,000. The court's comment was that "this makes the vote of a Seventeenth district citizen almost three times as powerful as the vote of a Fifth district resident." An appeal to the Supreme court may be hastened to get an early clarification of the situation.

The act held to be invalid for its inequalities nevertheless set up a more equitable political condition than prevailed before under the old reapportionment, and the principle upon which Judge Shurtleff insists in his opinion is violated so outrageously in the other apportionment of the state—that for the election of members of the state legislature—that actual destruction of the representative system is involved.

Although the court seeks a remedy for the political inequities of the new congressional apportionment act, no legal safeguard has been found which will protect the citizens of Cook county from part disfranchisement and loss of their rights under the old senatorial apportionment act long outlawed by the constitution, but preserved in the stubbornness and selfishness of downstate politicians who have the illegal legislative votes in the general assembly.

In the case just decided the court upheld as essential to the representative system a principle which has almost disappeared in Illinois government. A new act of the legislature created new inequalities, although fewer and less discriminating than the inequalities which were wiped out by the act, and the court intervenes, but law has not found a way to dispose of the inequities which time and legislative disregard of law have put into apportionment now in force.

Here is a fault in government which goes to the ground floor of American liberties. The most valuable political right, the issue in the long struggle of English speaking people, can be disregarded and the injured people have not been able to find a remedy for it. They have tried law and they have tried the consciences of the political elements which do them the injustice. They have suffered seriously at times from the impairment of their privileges. Their lack of full representation has counted heavily against them and illegal authority has levied on their possessions.

In American theory such a situation could not arise—an injury without a remedy—but for years in Illinois the principle declared by Judge Shurtleff to be imperative and not to be disregarded by a legislature has been cast aside. The state constitution says this shall not be, but the constitution has been inoperative. The representative system of government is not in effect in Illinois because the representative system depends upon an equitable ratio. That is not applied.

The people of the metropolitan districts, containing a majority of the citizenship, may be driven to take control of the governor's office to protect themselves from legislation.

THE AIR SHOW.

The flying show to be held in Grant park on Sunday for the benefit of the Joint Emergency Relief fund will present to the public the latest and best work of airplane designers and the most skillful piloting which America has produced. Never before, we think, has such a show been staged at a place so easy of access.

The exhibitions will equal, if they do not surpass, anything which has been offered at the national air races, and the setting will be incomparably more stirring. The sight of scores of planes maneuvering now over the lake, now over the skyscrapers, should be unforgettable. Children will have reason to remember the afternoon as long as they live.

The long experience of handling automobile traffic at Soldiers' field is an assurance that there will be a minimum of traffic congestion in entering and leaving the park. A maximum of enjoyment and a minimum of inconvenience are in prospect.

ABOLISHING TOWNSHIPS.

[Danville Commercial News.]

The abolition of townships as a means of reducing taxes and simplifying local government is advocated in many quarters, and strong arguments are offered in support of the proposal. Some proposals go further and would wipe out county organizations.

Addressing the County Commissioners' Association of Indiana, Will A. Hough, former member of the state board of tax commissioners of the Hoosier state, favored the elimination of all township lines as a method of reducing real and property tax. He would establish a county board of education to take over schools now managed by township trustees. He would place the management of all township roads with the county highway superintendent under the supervision of the board of county commissioners.

He would place the care of the poor in charge of a county board of charities, and establish road districts for the issuance of bonds and construction of highways, with limitations on bond issues such as are now imposed upon townships.

A similar plan might easily be adopted in Illinois, or in any other state. In early days the township organization was almost a necessity, at least it was a convenience and met the needs of the pioneers. Such needs no longer exist, yet taxpayers are still supporting the machinery and complaining about the high cost of government.

NEEDED SUNSHINE.

THE number of hours of sunshine per year varies in different parts of the world. Dr. V. E. Levine, writing in the Archives of Physical Therapy, says that Phoenix has more sunshine than any other of about fifty cities located in various parts of the world. It has 3,753 hours of sunshine a year, as compared with 1,086 for Glasgow and 1,127 for London. The record given for some other cities in the western hemisphere is as follows:

Kingston, Jamaica, 3,160; Port au Prince, Haiti, 3,056; San Diego, 3,049; Tampa, 2,948; Denver, 2,946; San Francisco, 2,878; Honolulu, 2,840; San Juan, Porto Rico, 2,740; Bismarck, N. D., 2,700; Chicago, 2,632; Washington, 2,598; New York, 2,587; New Orleans, 2,519; Spokane, 2,492; Colon, Canal Zone, 2,413; Port of Spain, Trinidad, 2,245; Ancon, Canal Zone, 2,155; Portland, 2,095; Toronto, 2,048; Seattle, 2,022. Most European cities have fewer hours of sunshine than those given above.

Duration is not the only standard of measurement to be applied in sunshine. Dr. Levine illustrates that point as follows: "New York has approximately the same number of hours of sunshine during the winter months of February and March as has London during the months of June, July, and August. Nevertheless, rickets develops during the winter in New York, whereas it undergoes healing in London during the summer. The sunshine, however, differs in quality and intensity, and that of London summer has a greater percentage of the radiation specific in rickets."

There is another disease that results from deficiency of exposure to sunshine. It is osteomalacia, or softening of the bones, and it is especially apt to develop in mature persons. In India, where some follow a caste custom called purdah, there is much osteomalacia. It is the women, especially, who are forbidden by purdah to allow sunlight to strike them, and it is among the women of the castes who practice purdah that osteomalacia is most prevalent.

All we know of osteomalacia teaches us the need of plenty of sunshine to prevent softening of an adult's bones. Indian experience shows that customs with respect to the use of sunshine must be taken into consideration also. Certain features of climate enter into the question. If the winter climate is very cold the people will not go out in the sunshine in those months in which they need it most. If the summer weather is very hot some people will stay too much in the shade.

The amount of moisture and dust in the air are factors of some importance, aside from their direct relation to luminosity and radioactivity of the light.

And, finally, topography is of some slight importance. A city on a hill top or on a mountain side may have light of a somewhat different quality as compared with a city located in a hemmed in valley.

SELF-TRAINING THE CURE.

1. How may a person learn to overcome a fear? If I am at work I seem to forget about it, although if I am idle, or if I worry the least bit, it will always come back. At times, too, I realize how silly it is, but I just can't seem to forget it.
2. What form of work would you suggest?
3. Would nervousness have anything to do with it?
4. Would swimming or physical exercise be of any help?

REPLY.

1. This is a matter of training. Some can train themselves. Certain books are of service in self-training. So is religion. Some require help in institutions or in classes.
2. Whatever work interests you is the best for you.
3. Yes—whatever nervousness is.

RECEIVERS' DUTIES.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Is a receiver obliged by law to levy an assessment on the stockholders of a defunct bank? P. F. W.

No. The creditors are the proper persons to enforce the stockholders' liability. It is not necessary to show first that the bank's assets are insufficient. Our highest court has often held that a bank stockholder's liability is primary and not secondary, which means that the stockholder's liability may be enforced immediately without waiting for the ascertainment of the extent of the deficiency of the bank's assets.

DIES INTESTATE.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My mother died without leaving a will. She left improved property on which I am living. My brother and I are the sole heirs. All obligations, etc., have been paid jointly by us and there remains only the homestead, which is unencumbered. [1] Can probate proceedings tending toward joint tenancy b initiated at this time? [2] Will the services of a lawyer be necessary in this case? [3] If affirmative in the above what would you consider reasonable charges for legal service? [4] Is the writer obligated to pay rent to his brother who lives in another state?

L. J.

1. Yes.
2. The statute does not expressly require it but, ordinarily, it is advisable.
3. Depends on the amount of labor involved and the standing of the attorney.
4. If the parties cannot agree then, presumably, proceedings will ultimately be necessary, and a fair rental figure should be charged against your share of the proceeds. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

POOR STREET LIGHTING.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—[Friend of the People.]—Would like to know where we can get a few lights in this neighborhood. On McVicker and Austin avenues there is only one light on each street in the block, running from Higgins avenue to Foster avenue. Also on Foster avenue [west] to Higgins there is only a light here and there. One lone light and then inky blackness for a block is not very pleasant. J. L.

A survey shows that these streets are now unpaved and average about 25 per cent built up. This does not justify electric street lighting. At the present time the department is without funds to extend its system of gas lamps. Therefore, I am unable to promise any immediate relief on Higgins, Foster, McVicker, and Austin avenues. W. A. Jackson, Commissioner, Department of Gas and Electricity.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

OLD MAN PROSPERITY peeked around from the corner where he's been hiding since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, and he saw women in ermines and satins and sparkling with diamonds and rubies and all the other jewels of the mine, and gentlemen with them in magnificent evening dress, starched white boiler plate fronts, silk hats, and everything. "Whoopee!" yelled Old Man Prosperity, "good times are here again. Look out! here I come, right back where I started from." He bounded down the street, but four or five blocks away he was arrested by two policemen and jailed for vagrancy. "I guess," said Old Man Prosperity as he sat in his gloomy cell, "I tried to cover too much ground."

UP TO THE HOUR of going to press (for this column of calumny) the count had not been completed and we do not know whether Justice and Truth conquered yesterday or the Forces of Darkness and Evil! This must not be construed in any manner as a reflection upon either Gov. Roosevelt, Mr. Smith, or any of the congressional candidates. Those who support the winners in our quaint system of elections in America always insist that Justice and Truth have won, while those who are associated with the losing side as stoutly maintain that for the time being at least the Forces of Darkness are triumphant.

THE REPORTERS were filled with exceeding joy when they discovered that the wife of a restaurant cook who has fallen heir to three million dollars was down on her knees scrubbing the floor when she got the news. What she did after that the enraptured newswriters don't say, but inasmuch as her inheritance was three million bucks may we not infer that the lady ceased scrubbing the floor? However, the reporters should not leave us up in the air like that.

BILL HOHENZOLLERN of Doorn, Holland, who used to have a good job in Berlin, is said to be desolated because there are no more trees on his place that he can cut down. And another and more illustrative example of the human ambition to chop down as many trees as possible was the English statesman, Gladstone. Why do men love to chop down trees when they could get as much exercise playing golf or digging ditches? Maybe it's the inferiority complex. A man says to himself: "There stands a great tree; it's two or three hundred years old. It's something that we humans can't possibly duplicate. It's big and tall and handsome, and I'm only a poor, weak mortal. But, by golly, I can get an ax and chop that tree down in an hour! Yes, an hour, but it was two or three hundred years growing." So he gets the ax and chops away and then with a roar of dreadful grief the mighty tree falls and the man wipes the sweat off his forehead and tells himself what a great man he is to conquer the mighty tree, and he climbs up on the dead monarch and gets photographed with the deadly ax in his hands.

Why wouldn't it be better for the man to plant trees? Because there's nothing heroic about planting a tree, no swinging ax, no lusty blows, no great deafening crash at the end. And while the world loves the man who chops a tree down they think a man who plants an acorn from which a tree will grow is just plain nertz. We're a queer lot, we humans.

THE NAVAL BATTLE OF 1931

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 4, 1915.

PEKING.—A return to the monarchial form of government in China with President Yuan Shih-kai as emperor is practically assured. Returns of the election held on Oct. 20 have been received from a majority of the eighteen provinces, which show they voted unanimously for a monarchy, and there seems no reason to believe the results were different in the remaining provinces.

BERLIN.—The foreign press recently has been issuing reports of the scarcity of food in Germany and of an impending famine, alleging that the recent measures of the government to establish maximum prices for foodstuffs prove this. All these reports are incorrect, and Germany's enemies are once more doomed to disappointment since food for the German nation is just as assured now as during the last fourteen months.

PETROGRAD.—On the eastern battle front the Russians have thrown the Germans back in the struggle for Riga, the chief Russian seaport on the Baltic, and Dvinsk, the junction of the railway leading to Petrograd. Berlin admits the Germans have been forced to retreat in the region of Dvinsk before heavy Russian attacks.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 4, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Public humiliation before the eyes of 1,000 visitors was meted out to Father Jeremiah J. Crowley, the excommunicated Roman Catholic priest, at Holy Name cathedral yesterday. The papal decree, issued through Cardinal Martinelli, excluding Father Crowley from all public services of the church, was enforced when the expelled priest walked defiantly up the aisle of the cathedral during the celebration of high mass and took a seat near the altar. The Rev. Francis J. Barry, acting pastor of the cathedral, asked Father Crowley to leave at once and the deposed priest refused. Father Barry then announced that owing to the presence of an excommunicated priest the high mass would be discontinued. The altar boys marched out through a side door, the choir filed out, and the hundreds of incandescent lights in the vaulted arch were extinguished. The celebration of low mass followed.

CHICAGO.—Two Chicago pastors preached their farewell sermons. They are the Rev. Frank Crane, pastor of the Hyde Park Methodist-Episcopal church, and Dr. H. W. Thomas of the People's church. Men and women wept at McVicker's theater as the venerable Dr. Thomas offered the final prayer for the welfare of the church.

CHICAGO.—Chicago is shivering. The temperature suddenly fell more than thirty degrees to 24 and the tranquil Indian summer gave way to rain and snow.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

NOVEMBER 4, 1881.

WASHINGTON.—Guiteau's lawyer made an application in the Criminal court for an order to compel District Attorney Corkhill to hand over to him certain letters, newspaper scraps, and the pistol taken from the assassin at the time of his arrest. It is thought that Guiteau's counsel wants the newspaper clippings, which are principally from the Stalwart papers, to show that Guiteau was so influenced by reading them that he thought it a patriotic duty to kill President Garfield.

DUBLIN.—Miss Helen Taylor, daughter of the great English political economist, the late John Stuart Mill, is assisting Miss Anna Parnell in organizing Ladies' Land leagues in Ireland. In a speech in Dublin Miss Taylor said: "Never did Austria permit in her provinces in Italy any atrocities to be compared with those now perpetrated in Ireland under the Gladstone administration."

PARIS.—People of Alsace and Lorraine are evidently dissatisfied with German rule and are quite anxious to get back under French government. At the recent elections the pro-French candidates were elected from every constituency in the two provinces. The French press expresses satisfaction over the result.

THE FARMER AS SPECULATOR.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—In your editorial today, "The Farmer as Speculator," you bemoan the fact that the farmer wants to become a bull speculator in the grain market by borrowing money in order to hold his corn for higher prices. You don't think it is right that he should borrow money for that purpose, but you do think it is all right to borrow to buy live stock in order to feed the corn in hopes of getting more for his corn in the form of meat. In view of the fact that the farmer does not always get what he expected for his live stock, he is simply speculating in a different form. Many farmers and live stock feeders have gone broke the last few years trying to get more for corn by feeding it than by holding it as grain until prices justified selling.

I also wish to take exception to your statement that "the successful farmer is not likely to be the successful speculator." I claim that the successful farmer is the successful speculator, since farming is the greatest speculation and gamble on earth.

W. WOLTER SEAMAN.

A PRESCRIPTION FOR PEACE.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 31.—Bismarck once said: "As a rule, the majority has no leaning toward war. War is enkindled by the minority and, in absolute states, by rulers and cabinets."

As Europe gives us our world wars, it follows that our greatest need is a limited referendum in Europe as regards the declaration of war. That is, before a government declares an aggressive war it should be required to first ask a vote of confidence from its own people.

A law on the statute books of Europe granting the people of any country the right to vote on war before their country could take the initiative is the only preventive of war in times of actual crises. The same statute could say that the limited referendum be set aside in case a country is trespassed against.

To institute a limited referendum in all countries, an international institution, a peace council, is necessary; and if America is not willing to join the league of nations for such purposes then let's have the peace council on American soil. Its covenant should call for counsel and peace—nothing more. It could be located at Washington, our seat of government; at Indianapolis, near our center of population, or at Kansas City, near our geographic center, to say nothing of Chicago, near the future center of interest of the entire North American continent.

If you establish a limited referendum against war in Europe the country that starts war in opposition to the people's rights will have a scrap at home rather than a scrap of paper. It is the force of public opinion at home rather than the show of force from abroad that will prevent international war. America's greatest need is a limited referendum in Europe. C. F. ADAMS.

NAVY DAY.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—I have read articles in several newspapers about 600,000 school children taking part in Navy day exercises here in Chicago. I would be pleased to know which of the schools had these exercises. I have two children, one a fourth grade pupil at the Falconer school and one a third year student at the Carl Schurz High school, neither of whom ever heard of Navy day until I told them of it. GEO. F. SCHULTZ.

REBELS.

Chicago, Nov. 1.—Federal Judge Wilkinson calls Capone and his followers rebels. That is what the English judges called George Washington and his soldiers. Capone and thousands like him are fighting laws far more obnoxious than the British parliament ever saddled on the American colonies. L. N. F.

FROM CHESTER CLEVELAND.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—In an editorial in today's TRIBUNE entitled "Another Defeat for the City's Experts" you make this statement:

"Previously, in the 5 cent fare litigation, Chester Cleveland, paid at the rate of $150 a day, received more than $75,000 between 1920 and 1922, when the case was decided against the city."

In the first place, the plain implication is that the pay to me was made for some political reason. Permit me to say that my appointment to the work was not made through any political influence, as I had never participated in politics but was employed purely and simply as a trial lawyer. I worked 16 weeks at a stretch on the city hall, from 8 o'clock in the morning to near midnight and worked Saturdays and holidays.

In the second place, your editorial says the case was lost. It is true that the courts did not sustain the five cent fare contract, but it is also true that the court sustained the city in its contention to the extent that the street railriders of Chicago have been saved over $80,000,000. If saving $80,000,000 was not worth the expenditures that were made then I cannot conceive when legal fees are justified. This money was absolutely saved by the litigation and in no other way.

These briefly are the facts:

The city of Chicago and the surface lines had a contract ordinance providing for a five cent fare. The company asked to have the rate raised. As a result of the fight made by the city the rate was kept at five cents for the better part of a year. One cent increase in fares made a difference of $10,000,000 per year.

Later the public utilities commission raised the fare to six cents during the period of the controversy, which lasted for months. Finally the fare was fixed by the public utilities commission at eight cents. The saving during the period alone ran into more than $75,000,000.

Later the fight was taken up before the reformed commission, known as the Illinois commerce commission, and after long litigation, the fare was reduced to the present rate of seven cents. The surface lines have been operating under this fare now for over eight years and the car riders, during that period, have saved anpually at least $10,000,000.

It is idle to suppose that car riders would have paid less than an eight cent fare if the city had not fought for them. The chances are they would have paid more.

The litigation in this case did not result in a defeat, but has been justified over and over.

I wrote you on Sept. 29, 1931, after you had published an article entitled "Fare Litigation Costly for City, Records Reveal," and in detail explained this matter to you. I again refer you to that letter. CHESTER E. CLEVELAND.

POLICE ON DRY DUTY.

Chicago, Oct. 26.—As a taxpayer I would like to know why a number of our city patrolmen and sergeants are assigned to the prohibition department. I feel these men should be working for the city of Chicago, as we taxpayers are the ones who pay their salaries. Let the prohibition agents do their own work. TAXPAYER.

DON'T MENTION IT.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—The principal and teachers of the Brenan school wish to express their appreciation of the splendid editorials and articles published in your papers in their behalf. You have brought forcefully to the public the deplorable situation from which we have been the innocent sufferers. ARTHUR T. HILL, Principal, Thomas Brenan school.

CONFLICT IN THE FAR EAST

[De Notenkraker, Amsterdam.]

Japan's two advisers, America and the league of nations.

"Sawin' Wood"

IT is not an accident that has made 1931 the most successful year for every division of the Cord Corporation.

Recognition of the gravity of business conditions during the past two years is one thing. Doing something about it is another.

Times of adversity always create opportunities—for those who take advantage of them. Managers and workmen of Cord companies have taken advantage of these opportunities. They have been too busy "sawin' wood" to join the calamity chorus.

We never have believed the country was going to the dogs. Our greatest national economic asset remains unchanged — the will to prosper of the American people!

The needs of people do not vanish in times of stress. They still must eat in order to live. They still must be transported in order to work. The only changes are in the requirements which individuals and companies must meet to cope with new conditions.

Fundamentals are reverted to. Values are weighed more carefully. Dollars are spent only where their purchasing power has been increased.

Such times as these test the mettle of men —and prove the worthiness of a business to serve the public.

Permanency, not expediency, has governed our development programs, which have gone forward undeterred by the temporary ups and downs of business conditions.

Each of these companies is a leader in its own field. Each contributes to the requirements of other divisions. In addition, several of them serve numerous outside companies.

One centralized management co-ordinates the activities of all—and speeds up the job of getting things done.

In 1931 the divisions of the Cord Corporation sold more units and made more profits than in any previous year. Combined gross sales amounted to over fifty-six million dollars—an increase of 60% over 1930.

To keep faith with its responsibility to the public, the nation, and to the more than 160,000 people whose livelihood depends upon it, the Cord Corporation is pushing its plans for continued growth on a greater scale than ever before.

SPAIN'S RADICALS TO RETAIN IRON GRIP ON REPUBLIC

Cabinet Decides to Let Cortes Draft All Laws.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Nov. 3.—Over coffee and liqueurs, President Manuel Azana and his ministers accounted themselves as reconciled today after ructions that nearly led to a break in the Republican front last week and charted a sharply radical course for a year and perhaps a good deal longer.

MANUEL AZANA.
[Acme Photo.]

They made two decisions of extreme importance. First, they agreed that the constituent cortes, instead of stepping out after the constitution has been finally approved in a month or so, should go on not only with the Catalan constitution and the religious statutes but should also draft the legal codes and all supplementary laws without which, in the words of Fernando de Los Rios, minister of justice, the constitution would be "only an empty bowl."

Make Zamora Standard Bearer.

Second, they arranged for the political resurrection of former President Alcala Zamora by making him their candidate for the presidency of the republic. This was done after Alejandro Lerroux, foreign minister, who last night tentatively accepted what for him would have been a political death, turned down the presidency today when his handmade party of Conservatives, seeing itself already disintegrated, said he simply could not take such a step.

Four ministers then called on Zamora to explain that he is the ideal candidate. Despite his definitely Conservative leanings he is considered to have only slight party affiliations and at the same time has, these ministers said, the political sense to steer the republic through the first difficult years.

The cortes, which is now debating the powers of the president, is expected to endow him with something similar to that the president of Germany possesses. None of the other candidates, it was thought, would fill the bill.

May Elect Him by Acclamation.

The ministerial delegation, representing every tendency of the government, told Zamora that they would ask his election by acclamation. As the only sizable group not represented in President Asana's ministry now is Zamora's—the extremist Catholics are still boycotting the assembly—this is expected to be easy.

Zamora was generally believed to have committed political suicide when, refusing to accept the compromise voted by the cortes on religious questions whereby the Jesuits were expelled and the Catholic church denied the right to teach, he quit the government and seemed ready to lead a campaign for revision of the constitution.

It is understood that when the constitution is finished he will "repent" in the form of a public statement, stating it is to be accepted as an expression of the will of the majority.

Although the constitution provides for a complicated system of the election of a president partly by direct vote, it is the constituent cortes which is empowered to pick the first one who will present the constitution to the people. The system will only then go into force.

JUDGES ORDER SANITARY GRAFT CASE TO TRIAL

Hold First Count of Indictment Valid.

that some of the arguments urged might well be urged on the question of proof, but not on a motion to quash. We have reached the unanimous conclusion that the first count of this indictment is good.

"Since the first count is sustained and assures a trial, the state's attorney should immediately present a bill of particulars. [This is the legal form by which the state gives in detail the evidence it says it can prove at the trial.] How soon, Mr. Northrup, can you present such a bill?"

Promises Bill in 10 Days.

The prosecutor at first said that he could have such a bill ready in court by Monday, but later said within 10 days. He agreed to present it within that time.

"How soon can you start to trial?" Judge Fisher then asked.

Attorneys Albert Fink and John McInenery for the defense said they would have to see the bill of particulars first. They asked Prosecutor Northup how long it would take to present the state's case in court, and he replied, "Three or four weeks or maybe a little longer."

"If you should go to trial only on the first count how long would it take?" interrupted Judge Fisher. "I am not intimating that the other counts will be quashed."

"I have not determined yet how I will proceed in regard to the first count of the indictment," returned Mr. Northup. "We ought to be ready to proceed within thirty days on the first count."

Agree to Test Grand Jury.

The conversation then switched back to the point made by the defense that the grand jury which voted the indictment was unconstitutional because more than 23 men were summoned in the panel from which the 23 jurors were selected. Judge Fisher said it would be "presumptous" for a lower court to pass on this question since the state Supreme court had never given a decision.

It was finally agreed that a test case will be made and sent immediately to the Supreme court through cooperation with Public Defender Ben Bachrach. A decision is hoped for before the trial of the sanitary district case.

"Now, may I ask you gentlemen of the defense as to what mode of procedure you will follow in the trial?" said Judge Fisher.

"If our clients are willing we will try the case before the court without a jury," replied Attorney Fink.

Asks Northup's View.

"Would the state object to the case being tried by the court?" asked Judge Fisher. He referred to previous efforts by Prosecutor Northup to prevent him [Fisher] from conducting the trial.

"The state would if it had a right to, but it has no such right as matters stand now," replied Mr. Northup.

The hearing ended without any definite trial date being set, but with Prosecutor Northup promising his bill of particulars within ten days. However, after he had conferred with his associates it was reported that he decided he had made a poor bargain, inasmuch as he will reveal all his evidence in advance of a definite decision on the counts to be sustained or quashed.

The sanitary district inquiry started more than three years ago when Frank J. Loesch was appointed a special prosecutor. Four different sets of indictments have been returned since the investigation began.

Boy, 10, Slain in Woods; Another Boy Arrested

Hackensack, N. J., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Paul Ciliento Jr., 10 years old, was shot and killed this afternoon while roaming a wooded section of Woodridge. Walter Szaganiez, 14, was arrested, accused of firing a .22 caliber bullet from a rifle.

ROCKFORD CHEF'S HEIRESS WIFE DODGES FRIENDS

Hubby to Take Life Easy from Now On, She Says.

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Life today was a matter of dodging one well wishing friend after another for Mrs. Alfred Peterson, 40, wife of a restaurant chef, whose fortunes were materially changed yesterday by the receipt of information that she is the sole heir of the estate of Dr. Joseph Kellogg, wealthy New York physician, who is her great uncle.

The estate is variously estimated as being worth from one million to three million dollars.

Attend a Movie.

Dazed at the almost unbelievable news and still unable to convince herself that she is really a wealthy woman, Mrs. Peterson last night stole away from her friends and attended a moving picture show with her husband.

"What are you going to do with your money now that you are wealthy?" she was asked.

Mrs. Peterson replied that she "was not saying yet," because she wanted to be sure she had the money before making too many plans. "But there is one thing I will say, and that is that my husband is not going to work any more. He has worked hard all his life." Mrs. Peterson said she would like to travel and also admitted that fishing was one of her chief hobbies.

Information that she was the closest heir to Dr. Kellogg was sent Mrs. Peterson by New York attorneys through a Rockford attorney. The New York lawyers have spent two months in locating the Rockford heiress.

Value Is Uncertain.

The Rockford attorney who broke the news to Mrs. Peterson says the estate of Dr. Kellogg has been variously estimated to be worth between a million and three million dollars, the uncertainty regarding the value of the estate is said to be due to the shrinkage in values of real estate in New York owned by Dr. Kellogg.

Only once, and that when she was eight years old, did Mrs. Peterson see her great uncle, Dr. Kellogg, who was Mrs. Peterson's grandmother's brother, on her father's side of the family.

Wife Sues Berwyn Realty Operator for a Separation

Joseph Cermak, Berwyn real estate operator, yesterday was sued for separate maintenance by his wife, Anna, who charged him with cruelty in a bill filed in the Superior court. Cermak is no relative of Mayor Cermak. In her action Mrs. Cermak charged that her husband owned real estate valued at more than $583,000, and has an income in excess of $1,000 a month. She asked that his property be divided and sought an injunction to prevent her husband from disposing of his wealth.

BAIN, ON STAND, MIXES APOLOGY WITH DEFIANCE

to read the document. The certificate did mention "cash," it was pointed out to him. He then replied:

"I can't recall at this date. The bookkeeper has all my books. I never did any bookkeeping."

"Where are the records?"

"I haven't got access to any of them. They're held at the various banks."

"Did you ever have an audit made of your books?" asked the judge.

"I understand the receiver had an audit made."

Can't Remember an Audit.

"But prior to that did you ever have an audit made?" persisted the court.

"Not that I remember," said Bain after a moment's hesitation.

BAIN—Yes.

THE COURT—How much do you owe?

BAIN—About $35,000, I guess.

Two notes signed by Bain were produced in evidence. One, dated May 20, 1931, was for $5,000, and the second, dated June 6, 1931, was for $30,000. The twelve Bain banks closed on June 9, 1931.

THE COURT—Tell me, what did you borrow that money for?

BAIN—I don't know. I know the records of the corporation should show it.

THE COURT—That $30,000 loan was as recent as last June. Don't you remember?

BAIN—No, your honor, unless I had some record to show it.

It was at this point that Bain burst out with his statement that "Bain took his punishment in June" and that he would try to explain everything, answer all questions but that his memory was poor for the hectic days before and after the day when the banks were closed.

Transaction Bewilders Court.

The judge proceeded to inquire into a complicated transaction whereby John Bain, Inc., acquired property at 63d street and Western avenue for $75,000. He seemed slightly bewildered as Bain gave a long explanation.

"What I want to know," said the judge, finally, "is what John Bain, Inc., paid to the owner of the property?"

"Stock in John Bain, Inc.," was the answer.

After a moment Judge Feinberg switched to another transaction. He started questioning Bain about a deal in which W. Merle Fisher, Bain's son-in-law, figured.

"I've enough shortcomings and mistakes of my own to account for without trying to explain the mistakes of others," replied the witness, a trifle shortly.

"Can you tell us of any other indebtedness you owe John Bain, Inc.?" said the judge.

"Your honor, I had two million dollars invested in Bain banks stocks," said the witness. "Everything I have is tied up. But I'll still make it all good if I'm allowed to work out my own problem. I've no salary, no revenue."

"It has been reported that you have property in Scotland," said the judge.

"Positively no," said Bain; "that statement must have been made for a purpose. Bain's got an auto and a home, that's all."

Ten Others Subpoened.

Ten other officials, directors and stockholders of John Bain, Inc., have been subpoened to testify before Judge Feinberg. Among them are Charles Ashley Deneen, son of the former United States senator, a stockholder; and Attorney Roy Massena, a vice president.

John H. Bain, son of the former bank head, and Hugh Leslie, former cashier of the Brainerd State bank, one of the Bain string, surrendered at the sheriff's office yesterday. Each posted $5,000 bail. Bench warrants had been issued for them by Judge William J. Lindsay before whom another hearing involving the Bain banks is being held.

The Waukegan Bank Case.

Defense arguments on motions to quash indictments against State Auditor Oscar Nelson and three co-defendants in the Waukegan State bank conspiracy case were heard by Judge Ralph J. Dady of the Lake county Circuit court yesterday. The hearing was continued until Friday, at which time, the judge said, he would give his decision.

BRITAIN REVEALS WHAT INDIA CAN AND CANNOT GET

MacDonald Gives Crown's Proposals to Gandhi.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Mahatma Gandhi and Pandit Malaviya, leaders of the Hindu majority population in India, called on Prime Minister MacDonald this morning, expecting to continue with him the discussion over the future government of India.

Instead Mr. MacDonald, it is reported, told them what this future government will be. He gave them about a week to think it over and to offer suggestions for minor changes. He told the Hindu leaders that he is determined to get this Indian subject out of the way without any further loss of time.

It is understood that the prime minister told Gandhi and the pandit that he would issue an official statement of the British government's position on Nov. 11, and that he proposed calling a plenary session of the round table conference for Nov. 16. That, he explained, would permit the Indian delegates time to wind up the conference on Nov. 18.

Premier's Proposals to India.

Mr. MacDonald's proposals on self-government for India are believed to be as follows:

1. Idea of a federal government for India to be accepted by the British government.

2. The federal government to have the same status existing in the dominions, and an equal partnership in the British commonwealth of nations.

3. The federal government to have complete responsibility for the central government, except for such activities as are reserved to the crown during the transitional period.

Will Decide on Safeguards.

4. The definition of safeguards to be decided by special committees appointed for the purpose of finding out the facts of the actual situation.

5. Safeguards will not be a part of the constitution, but will form a series of rules for the operation of the government until the constitution is fully operative.

6. The Delhi "peace pact" to be continued while the committees are at work.

7. The committees' reports to be considered by a joint committee of both houses of parliament together with Indian representatives, and the rules to be drafted by the committees of the round table conference.

8. Changes in the rules to be effected by a joint resolution of the British and Indian legislatures.

No Passive Rebellion.

9. In the meantime a trade convention to be established between Great Britain and Indian legislatures.

10. No revival of the civil disobedience campaigns.

Gandhi, it is stated, tried hard to reopen the discussion but was kept firmly to the point. He finally succeeded in securing a promise that a statement on safeguards would be made. He declared he wanted this statement to refer to safeguards in the interest of India alone.

On the question of a communal settlement it is also reported that Gandhi got nowhere. It is likely that there will be an imposed settlement by the British which will take the form of separate electorates for the Moslems and other minorities.

LLOYD GEORGE TO QUIT AS HEAD OF BRITISH LIBERALS

LONDON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—David Lloyd George, war time prime minister of Great Britain, is expected to withdraw tomorrow from the leadership of the British Liberal party which has passed from under his control.

It was accepted as a virtual certainty in political circles tonight that the famous Welshman, who saw his party swing off to other leaders in the recent election, would inform its parliamentary conference that he does not intend to seek reappointment as chairman, a post he has held since 1924.

Sir Herbert Samuel, one of those who broke away from the Lloyd George ranks in the election, is expected to be chosen in his place at the conference of the historic party tomorrow. The new group of National Liberals who discarded the Lloyd George free trade banner today elected Sir John Simon to head their faction.

Surrounded by his last little family band of four loyal supporters, Lloyd George, according to the best available information, will sit with the Labor opposition. Of this small clan, Miss Megan Lloyd George will be the sole "rank and file." For her father, her brother, Gwilym, and her brother-in-law, Maj. Goronwy Owen, all have distinctions entitling them to sit on the front bench of the opposition.

10,000 WARRIORS EAT RAW MEAT AT KING'S FEAST

600 Chanting Priests Parade for Him.

ADDIS ABABA, Abyssinia, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Ten thousand braves banqueted on raw meat today in celebration of the first anniversary of the coronation of Haile Selassie I., "king of kings of Ethiopia, conquering lion of the tribe of Judah, the elect of God and the light of the world."

The feast, spread in the open, almost rivaled the great eating a year ago, when the emperor proclaimed his glory to the world in a series of colorful and lavish ceremonies.

Raw Meat a Delicacy.

Raw meat is the most delectable of foods to the native Ethiopian, and it is customary for the ruler to provide occasional feasts from his bounty. Uncooked food causes the natives to suffer much from tapeworm, but they take care of that by using a bitter herb called dekosia.

The great feast was only one of the many events on today's program, which opened as dawn broke with a booming of guns in the garrison atop the two mile mountain on which Addis Ababa stands.

Haile Selassie, who claims descent from King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba, attended religious services at St. George's cathedral, accompanied by his imposing spouse and their numerous offspring. Then he rode in state through thronged streets. His carriage was the golden coach formerly owned by former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, purchased for $10,000 by the last independent ruler of Africa.

600 Priests March.

Preceding the royal procession were dignitaries of the Coptic church, carrying incense and candles and chanting the Ethiopian ritual in the Amharic tongue. Six hundred white robed Abyssinian priests followed them on foot.

At the conclusion of the raw meat banquet, the emperor opened the two chambers of the legislature created under the constitution proclaimed by him on July 16. Under this constitution royal assent is necessary before legislation becomes effective, and succession to the throne is reserved for the present dynasty.

A display of American fireworks tonight wound up the day's doings.

COMMONS OPENS; BEGINS TASK OF RESCUING BRITAIN

Tories Stifle Triumph; See Grim Duties Ahead.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 3.—It was a very subdued house of commons which assembled this afternoon for the opening of the most momentous parliamentary session in the history of Great Britain. The house was subdued by its responsibility, and instead of a cheering crowd of triumphant Tories, as expected, I watched them from the gallery seriously setting to work to save Great Britain from the consequences of 12 years of extravagance and waste. True there was enthusiasm, but it was subdued.

Prime Minister MacDonald was the hero. He received the biggest welcome as he took his old seat at the center of the government bench. To his right sat Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader. J. H. Thomas, the prime minister's life long friend, sat on his left. Both were cheered as they took their seats. There was not a single boo from the Labor side.

Lansbury Wins Cheers.

George Lansbury, the gray haired septuagenarian Socialist who has succeeded to the Labor party's leadership because he is the only forme. cabinet minister left in commons, was cheered almost as warmly by the government supporters as by his own few followers.

The Labor party has dwindled. No longer is it the pride of the house and its members occupied only three front benches on the left side of the house. Lansbury, a former cabinet minister, sat in the center of the opposition front bench; beside him is an empty seat reserved for David Lloyd George, Liberal chieftain, who was unable to attend today's opening because of his health. Further along was Maj. Gwilym Lloyd George, also a former minister, but Megan Lloyd George, as a member of the rank and file of Lloyd George's party, sat on a back bench.

Government supporters overflowed all the other benches and filled the galleries as well. Lady Astor took the same seat she occupied when she so strongly fought the labor régime, and Winston Churchill, who has no hope of getting into office, occupied a back bench on the government side.

Capt. Fitzroy Speaker.

The proceedings were purely formal and consisted of the election of a speaker. Capt. Edward Algernon Fitzroy, a descendant of Charles II. and Barbara Villiers, was reelected. He was nominted by Sir George Courthope, a Tory. The nomination was seconded by Will Thorne, a Labor member. Then he was literally dragged to the chair in memory of the time when to be speaker of the house of commons was something to be avoided as a dangerous job. The house then adjourned until Nov. 10, when King George will formally open parliament. The intervening time will be spent in swearing-in the 615 members, of which 554 are government supporters and 61 the opposition.

Mr. MacDonald, who, it is believed, has completed the selection of his cabinet, at any rate so far as the chief posts are concerned, left for Lossiemouth, Scotland, this evening for a week's rest. It is reported that he has turned down Neville Chamberlain for the post of chancellor of the exchequer because the former pledged protective tariffs at all costs. He is seeking a Liberal, such as Sir John Simon, or a moderate Conservative, as Sir Robert Horne.

FIREMEN BATTLE BEES.

Firemen fighting a fire at the Good Will cleaning plant, Newport, R. I., had to fight for their own protection when a hose stream dislodged a swarm of bees under the roof. The bees attacked the firemen and were dispersed only when the hose was turned on them.

DECLARES CRISIS AT HAND IN WAR ON TUBERCULOSIS

Christmas Seals Arrive for Campaign.

When a hundred million red and green seals make their 25th annual pilgrimage into the mails on Thanksgiving day, they will face their greatest task in many a year in raising funds for the Chicago Tuberculosis institute.

Homer W. Bang, chairman of the Christmas seal committee of the institute, announced yesterday that the seals had arrived in Chicago for the annual campaign. He said that during the coming year and for several years, the movement to control and reduce tuberculosis will experience the most critical period in its entire history.

Peril of Undernourishment.

"Teachers, social workers, and others in contact with children are reporting undernourishment and crowded living conditions conducive to a serious lowering of health standards," Mr. Bang said. "The history of tuberculosis reveals that whenever the specter of undernourishment appears in a community it unavoidably foreshadows a great increase of the prevalence of the white plague.

"Following the depression of the early 1890's, the death rate from tuberculosis in Chicago rose to 200 per 100,000 population. Since the organization of the tuberculosis institute in 1906 the death rate has been dropping steadily until last year in Chicago it was only 65.9 per 100,000.

"Conditions of undernourishment in Germany and Austria during the world war led to an alarming increase of tuberculosis in those countries in the years following the close of the war. It is with the gravest concern therefore that we are looking forward to the future.

"From the viewpoint of control and eradication, tuberculosis is primarily a disease of childhood and youth. The course in many cases is a childhood infection which lies dormant until adolescence or until the age of 25 or 30, when the disease breaks out in an active stage.

Great Efforts Needed.

"If the child is well nourished, he usually has sufficient resistance to prevent the disease from ever becoming active."

Despite the reduction in the death rate from tuberculosis, Mr. Bang said, it is still the chief cause of death between the ages of 15 and 45, and only by extraordinary efforts can a serious increase in the disease be prevented in Cook county.

"We are particularly gratified," he added, "to see the efforts of THE TRIBUNE, the superintendent of schools, and the other agencies active in behalf of free lunches for school children."

The sale of the seals will begin on Thanksgiving day and continue to New Year's. In the interval a corps of volunteer workers will assist the regular staff of the institute directed by Mrs. Theodore Sachs, superintendent, and other officials in preparing for the annual drive. The headquarters of the institute is at 360 North Michigan avenue.

LOOP CLUB DUE TO PAY $70,000 ON BACK TAXES

Receivers Send Replies to Judges' Questions.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The Midland club, 168 West Adams street, probably will pay $70,000 within a few days on its 1928 and 1929 taxes. This organization is now in the hands of E. J. Zeuhls as receiver. Zeuhls and his attorney, J. F. Dixon, conferred with Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday afternoon with reference to filing a petition today in court approving the payment.

In taxes and penalties the club owes $79,574 on its 1928 taxes and $86,833 on its 1929 taxes and in addition six special assessment bills totaling $929 —or an aggregate of $167,336. The monthly income of the receiver is about $15,000, and he now has $84,956 on hand. The owner of the property, the 168 Adams Building corporation, filed an objection to the 1928 taxes and the owner and the trustee made protest against the 1929 taxes.

Result of Judges' Work.

This prospective payment is a direct result of the efforts of the judges who have appointed receivers to ascertain which receivers have sufficient cash with which to pay taxes.

In reply to a questionnaire sent out by the chancellors of the Circuit court to receivers, 358 replies have been received and tabulated. The judges asked the receivers to report the monthly income of the properties, the amount of cash on hand and what amount the receiver believes should be the minimum payment on taxes.

Taking the 358 receiverships in the aggregate, they show a total monthly income of $175,982. The receivers for these properties have $516,538 in cash. In some of these cases the taxes have been paid, in others there is no cash on hand, and in still others a decree of sale on the foreclosure has been entered. In the latter classes, County Treasurer McDonough has little hope of getting any taxes at present.

Wants Receivers to Pay.

Of the 358 receiverships, however, the treasurer selected 102 cases yesterday in which he believed an immediate tax payment should be made. The properties have a monthly income of $77,547 and the receivers for them have $230,003 of cash on hand. These receivers in their replies have estimated the minimum amount of taxes they should pay as $128,851.

Treasurer McDonough suggested to Judge Finnegan yesterday that this amount be paid. The subsequent conference concerning the Midland club was the immediate result. Relative to the others, Judge Finnegan said: "I shall look over this tabulation at once. I do not now see any reason why the receiver should not pay in taxes what he considers the minimum that should be paid. You can be sure that the judges will cooperate with the tax officials in getting in delinquent taxes."

Out of the 358 replies from receivers, the treasurer also selected 38 more cases where the monthly income is $19,741 and the receivers now have $40,286 on hand. These 38 made no estimate of how much, if any, taxes, they should pay.

Treasurer McDonough told the judge that he believed these 38 receivers should be urged to make a tax payment. Judge Finnegan will probably ask these receivers to report to him as to why they should not pay taxes.

Receiver Reports Income.

One of these 38 is the receiver for the Ritz-Surf Building corporation. The receiver reported that his monthly income from this property is $2,500, and he has $6,466 on hand. The record indicates that the taxes for 1928 and 1929 has not been paid.

Another listed is the receiver for the Churchill Hotel company. This property owes a balance on its 1929 taxes, has an income of $6,700 a month and the receiver has $19,546 on hand.

The receiver for the Lawndale Court Building corporation is in the group of 38. This property has an income of $1,300 a month and the receiver has $532 on hand.

The receiver for the Franklin Apartment Building corporation recommended the payment of $2,000 in taxes. This property has an income of $1,300 a month, and the receiver has $3,025.

The receiver for the Edgewater building recommended the payment of $5,000 in taxes. This property has an income of $2,900 a month and the receiver has $7,659 on hand.

Condition of Dr. Frost Is Reported Unchanged

The condition of Dr. Edwin B. Frost, director of the University of Chicago's Yerkes observatory at Williams Bay, Wis., remained unchanged yesterday at the Albert Merritt Billings hospital. No decision had been reached by doctors as to whether an operation would be necessary. Despite the fact that Dr. Frost has been blind for the last ten years, he has carried on his work in astro-physics.

Teachers Collect Stories of Woe to Tell Legislature

MISS CLOHESY.

The teachers' unions of the Chicago schools have received replies to the 5,000 questionnaires sent out concerning the situation of the teachers as a result of the failure of the school board to pay them their salaries. The replies will be tabulated and the resulting information on the distress and discomfort of the teaching body as a whole will be presented to the special session of the legislature when it comes to act on measures for school relief.

Miss Helen M. Dart, vocational adviser at Harrison Technical High school, is head of a group which will start summarizing the questionnaires today. The teachers were asked what persons were dependent upon them for support, what means they had used to meet their obligations, what debts they have accumulated, to what extent they have had to lower their standards of living, and what financial losses they have incurred through inability to meet payments on homes, furniture and other property.

Pitiful Replies Received.

"Some of the replies are pitiful," said Miss Agnes Clohesy, president of the Elementary Teachers' union. "There are cases where teachers, until they received their September pay last week, had borrowed all they could, had no money for carfare, and were stinting themselves on their food."

Representatives of the various teachers' unions will meet today with the schools committee of the Chicago Federation of Labor, of which Miss Clohesy is chairman, to discuss the recommendations made in the report of the governor's revenue commission for relief of the schools. Delegates from all south side schools will meet this afternoon at Hyde Park High school for a similar discussion.

City Faces Shortage.

City Controller Szymczak yesterday gave bankers who are working with him on plans for sale of tax warrants an estimate of the city's cash requirements and receipts until Jan. 1. The estimate indicated that no more city cash will be available for school or other pay rolls, also that the city will end the year with between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000 in obligations for which it will have no cash available.

The purchase of school and city tax warrants authorized last week by the city council left $25,957,973 in cash in the city's aggregate of funds, and miscellaneous revenue is expected to add $2,000,000 to that by Jan. 1, the controller estimated.

Against this $27,957,973 he listed fixed charges—the retirement of bonds and water certificates, the payment of interest on such securities, and the special assessment fund, totaling $27,344,559. The ordinary running expenses of the city, including salaries not now provided for, expenditures for paying repairs and bond issue improvements, plus $8,000,0000 in unpaid city bills and vouchers, will total $21,200,000, according to the estimate.

That, Szymczak estimated, would leave the city with a cash deficit of $20,586,585 on the first of the year, although he has hopes of refunding $8,998,000 worth of city bonds falling due the first of the year.

REALTY OWNERS PRESS FIGHT TO TAX PERSONALTY

The fight to force the assessment of additional personal property in Cook county, and to invalidate tax levies in which real estate taxpayers complain that personal property has been neglected, went forward yesterday in two courts.

Harry S. Cutmore, former chief of appraisals for the board of assessors, testified before County Judge Jarecki that personal property assessments have declined steadily in the last three assessments to be completed. After he left the stand attorneys for five large banks and trust companies appeared to resist the request of Attorneys Morris Schaeffer and Roy D. Keehn for subpoenas duces tecum, ordering the banks to produce records of all stocks in companies incorporated outside of Illinois which are held by themselves or deposited with them by their clients.

Attorneys Schaeffer and Keehn also went before Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan during the day in the interests of the 2,000 taxpayers whom they represent before Judge Jarecki.

They asked a temporary injunction to restrain the board of review from transmitting any 1930 tax books to the county clerk, for the levying of taxes.

SLAYER GETS DEATH PENALTY.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Herman W. Duker, 21, was sentenced to death today for the murder last April of John W. Anderson, milk company collector, in an attempted holdup. Dale Lambert, Duker's companion in the holdup, was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Police Climb to Roof to Arrest Burglary Suspect

William Robinson, colored, 27 years old, arrived in Chicago from Detroit last evening. Less than an hour after he became a temporary Chicagoan he was discovered on the roof of a one story building at 924 East 62d street. William Kaplan of that address climbed up and held him until a policeman could clamber after him and arrest Robinson. The stranger said he merely intended to sleep on the roof, but Mr. Kaplan's opinion was that he intended to enter through a skylight and try his hand at burglary.

TWO GROUPS EXCEED RELIEF DRIVE QUOTAS

Machinery and Utilities Pass Their Goals.

Two groups in the trades, industries and professions division of the joint emergency relief fund reported contributions yesterday which brought their total pledges over their quotas.

The machinery group, headed by Howard T. Walsh, reported pledges of $445,410, which is 137 per cent of their quota. The public utilities group, headed by Samuel Insull, has obtained pledges of $912,331, or 108.5 per cent of their quota. Several other groups are nearing their goals.

New contributions reported last night were: Central Republic Bank and Trust company, $30,000; Chicago Title and Trust company, $30,000; employes of Wilson & Co., $25,000. These brought the total pledges in hand to $4,702,052.

Expect Many to Exceed Goal.

"From present indications many of our groups will exceed their quotas," declared Charles S. Dewey, chairman of the trades, industries and professions division. "I regard it as significant that two groups have already gone over the top in two weeks of effort."

Thirty-seven outlying banks have already made pledges, Melvin A. Traylor, chairman of the bank group, announced, saying: "While it is to be expected that the large loop institutions will meet their individual quotas, it is encouraging to note the large number of outlying banks that have subscribed or over-subscribed their quotas."

The relief fund expects a substantial boost tomorrow as a result of the pledge of D. A. Schulte, Inc., operators of a national chain of tobacco shops, to turn over 5 per cent of the day's receipts of each store to the fund, each store contribution to be matched by a personal 5 per cent contribution from D. A. Schulte of New York, president of the organization.

Report County Aid Increase.

The county bureau of public welfare has a 400 per cent increase in the number of Chicago families aided in the year ending Oct. 31, as compared with a normal year, Joseph L. Moss, director, informed Emmett Whealan, president of the county board. Mr. Moss said the bureau had assisted 61,497 families at a total expenditure of $2,041,348.

Members of the University of Chicago faculty will attempt this year to double the $15,000 they contributed towards unemployment relief last winter. A letter, sent out by the relief fund committee, pointed out that the university faculty was one of the few groups to escape a salary cut, and urged that each member double his contribution.

SLAIN BY FATHER OF GIRL WHOM HE HAD BROUGHT HOME LATE

La Harpe, Ill., Nov. 3.—(Special.)—Oliver Peck, 28, unemployed mail clerk, was shot and killed by Dr. C. L. Casey early today as he sat in an automobile with Jane Casey, 20 year old daughter of the physician.

The shooting occurred as the young couple returned from a ride about 1 a. m., in front of the Casey home. After an argument with the young man, during which the physician slapped his daughter, Dr. Casey returned to the house and got his revolver, with which he shot Peck.

Another couple took Peck to a hospital and surrendered.

To a coroner's jury Dr. Casey explained he was angry because his daughter had been on a drinking party. He claimed the gun had been discharged accidentally when the car moved. Other members of the party, two brothers, a married woman, and an unmarried woman, also testified. The jury brought in an open verdict.

HUNT KIDNAPERS AND $200,000 GEMS STOLEN IN LOOP

Bureau of identification photographs were being looked over last night in a hunt for thee men who kidnaped Joseph C. Newman, a gem salesman of New York, yesterday morning as he left the Congress hotel and robbed him of diamonds valued at from $175,000 to $200,000.

Newman, who is employed by S. L. Van Wezel, New York gem importer, and A. J. Siegel, representative of a Newark, N. J., jewelry house, were walking from the hotel to the Pittsfield building shortly after 9 o'clock when, they said, they were forced into an automobile and driven to 35th street and Prairie avenue, where they were put out of the car.

A search was being made last night for a taxicab in which one of the robbers was said to have escaped.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory disease, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

PREDICT FIERY TAX DEBATE AT EXTRA SESSION

Legislators See Battle on Income Levy.

Making ready to go to Springfield for the special revenue session of the general assembly, Chicago legislators devoted some study yesterday to the proposed income tax sponsored by the governor's revenue commission which taxes individuals and not corporations.

Many of the lawmakers said they anticipated fiery debate on this question as well as on other points in the program.

Work on Commission Bills.

When the session convenes tomorrow at 10 a. m. it is not considered likely that any of the commission's bills will be ready for introduction. Dewitt Billman, secretary of the legislative reference bureau; Douglas Sutherland of the Civic federation; Attorney Max Murdock, and others were working on them yesterday. They are determined, they said, that if any revision is to be made it will come from the assembly, not the commission's own experts.

Chairman Joseph K. Brittain of the executive committee of the commission called his committee together for a last minute session yesterday afternoon and a "steering" committee of five was selected which will go to Springfield tomorrow. Beside the chairman, Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton, S. E. Thomason, Mr. Sutherland, and Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association, were chosen.

Both the senate and the house of representatives will be called together tomorrow for the reading of Gov. Emmerson's special message, and it is possible that an adjournment will then be taken until bills can be made ready, probably next week.

Comment on Broad Call.

Much comment came yesterday on the broadness of the governor's call, which let down the bars for suggestions for any sort of revenue relief, in addition to the program the commission has for introduction.

At least one other elaborate program is expected to be introduced. This will probably come from the Chicago Real Estate board, which split with the commission on the problem of giving relief to the real estate taxpayers and has indicated that it will have a series of bills providing, in the main, for the complete funding of the 1930 tax levy by a long term bond issue.

Just what, if anything, will be done with the subject of home rule for Chicago and Cook county, also permitted by the call, seemed uncertain yesterday. Corporation Counsel Sexton awaited the return of Mayor Cermak from New York, saying that he had not had the opportunity of conferring on the matter before the mayor went east. Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady [14th], chairman of the city council judiciary committee, placed a call for his group to meet Saturday morning to hear whatever Mr. Sexton might have to suggest on home rule.

Farm and unemployment relief were also included in the call, the sections applying to them being almost as inclusive as that for the financial relief.

West Park May Ask Aid.

The presence in Springfield yesterday of W. R. James, president of the west park commissioners, led to the report that that park system will ask for relief at the special session. There are also the problems of the board of education and the spirited declaration of the school teachers, who say they will have a lobby at the statehouse for each senatorial district of the state, seeking "justice" and long due back pay for the Chicago teachers.

The proposed income tax has long been a particular object of the Illinois Agricultural association, and was drafted for the commission's program by a subcommittee consisting, it is said, of Mr. Smith, George F. Nixon, and Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank. It places a tax on single persons with an annual income of $1,000 and upon married persons with a $2,000 income.

Reading the digest of the program yesterday, the legislators found the income tax epitomized in this sentence, "The income tax law here proposed is technically a tax upon persons and fiduciaries (trustees) based upon income rather than a tax upon the income itself."

The attitude of the farm group toward the omission of the corporation tax upon income was explained by John C. Watson, who said it was extremely difficult to impose an "equitable" tax upon corporations because of fluctuating incomes.

It was pointed out from another source, however, that the corporations will obtain a decrease in realty taxes, perhaps as much as ten per cent, by the adoption of the law but might find personal property taxes increased.

YOUTHS HELD AS ROBBERS.

John Goodall and Anthony Hessler, both 20 years old and living at 5600 Winthrop avenue, were held to the grand jury by Judge J. William Brooks on a robbery charge yesterday after victims had identified them.

REPORT HOOVER TO ASK NEW BANKING SYSTEM TO THAW REAL ESTATE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—In order to thaw out the millions of dollars now frozen in building and real estate mortgages, President Hoover it is understood, contemplates asking congress to create a system of banks which would rediscount mortgages on urban real estate operations in the same manner in which the federal farm loan bureau now handles paper secured by rural property.

The President held an hour's conference with Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] at the White House this afternoon, and later Senator Glass conferred at his office with officials of the federal reserve system. The conferences, it was reported, dealt with the possible creation of this new government banking program and also with the possible broadening of the provisions of the federal reserve act relative to the eligibility of paper for rediscount.

Since Oct. 6 when President Hoover announced that he would ask congress to broaden the scope of the act, Senator Glass, co-author of the reserve act, has insisted that the system should not be thrown open to real estate mortgages, railroad securities and other paper which, he holds, might convert the system into a purely speculative enterprise. It is believed that Mr. Glass' objections would be met by handling these mortgages through the new banking arrangements which is modeled after a plan recently suggested by Senator Robert J. Bulkley [Dem., O.].

HOOVER TAKES ACTION TO SPEED HOME BUILDING

Confers with Real Estate Men and Bankers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Plans for accelerating home building and expediting home financing were discussed at a three hour White House conference today between President Hoover and a group of bankers, builders, real estate, and insurance men, all members of the finance committee of the President's conference on home ownership and home building.

None of those attending the conference today would discuss the plans suggested, although it was said that several proposals had been put into the hands of special committees for further investigation.

It was added that "no definite agreement" looking to the expediting of home financing had been reached at today's meeting. The finance committee expects to convene here again, it was said, before the entire conference meets on Dec. 3.

Among those present at the White House conference today was Hiram S. Cody of Chicago, vice president of the Cody Trust company. Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lament was also present in his capacity as co-chairman of the President's conference on home building.

At the same time another committee of the President's conference issued a statement calling upon home owners to undertake reconditioning of their homes immediately in order to aid relief of unemployment. The committee pointed out that materials are now about one-fourth less expensive than in the decade from 1920 to 1930, and added that skilled labor is readily available.

Thanksgiving Proclamation Issued by President Hoover

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—In a Thanksgiving proclamation issued today by President Hoover called upon the people of the nation to have compassion for all those who are in need and take steps to assure their security during the approaching winter. Notwithstanding the world wide depression, the President found much for this country to be thankful for as the season nears when the nation annually gives thanks for its temporal and spiritual blessings. Thursday, Nov. 26, was the date designated as Thanksgiving day by Mr. Hoover.

The President asserted that the hardships of the past year should strengthen the courage of the people and quicken their sympathies for those less fortunate than themselves. As the proclamation was published reports reaching Washington indicated that the country at large was responding to the nation wide appeal for emergency relief funds.

Text of Proclamation.

The proclamation follows:

"We approach the season when, according to custom dating from the garnering of the first harvest by our forefathers in the new world a day is set apart to give thanks even amid hardships to Almighty God for our temporal and spiritual blessings. It has become a hallowed tradition for the chief magistrate to proclaim annually a national day of thanksgiving.

"Our country has cause for gratitude to the Almighty. We have been widely blessed with abundant harvests. We have been spared from pestilence and calamities. Our institutions have served the people. Knowledge has multiplied and our lives are enriched with its application. Education has advanced, the health of our people has increased.

"We have dwelt in peace with all men. The measure of passing adversity which has come upon us should deepen the spiritual life of the people, quicken their sympathies and spirit of sacrifice for others, and strengthen their courage.

Ask Help for Needy.

"Many of our neighbors are in need from causes beyond their control and the compassion of the people throughout the nation should so assure their security over this winter that they too may have full cause to participate in this day of gratitude to the Almighty.

"Now, therefore, I, Herbert Hoover, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate Thursday, Nov. 26, 1931, as a national day of thanksgiving, and do recommend that our people rest from their daily labors and in their homes and accustomed places of worship give devout thanks for the blessings which a merciful Father has bestowed upon us."

Common-sense rule of cooking applied to roasting Hills Bros Coffee

"A little at a time"—instead of in bulk—is the secret

The flavor never varies, because every berry is roasted evenly by the patented, Controlled Roasting process

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow . . .

a little at a time

. . . so the uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by Controlled Roasting—the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously . . . a little at a time.

Foods generally have better flavor when cooked in small quantities. You have perfect control of the mixing and the heat . . . you never under-cook nor over-cook.

The same applies to coffee! Hills Bros. Coffee tastes better because it is roasted evenly, continuously, a little at a time, instead of in bulk. Each berry receives the right amount of heat. The fullest flavor is perfectly developed—and never varies! No other coffee tastes like Hills Bros., because no other coffee is roasted the same way.

Hills Bros. Coffee is always fresh too. For air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of Hills Bros.' vacuum cans. Ordinary, "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But every time you buy Hills Bros. Coffee, it is as fresh as when it comes from the roasters!

Perfectly roasted coffee—always fresh. What a thrill for your taste! Order Hills Bros. today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

SYNOPSIS.

Irma Corbin, while playing in vaudeville in Thrace, an upstate New York town, is showered with invitations by Bill Fitzroy, friend of her pianist, and Wallace Graham, a widower friend of Bill's. Wallace asks Irma to be his wife. Bill's proposal to her is of a different nature. Irma marries Wallace and leads a dull existence as his wife. Wallace's young daughter, Mildred, and his aunt live with them. A son is born to Irma. He becomes the center of her universe. Wallace and Irma go on a trip to Europe. Irma worries continually about the baby. They meet Russell Byrnes, a wealthy bachelor from New York who has a cabin on a boat sailing in two days, which Irma persuades him to sell to Wallace. Back in Thrace they find the baby well, but Mildred planning a eugenic marriage with Scott Avery. Wallace appoints Irma to guard her. Mildred elopes with Scott. Wallace and Irma quarrel. Irma decides her marriage is a flop and takes the baby to New York. She gets an engagement dancing in a night club, where she meets Russell Byrnes. Irma becomes Russell's mistress, because he can give the baby everything Irma thinks he needs.

INSTALLMENT XXXIX.

IN PARIS WITH THE BABY.

They stood one night on the pent house terrace discussing love. It was a warm spring night with a slim, silver crescent of a moon hanging high above the city. In Irma's living room there were a group of people apparently enjoying themselves. Kemp Austin at the piano played and sang songs from the latest Rogers and Hart success. Irma and Russell were not for the moment missed. He had gone out to escape the smoky atmosphere of the room and she had followed. They had not intended to discuss love.

She said, "Russell."

He turned his rapt gaze from the silver, fairy buildings beyond. "Yes, dear."

"It's so warm tonight. I've been thinking about the summer. Have you any ideas or suggestions where the baby and I could go? It'll be cool up here no doubt but I want him to have the beach to play on. I don't expect you to know right this minute, but be thinking about it."

"I have been."

"You have?"

"Yes, how would you like to go to Europe?"

"You too? My God, the next man I pick is going to be subject to sea sickness."

Russell laughted and drew closer. He tilted her face upward so that he could talk to her eyes. "Yes, Europe," he said. "Europe with Mademoiselle and baby in the very next cabin to you. Wouldn't you like to show him the merry-go-rounds on the Champs Elysées and outfit him in one of those grand boys' shops in London?"

She shrugged indifferently. "He gets English clothes here, Russell, and Central Park has a merry-go-round."

"Suppose it means perhaps a million dollars to me to go to France?"

"Suppose it does?"

"Wouldn't you miss me if I stayed away almost a year?"

"You wouldn't."

"No, you're right. I'd be commuting back and forth. I'd be worse about you than you are about the baby. For God's sake, what's the matter with me, Irma? Why can't you be a little bit crazy about me?"

"Must we go into that again? I like you very much, Russell, but I've got a heart like rock where men are concerned. I couldn't love one of them if that's any consolation to you and I like you better than any of the others."

"Irma, will you come to Europe with me?"

"Irma, will you come to Europe with me? I should be leaving around the sixteenth. I figure that you can follow on the twenty-eighth."

"I'll think it over."

"Will you?"

"Yes, Russell."

"And try to think how you felt in Europe without Marty. That's how I'll feel—"

"Don't call him Marty," she snapped suddenly. "And don't compare this man and woman business with my feelings for him. Let's go in."

"Will you think it over, Irma?"

"Yes."

In the morning she lingered a moment in the nursery after Mademoiselle's heartening 'Oui, Madam.' She stood stroking the baby's hair thoughtfully. "How would you like to go in a big boat, darling, on the big ocean all the way across to Europe?"

The baby allowed as how that might be right amusing but Mademoiselle looked up from the business of sorting her master's socks and exclaimed: "O Europe! Perhaps you would go to France, Madame?"

"Yes, if I go at all."

"O, it would be splendid for the baby. He is so bright, Madame, at picking up French. Already he can sing much of "Au Claire de la Luna" and "Sur le pont d'Avignon." He says many small phrases, too. Come, Martin, sing your song for Mama."

To Irma's surprise Martin obliged, singing with ease five lines of a song utterly new and unintelligible to her.

"Why, that's wonderful, baby." She was aghast at his cleverness. "What can he say, Mademoiselle?"

"Come, Martin, say 'where is my hat?' No, say it in French. You see, Madame, he is bright at picking up. A few months in France would be wonderful for him."

Irma withdrew feeling a trifle awed. Fancy having a son who could demand his hat in a foreign language. It would be nice if he really knew French. She went back to the nursery to suggest that Mademoiselle speak more French to him but when she got there Mademoiselle was looking starry eyed and describing Paris to the baby and he was looking starry eyed, too.

So Irma did not interrupt. She went to her own room and tried to think how Paris would be if the baby were with her. It surprised her to find that her memories of Paris included nothing but the Folies Bergere, Zelli's, the noisy hotel room overlooking Rue Seize and a sick heart. She puckered her brow and tried to recall if French children looked healthy. Certainly their city was clean. The traffic was deadfully heavy though and not particularly well managed. Still Mademoiselle would always be with the baby the same as she was here. He would probably get a lot of fun out of the boat trip, too.

At noon time the baby asked her when they were going on the big boat. She smiled and shook her head. "I don't know, darling." At bed time he asked her again and she gave him the same answer but the next morning when he repeated his question she said, "On the twenty-eighth of this month, Sweetheart. That's soon. Do you hear, Mademoiselle?"

"Ah, oui, Madame, I hear. It is fine that we go."

"I hope so, Mademoiselle." Irma had a sudden shiver of apprehension and drew the baby close to her.

* * * * * * *

Irma found that going to Europe could be very pleasant. It was amazing what a charming group of people one could collect within twenty-four hours. She thought, with a sorry little twist of her lips, how Wallace would enjoy this very superior boat. Even the one on which he had returned to America was nothing compared to this. Everything about it was pleasant but nicest of all was the warm, comforting knowledge that the baby was with her and carefully guarded by his attentive Mademoiselle. Her earnest watchfulness and bright cheerfulness quite outdid themselves these days for she was on a French boat and going to Paris. Who could desire more?

Russell met the boat at Havre. He had brought Mme. Lebeau, the wife of his business associate, with him. He considered it likely that Martin's arrival in a strange country would be a thrilling enough experience to lie among the child's memories forever. For that reason he had brought the chattering and excitable Mme. Lebeau. Her effusive greetings and wild raptures over the child would certainly engage his notice enough to overshadow any significance Russell's presence at the boat may have had. Irma understood why Mme. Lebeau was there and she was deeply grateful to Russell for his kind thoughtfulness.

The drive to Paris was pleasant. There were miles of rolling green beauty dotted here and there with tiny white houses which Martin believed were doll's houses. The few hours passed swiftly enough. Mademoiselle was answering Martin's eager questions and he was pink cheeked and sparkling eyed. Life was pleasant.

However the high, irritable piping of Parisian motor horns swept away her feeling of security. It troubled her to consider the small, insignificant things that could take from her a mood of contentment and leave her with a dull ache in her heart. She knew it was because those shrill peep-peep warnings were integrally woven into the impressions of Paris which she had gathered on her former trip. With a painful vividness she could see the young man in the window at the American Express office and hear his voice say that there was no mail. She could see the letter from Aunt Tessie which had told that the baby had been knocked down by the car. She could see the hotel room and in memory even recall the special odor which had hung about it consisting of dusty draperies, her own cold cream and fruit which Wallace was always buying and forgetting.

She grasped Martin's hand and held it. No other hand in the world could pull her up from the pit of despondency so surely and easily.

Three Art Shows Are Opened; Present Variety

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Three interesting exhibitions have opened. Taking them from north to south, Helen Beatrice Slutz is showing portraits and flower studies in pastel at the Illinois Women's Athletic club; various Chicago painters make up the vivid exhibit in the Increase Robinson studio gallery, Diana Court building, and Edward T. Grigware has a picturesque group of landscapes in the Marshall Field gallery.

Mrs. Slutz is particularly fortunate in her flower paintings. These are exquisite and charming, lovely in color and composition. They are sensitive and delicate and make an immediate appeal to both the eye and the imagination. The "Spring Flowers" is possibly the richest and gayest and most beautiful of this group. Her pastel portraits of children are successful in likeness and delightful in coloring. They make an entrancing gallery. When we turn to her work in oil the glamour of the mellow and soft tones the crayon gives is gone. The oil is effective but not as likeable as is the pastel.

Malvin Marr Albright surprises one in the studio gallery exhibit by showing a stunning still life in vivid colors, "Arrangement." He has been only a sculptor for so long that is comes as a distinct shock to find him an able and romantic colorist. Frances Foy has a charmingly tender and piquant park scene, "The Baby." Beatrice Levy has a stunning landscape in her "Cornishville." Macena Barton offers a dramatic study in simplicity with her "Phyllis." Gustaf Dalstrom has a most amusing kitchen comedy in "Vegetables and Cat." Davenport Griffen offers a superb moment of drama with "Ceremony." George Melville Smith, Increase Robinson, William S. Schwartz and Flora Schofield are others of the group who make this show worth while.

In the Marshall Field gallery Edward T. Grigware has a stimulating series of landscapes painted in Florida, New England and Canada. His work is rich in color and feeling. His technique is one of brilliant deftness. Some of the canvases tune themselves to a slower motif. "Planting Time—Florida" is one of these and another is "Peanuts and Politics." Among the irresistible paintings are "Florida," "Sillery," "Kickapoo Valley" and "Laval." The exhibit will continue to Nov. 14.

FARM AND GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

AN ALIBI FOR HUSBANDS.

Leaves should not be burned. That is an alibi offered by husbands in answer to their wives who think the exercise of raking and burning leaves which have fallen is excellent for their husbands. But this alibi, as suggested by E. D. Davids of the New York state college of agriculture, hinges on sufficient work to convert these leaves into winter protection or to make a compost heap in some corner where future fertilizer can be made and stored.

Good lawns, gardens and shrubbery can be protected and fertilized with these leaves that many home gardeners burn each fall. A leafy mulch set around shrubs in the fall keep frosts away for a few weeks and allows the roots to grow so that they may ward off winter damage and get a better start next summer.

Watering shrubs and trees before the ground freezes is also a commendable practice, it appears, to further avoid winter damage. Soaking the ground with the nozzle removed from the hose is better than sprinkling or spraying with an inadequate amount of water. This is helpful even at this time of the year to offset results of an overly dry season.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Attentions to a Stranger.

I boarded the street car at an intersection and upon seeing a familiar blue hat and coat collar I made my way to them. This girl, who was a close friend, was seated on the side near the middle aisle. Approaching her from behind, I pushed her hat a bit forward and gave the fringe of hair at the back of her neck a good pull. Then I calmly proceeded to take her newspaper away from her. My audacity was checked with an angry, "Say, what's the big idea?" and, looking down into the girl's upturned face, I beheld a total stranger.

My nonchalance gone, my face burning, my explanations weak and incoherent, I was dismissed with a frosty stare and a curt "Forget it." I still don't know how I lived through it.

Washington Findings on Child Health Are in Published Form

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Does it fascinate you to watch the ripples that circle and spread from the dropping of a rock in a lake? In some such way, the effects of the White House conference on child health and protection visualize themselves to me. The conference is not over, by any means. The bulletins it is sending out show how widespread the influence of that coming together was, which took place last November in Washington.

It shows that President Hoover's hope expressed at that time is being realized—the hope that we who attended the conference and those who prepared the reports should have "the vision and inspired understanding to interpret these facts and put them into practice."

The findings of the conference are live, not dead material. They are now coming out in book form, published by the Century company, 353 Fourth avenue, New York City.

So far the books published are: "The White House Conference, 1930," containing abstracts of the reports. Board edition, 50c; cloth, $2. "The Home and the Child," cloth, $3.

"Pediatric Education," paper, 50c. "Communicable Disease Control," cloth, $2.25.

Three others are in the hands of the printers: "Nursery Education," a survey of institutions for the education and training of children under 6; "Special Education," "The Handicapped and the Gifted," and "Health Protection for the Pre-School Child," a national survey for the use of preventive medical and dental service.

Most of these books would not be of as much practical interest to parents in general as the pamphlets which will be listed tomorrow, selling for 10c a copy.

Desires Graduation Outfit.

"Will you ask your readers for a graduation outfit for a girl of 18 who wears size 34 to 36? She is to graduate in December and her father is a poor minister who cannot buy her a new outfit. She is a fine, sweet girl, worthy of your help, and will appreciate anything you can do for her.

"MRS. J. U."

This letter comes to us from a small town in Indiana. The young graduate would be extremely happy if she could be assured of a presentable outfit for this important affair.

BAD SKIN INDICATES TROUBLE HERE! ✣ NOTED SPECIALISTS ADVISE EATING FRESH YEAST

No Use fussing with lotions and salves when the cause of those unsightly pimples is . . .

Poisons Here! To lay the foundation for true complexion beauty you must get rid of Intestinal Fatigue.

3 Cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast every day keep intestines clean—clear up the skin!

DOCTORS—including famous specialists—advise fresh yeast.

© 1931, Standard Brands Incorporated

The loveliest Complexions get their sparkle from WITHIN!

Don't expect salves and ointments to correct blemishes caused by an unclean condition INSIDE YOU

THOSE hateful-looking blotches . . . exasperating blackheads . . . eruptions!

You'd give worlds to be rid of them, wouldn't you? . . . to have a smooth, velvety skin . . . radiant, fresh and clear.

Then here's good news. You can have that kind of a complexion . . . if you will only follow the advice of men who have spent their lifetime studying diseases of the skin!

Here's what these specialists say:

Your skin, they explain, is not just a covering. It is an actual bodily organ, full of tiny glands that help you throw off the poisons that form in your system every day.

Now it frequently happens—especially when the intestines are not functioning properly—that poisons accumulate in your body faster than your skin, kidneys, etc., can throw them off.

And that's when the trouble starts! These poisons circulate through your system. Headaches occur . . . bad breath . . . indigestion. And telltale skin blemishes are one of the very commonest results!

Now can't you see from this how useless it is to try to cure such skin disorders with lotions and salves? Don't you see that you must get rid of Intestinal Fatigue?

So take the first step now. Three times a day—before each meal or between meals and at bedtime—eat a cake of Fleischmann's fresh Yeast!

A food, Fleischmann's Yeast mixes with the clogging waste masses in your intestines—softens them—and at the same time stimulates the action that helps clear them away regularly.

Thus your whole intestinal tract is "toned up"—purified. Poison-forming matter no longer remains to stagnate and contaminate your blood.

And when this occurs, digestion improves. "Pep" returns. You tire less easily. And best of all—those horrid pimples disappear!

Why not start eating Fleischmann's Yeast today? Just eat 3 cakes a day, regularly—before meals, or between meals and at bedtime—plain or dissolved in water (a third of a glass).

And keep it up. The reward will be yours!

Important Fleischmann's Yeast for health is sold only in the foil-wrapped cake with the yellow label. It is yeast in its fresh, effective form—the kind famous doctors recommend. At grocers, restaurants, soda fountains. Rich in health-giving vitamins B, G and D.

Eugene O'Neill Mingles Greek, Modern Drama

"Mourning Becomes Electra" Published Today.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Mourning Becomes Electra," by Eugene O'Neill. [Liveright.] Published today.

THE event of the year today in dramatic literature happens with the publication of Eugene O'Neill's great trilogy. It brings in modern the text of a play which is said by some to be the most impressive ever presented on the American stage. The long drama consists of three separate dramas, "Homecoming," "The Hunted," and "The Haunted." As produced it takes part of the afternoon and all evening to play.

EUGENE O'NEILL.

Eugene O'Neill has used the Electra theme of Greek drama and done with it what he wrote in his working diary in 1926 that he would like to do: "Modern psychological drama, using one of the old legend plots of Greek tragedy for its basic theme—the Electra story. Is it possible to get modern psychological approximation of the Greek sense of fate into such a play which an intelligent audience of today, possessed of no belief in gods or moral retribution, could accept and be moved by?"

In his done the job so well that the answer to his question is from any reader, as well as from any audience, an unqualified "Yes." He has unquestionably caught the terrific power of a retributive fate in his plan. In no recent book which I can remember, even in the more easily available form of fiction, has that sense of fate so completely tangled the minds and the emotions of the reader.

Fate, symbolized by a great house built as a monument of hate, rules the lives of the characters not as a blind punishment from the outside but through their minds. Fate is translated from the external blow to the inner urge of the mind subconsciously dealing its own retribution. Blindly stalks through its pages not as a deus ex machina but as the inner urge of minds incapable, through circumstances, of anything but tragedy.

It is a highly intricate psycholog-

Tourney Offers Chance to Play, Aid Poor, Too

Bridge Fans Rally for the Coming Contest.

The Golden Cards Bridge tournament, to be held the evening of Dec. 3, offers to Chicagoland's multitude of bridge players their first opportunity to act in unison.

They are invited to become members of a specially formed, one-meeting organization whose purposes are two-fold: first, to have a real contest with all others who play this most interesting of indoor games, and, second, to give much needed aid to other people who can't afford bridge—or food or clothing.

All the proceeds of the tournament will go to two relief funds. One-half will be administered by the governor's relief commission, which is striving toward a goal of $6,800,000. The other half will go to the Hungry School Children Fund, which is making it possible for many hundreds of children to get the solid food they must have and which poor parents are unable to furnish.

Every bridge player who enters the contest may rest assured that more than three-fourths of the price he pays for a pack of cards will go in equal parts of these funds. And the price is not large enough to be burdensome to any bridge players who are beyond worry over their milk bills.

Each pack costs $2. Play in the Golden Cards tournament will be in four hands and four packs are needed. Each table will bring in $8. The relief funds will get the proceeds.

All that generous bridge players who desire to help the governor's commission or the hunger stricken youngsters have to do is send in their orders and their remittances. THE TRIBUNE has already ordered the special cards for the tournament and guarantees to deliver them to the contestants well in advance of Dec. 3.

The four packs of cards will be prearranged, and the system of play will be simple. Either contract or auction may be played. South is dealer for the first hand, West for the second, North for the third, and East for the fourth. The hands are almost perfectly balanced, according to Charles True Adams, bridge expert of THE TRIBUNE, who formulated them, and the better playing team, whether it be North-South or East-West, is certain to have the larger score at the end of the play.

Mr. Adams will discuss the rules and outline the methods at 8:15 the evening of Dec. 3 over W-G-N. Play will begin at 8:30. Mr. Adams will broadcast the play of one of the hands at 9:15. Scores will be posted on cards sent out with each order of four packs. These scores should be forwarded to the Golden Cards editor. A committee will decide which are the most nearly perfect and the best players will be invited to a final tournament, where valuable trophies will be awarded the champions.

Already the response to this appeal for bridge players to contribute has been large. More than twenty large hotels have announced they will cooperate by having parties in their cardrooms or lounges. The managements of these hotels will order cards for their guests at the request of the latter.

THE STAGE

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

THIS is a strange little fantasy that the Dramatic league has brought to the Harris theater—doubly strange when contrasted with the flagrant and cynical tendencies of the playgoing times. "Mrs. Moonlight" is its title, and moonbeams are the material out of which its delicate fabric was spun.

It brings the stage back to the mood of Victorian fairy tales. It is sentimental to excess; it is as sweet as a maiden's prayer; and it is also slightly cracked in the head. But it will get under the hide of your modernism, I believe, if you give its odd and demure incantations half a chance to work their spell. Its white magic will turn back the hands of your mental clock and touch you with outmoded emotions.

"Mrs. Moonlight" descends in direct line from the early literary dreamings of J. M. Barrie. You may have heard, perhaps, of the boy who couldn't grow up, by name Peter Pan. In this shadowy and wistful piece you will find his sister—the lady who couldn't grow old. Unlike the rest of womankind, who regard time's relentless warfare upon their complexions as the primal curse, this heroine hates the enchantment that keeps her in the bloom of an eternal twenty. It is a great sorrow for her to be left behind in unchanged youth by the march of the years, while those whom she loves—and particularly her cherished Mr. Moonlight—become gray and withered with the years. So Mrs. Moonlight becomes a sort of Wandering Jewess, with a chronic heartache.

When a bride, back in 1875, she made a wish that she would never grow any older; and because she was wearing a necklace with a Scotch spell upon it—a bijou called "The Dreird"—her wish came true. When she discovered her uncanny blessing she decided to disappear, leaving home, husband and child to the normal chances of human destiny.

She came fluttering back in 1898, pretending to be her own niece, and prevented her grown-up daughter from making a reckless marriage. She returned again, in the third act of 1923, still a creature of fairy loveliness, to comfort the last hour of her senile husband. Then the charm broke and she died, but gracefully and without passing through the terrible metamorphosis of Rider Haggard's "She."

This is, of course, a moonstruck idea for a play, calling for the utmost delicacy in literary treatment, stage direction and acting. Fortunately, there is never a stroke in which the author, or the producer, or the players have gone wrong. "Mrs. Moonlight" tells its gentle, meditative fairy story with exquisite charm. It flutters through sentimental half lights with the ghostly beauty of a lunar moth. It is an Ophelia of comedies—slightly daft and sweetly melancholy; and Charles Hopkins has staged it with an altogether winning sigh.

Edith Barrett, who makes her Chicago debut as the ageless lady, is a personality in complete harmony with the play. She might be described as a blend of Patricia Collinge and Maude Adams; and she gives a notable performance. Sir Guy Standing is as right as always in the rôle of the admirable Mr. Moonlight. The others include Leo G. Carroll, whose characterization of a taciturn Briton brightens the picture.

Maude Adams on Stage Again; Wins Applause

Her Novel Lighting Effects Used in Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 3.—(AP)—A familiar face smiled from across the footlights tonight and a receptive audience applauded again for a star they have missed for thirteen years.

Maude Adams, whose glamorous career was supposed to be at its height when the twentieth century was only beginning, was the actress and her part was Portia in Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice."

Co-starring was Otis Skinner, who has been identified with the stage for more than half a century. He played the part of Shylock.

The opening marked the return of Miss Adams to the stage after a retirement that begin in 1918, when she turned her attention to improving stage lighting devices. Only figuratively did she bow over the footlights tonight, for the stage was lighted by a series of huge spotlights located high in the balcony. From these a soft light was diffused which at times faded to dimness at the whim of electricians.

Many curtain calls greeted the two stars, especially Miss Adams, whose personality seemed to have lost none of its appeal in her long sojourn from the stage.

The occasion drew forth the best groomed and gowned society of Cleveland. At least one out of town critic was present to record his impressions, and a half hour review of the play was broadcast on a National network by Edmund Vance Cook, the poet.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams.

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

"My son," counseled the saddened parent, "never gamble, for there lies the way to ruin; but, my boy, if you do gamble, gamble well and go the whole hog."

While I certainly cannot advise you never to preempt, I can and do most urgently advise you to "go the whole hog" when you use the bid. There are few bids more pitiable and more open to disaster than a weak and timid shutout bid.

Never forget that a preëmptive bid is made only for one purpose—to keep your opponents from bidding. If it is timid, you do not shut out; you simply encourage an adverse bid by exposing your weakness.

Take yesterday's hand, which was:

♥—A,9
♦—J,9,8,4,3,2

WEST
♠—K,J,9,8,4,3
♥—8,7,4,3
♦—10,7
♣—10

EAST
♠—A,10,5
♥—K,J,10,5,2
♦—5
♣—J,8,5,3

SOUTH (Dealer)
♠—Q,7,2
♥—Q,6
♣—9,6,4,2

South opened the bidding with one diamond (a minimum bid of one on a four card suit). West passed. North saw at once that, if partner's strength lay wholly in diamonds, there was a strong chance of a heart or spade declaration from East unless East was shut out by a strong bid. If all South's strength lay in diamonds, South must have held A, K, Q of that suit in order to bid. This meant that North had but three losing tricks—one in spades, one in hearts, one in clubs. Of course, if South held outside strength it would probably take one of North's losers, but an additional loser might develop in the trump suit.

All in all, it looked to North as if the partnership would take ten tricks. But a bid of four diamonds would not be certain to stop a bid by East; so North properly bid five diamonds. All passed. (As East's and West's cards were divided, it is doubtful if East would have attempted even a bid of four hearts. However, East and West can make four hearts.)

West opened the ♣ 10, which dummy took with the A. Dummy then led the 2 of trumps, which South took with the A and returned the K, clearing the suit.

Now South found himself in this situation: He must lose a spade trick and a heart trick, since they cannot be discarded. If he also lost a small club he was down. To be sure that West's lead was a singleton 10 he led the ♣ 4 to dummy's K. This left him with the Q and 7 in dummy, the J and 8 in West's hand, and the 9 and 6 in his own hand.

His only chance was the w. k. elimination play. He must force East either to lead a club to him or to lead a suit which South could trump in one hand and discard in the other.

Dummy led the ♠ 8, which East took with the A, returning the ♠ 10, on which South played the Q. West the K, and dummy trumped with the ♦ 4. Dummy then led the ♦ 8, which South overtook with the Q. He led back the ♠ 7 and trumped it in dummy.

Now dummy took his ♥ A and then led the ♥ 9, which East took with the K. Regardless of East's lead, South takes the remaining tricks. The sacrifice play became a home run.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding square. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S. 3, H. K, etc. In the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

THIS is an entirely new piece as far as the Chicago Opera is concerned. It was last sung here nearly a quarter of a century ago when Chicago had to depend upon traveling companies for its operatic fare. But last night, only the second night of the season, the Civic Opera company brought it out, and what is more to the purpose, made a big artistic success out of it. It was fascinating vocally and again scenically.

I believe that the list of artists printed above made the best balanced cast I ever heard. And this does not mean a well trained cast of mediocrities either, but a cast of stars shining individually, casting their lights upon each other, and never under any circumstances getting in each other's way. There were debuts of Miss Eadie and Mr. Marion in leading rôles, of Miss Barrons and Miss Turner in parts of less length, there were appearances of many others who had already made their reputations here. All contributed to give a great old work a great performance.

Noel Eadie's Voice Meets Demands of Difficult Opera.

Miss Eadie is an astonishing person. Perhaps one reason why "The Magic Flute" is not more often considered by opera producers is that the Queen of the Night is such a difficult part. Miss Eadie started her singing with almost the breadth of a mezzo-soprano. Soon her voice began to soar higher and higher, lightening as it went, and as it lightened growing more lovely. There are high F's to sing here—ask any singer how high they are—and it was a revelation to hear how surely and firmly she hit them, not to speak of the C's and D's and other notes that make up this remarkable set of vocal fireworks. Not for a long time has there been such coloratura singing here about.

And Mr. Marion is a tenor of whom there may be in all reason great hopes. His first notes were clear and of excellent quality, and what he did in the beginning he continued throughout the evening. He sang his graceful solos entirely in the Mozart spirit, he held his own against the mass of other singers. In short, he was a success.

You will see in this opera that a number of artists appear as members of a group, three ladies to the queen, three youths, two priests, two knights, and so on. There were such notables as Mmes. Leider, Votipka, and Olszewska as the ladies to the queen, and seldom has there been such trio singing hereabouts. Nearly as good was the trio of youths by Miss Barrons, Miss Turner—these two debutantes—and Miss Ornstein, who did her first singing the night before.

Stars of Last Year's Wagner Operas Reappear.

Mme. Rajdl, who was so good in "Die Meistersinger" last season, was quite as good in this work. Mr. Kipnis, a noted specialist in rôles of this order, was a model of fine bass singing and dignified demeanor, with an able second in the baritone Orator of Mr. Bockelmann. Mr. Habich extracted all possible humor from the part of Papageno, and Miss Freund made a sprightly little Papagena.

Seventeen scenes in the opera made a problem for the producer. It was solved partly by dark changes, but mostly by drawn curtains, the scenery being constructed with an eye to the fantastic quality of the story rather than the clarity of the music. Some of the scenes became variations on an Egyptian theme, others were content with strange curves and angles, groupings of geometric figures, and flat colors.

Altogether it was an interesting, not to say eye-filling set of pictures, and will, if all goes well, be treated more at length later. Curiously, the settings became more attractive as the performance went on, and by the same token, the singing performance became lighter, swifter, and more surely in the mood of classic comedy. It would seem that Conductor Pollak knows his business, not that he has not proved this many times before.

It is good advice to purchase tickets for this opera. The first repetition will take place next Monday night.

Here're Clever Tips for the Amateur on Applying Eye Shadow

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Here are a few rules on eyeshadow pilfered from a trade paper. While the directions were aimed at the person who sells you your eye make-up, there's much meat for the lay woman in the don'ts suggested as good sales policy.

First, there is a "don't" embodying the principle of make-up being incomplete without eyeshadow, a fact, however, pretty well known to the cosmetic buying public now. But stress is laid on the fact that any beautiful thing is more beautiful with the contrast of color, a play of lights and shadows.

This you can turn to your advantage: "Don't advise the use of light shadow—brown, blue, grey, or lavender—without advising the customer to outline the lash line of her eye first with a thin, black line, lightly applied. This may sound a bit theatrical to the average person, but don't allow that to matter because a little analysis shows why it is best. If this thin black line is drawn close enough to the eye, it looks as if it were produced by the lashes themselves.

"Don't advise the use of blue or grey shadow for dark eyes.

"Don't advise the use of brown or black shadow for extremely light eyes.

You're not through, however, with competent advice on the coloring that is deemed best for you. There's the art of putting it on. Lightly for day wear with the tint applied evenly to the lid as a general rule. In some instances you will find that using a little shading towards the nose and spreading it out a bit more heavily nearly to the temple, a larger-eyed effect is gained.

It's well in your amateur eyeshadow work to experiment quite a bit before you make your public debut. Use a cream on the lid so that you can spread the shadow more lightly and more deftly. Wipe it off, if you don't succeed the first time. And keep on trying because it is awfully important how you put that shadow on.

Tom Moore Marries Eleanor Merry, Actress

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Tom Moore, actor and former husband of Alice Joyce and Renee Adoree, film stars, was married to Eleanor Merry, Hollywood girl, at Tia Juana, Mexico, last Friday, according to telegrams published here. Miss Merry has played minor parts in several films, and attracted attention in 1928 when she sued Loren Mendell, former holder of the world's endurance refueling aviation record. She demanded $28,700 damages of Mendell, and attached his plane, alleging that his carelessness resulted in her injury in an airplane accident.

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Since departure of Doug Fairbanks and Mary Pickford for the east and the temporary abandonment of all film production on the United Artists lot, that once humming studio is known as "the Ghost City of Hollywood."

Joseph Schenck quit as generalissimo of this lot more than a year ago. His departure as producing chief, followed by retirement of his wife, Norma Talmadge, from pictures, and his protege, Al Jolson's return to stage life on Broadway, have left the chief activity on the premises to be provided by the occasional pictures which Sam Goldwyn, now United Artists production chief, felt like producing individuality. Even Goldwyn is not now turning a wheel.

There is a pathetic story back of Robert Williams' five day fight to cheat death in Hollywood hospital. When Williams was stricken at Pathé studio last Thursday while preparing to act as Constance Bennett's leading man in "Lady with a Past," he was rushed to the hospital and his case diagnosed as an emergency appendicitis case. He was taken at once to the operating room. Arrived there he sat up on the operating table and steadfastly refused to permit surgery. After two hours or more of this the actor was taken back to his room in the hospital to receive best treatment possible, short of an operation. His appendix burst, however, and the operation had to be performed. Peritonitis set in, and from Saturday until this morning, Bob Williams hovered between life and death. Late yesterday another operation was performed and Dr. William E. Branch, noted some slightly encouraging changes in his condition.

Williams formerly was married to Marion Harris, actress, and is father of a daughter, Mary Ellen, 9, by that marriage. His present wife is Nina Penn Williams, New York stage actress.

Al Jolson is back on the stage after the ordeal of pocketing $960,000 on a United Artists film contract, during which he never shot more than a sound test. Even Sylvia, the masseuse, has quit the picture gals and is in New York rehearsing to become a stage actress in a play about her own adventures with witch hazel, cosmetics, blondes and brunettes.

How Do Dancers Manage?

The professional dancer make no allowance for the trying time of a woman's monthly sickness. Yet her menstruating must not interfere with her easy, effortless performance. Such women do not "fight" periodic pain, but avoid it. They use Midol, and do not suffer even a twinge of menstrual pain. Why don't you meet these monthly emergencies with this remarkable modern discovery?

Midol takes pain off the calendar. Monthly martyrdom is foolish. For Midol is as harless as the aspirin tablet you take for your headache! All drug stores; just ask for Midol.

Sports Jackets Fit the Figure Snugly

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—The collarless cardigan sweaters and jackets that have been universally worn for active sports, these many years, are no longer among those present in Paris styles. Sports jackets, this winter, be they knitted or made of cloth, have collars and button right up the front in single or double breasted fashion. They are, also, fitted to the figure and eschew the shapeless cardigan line.

Sports jackets may be bright, and even loud, if they are worn only for the actual game. Paris likes bold stripes to pattern the sports jacket or sweater, and they may be in such vivid shades as the orange, green and brown of the Heim sports jacket in the sketch herewith. This jacket is knitted and buttons from hipline to throat. It has a standing collar of beaver, lined with striped tricot and this collar may be worn turned down as well as up. A band of beaver makes the jacket hem.

Under this Heim jacket is an apron dress of green jersey, which has a divided skirt. Paris is sold on the divided skirt for active sports, but doesn't like it for anything less strenuous.

There is a yoke at the hipline of this dress in front and back, but it does not function at the sides. The blouse has a low, square neck and buttons down the front. It is sleeveless, so that the striped sweater that is worn underneath shows at the neck and on the sleeves.

The stripes of this pull-over are placed diagonally, and a little scarf of the striped tricot buttons around the neck. All sports clothes have rather high necklines, this fall and winter.

After 20 Years of Life with Unsocial Mate Wife Craves Friends

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I married a man who never has been desirous of making friends or lending any coöperation in that direction. He is most self-sufficient and doesn't consider the need for himself of anything outside his home and his work. I don't know whether constant association over twenty years with a man of this temperament has dulled me so that I do not make social contacts, or not. I was not dissatisfied until recently, I suppose because I was too busy having and rearing my family, but now with time on my hands, I wish I could build up a more interesting life for myself.

"I have been reading modern psychology in an effort to help, but I feel a misfit. I have all the home comforts; dress nicely, have a daughter in the university, but find myself in the forties without a congenial friend.

"A MISFIT."

I'd lay off the modern psychology study and just apply the good old fashioned system of being a friend. Some of this modern stuff isn't ripe enough for healthy digestion, especially by a woman who for twenty years pursued the old fashioned methods of tending home, husband, and family.

Educating father to be a social light after twenty years of doing as he pleased is not going to be any easy task. He'd probably go round saying: "I don't know what's come over this woman of mine. She used to be a nice home-body. Suddenly she's gone haywire."

If there's any educating to be done, it had better be done without father getting an inkling that he is being dragged in. But then, smart women can make their men do just about anything they want them to do—providing, as I say, they use methods about which father's suspicions are never raised.

Consequently, that means that arguing the subject had better be ruled out. It's a compliment to you, "Misfit," that you have been able to maintain a home from which your man has no desire to absent himself. What with that and the comfortable circumstances he has provided for you I wouldn't get myself all het up, at this age, about his shortcomings. I wouldn't go working up any case against him. Of course, you can make friends if you set out to make them. Give them cheer, give them sympathy, bring them sunshine. They'll come back for more.

We're all hungry for this sort of nourishment. We don't give a hoot if our friends never heard of Freud. But if they've heard of us, or want to hear of us—we'll see that they get our company!

THREE MEALS A DAY From the Tribune Cook Book

BY MARY MEADE.

Food Talk.

The health value of the dessert and its dietetic balance in relation to the other foods of the meal is an important factor for the cook to consider. It is the "treat," as it were, and upon its excellence depends much of the success of the meal. Plan it with a thought to its healthful, as well as appetizing qualities. With your chin in the air remember that a simple, inexpensive dessert is frequently more acceptable to family and company than an elaborate concoction.

Fruits of all kinds are a grand working basis for simple and elaborate desserts. Lucky for us, too, when we serve them as such, we don't ordinarily have to worry as to whether or not they are good for the children. They usually are. Fresh fruit combinations, fruit flavored gelatines, custards and frozen desserts, puddings of all types, dessert sauces, pies and cakes with fruit fillings and frostings—make acceptable and attractive desserts the year around. With the exception of fruit pastries, what I just said about all of them being suitable for the children, still holds true. And, occasionally, when children have achieved the age of seven years, a small piece of apple pie won't harm them.

APPLE CRISP.

6 medium sized apples [4 cups].
¼ cup of water.
1 teaspoon of cinnamon.
½ cup of brown sugar.
½ cup of pastry flour.
4 tablespoons of butter.

Pare the apples and slice very thin. Blend the sugar, flour and butter, keeping the ingredients cold so that the resulting mixture will be crumbly. Butter a casserole, or baking dish; lay the apples in it and sprinkle them with the cinnamon. Add the water, and then spread over them the crumbly mixture. Bake uncovered in a moderately hot oven [400 degrees Fahrenheit] for about forty minutes. Serve with, or without cream.

LEMON CORNSTARCH PUDDING.

¼ cup of cornstarch.
1¼ cups of milk.
2 tablespoons of butter.
2 egg yolks, beaten.
6 tablespoons of sugar.
1 teaspoon of grated lemon rind.
⅓ cup of strained lemon juice.
2 egg whites.
2 tablespoons of sugar.

Cook the cornstarch and milk in a double boiler for fifteen minutes. Add the butter, egg yolks, six tablespoons of sugar, and the lemon rind. Cool. Add the lemon juice. Fold in a meringue made of the stiffly beaten egg whites and the two tablespoons of sugar. Bake in a casserole, or baking dish set in a pan of hot water in a moderate oven [325 degrees Fahrenheit] for thirty or forty minutes. Test the interior with a knife when the top has become a golden brown. Serve cold. Dust thickly with powdered sugar just before serving. [This is a tart pudding especially suitable served at the close of dinner.]

Now permit your mind to skip backwards from desserts to entrées.

CROWN ROAST OF LAMB.

Have the butcher prepare two racks from ribs of lamb, without separating at the bottom, and fasten together to form a crown shaped piece. Trim the ends of the bone evenly and wrap each bone in a thin strip of fat to prevent the bone from burning during the cooking. Place the meat in a roasting pan in a hot oven [500 degrees Fahrenheit] for twenty minutes; then reduce to a moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit] and roast for about one and one-quarter hours.

Remove the fat from the bones, and cover them with paper chop holders just before serving. When the meat is served place it on a large chop plate with the cooked cauliflower placed in the center of the crown. Glaze the cauliflower with butter and sprinkle it with paprika. Garnish the whole platter with parsley, radish roses, or any other vegetable flower.

SYMPHONIE
Face Powder ends all your search for the right shade. It's the natural tone. $1 the box.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. J. H. Edwards for 20 years trusted adviser of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he prescribed his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Known the world by their olive color.

These tablets are wonderful in their action on the liver and bowels, causing them to perform normal action, carrying off the body waste and poisonous matter in one's system.

If you have a pale face, yellow skin, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, constipation of sorts, inactive bowels, take one or two Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a short time and note the pleasing results.

Thousands of women and men use Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now and then—to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION
Ruddy cheeks—sparkling eyes—most women can have. Dr. F. M. Edwards for 20 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave his patients a substitute for calomel made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Know them by their olive color.
These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, causing a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system.
If you have a pale face, yellow complexion, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, bad breath, a listless, no-good feeling, or suffer from constipation, take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results. Thousands of women and men use Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—now and then to keep fit. 15c, 30c and 60c.

...rmy Wedding ...Set for Dec. 19 ...in Winnetka

BY THALIA——

...ere isn't any social ceremony ...more excitingly impressive than ...a military wedding, and there ...hasn't been an important one ...for a long time. So there'll ...be extra interest in the marriage of ...Miss Helen Hardenbergh, daughter ...of Maj. and Mrs. Raymond W. ...Hardenbergh of Fort Hamilton, N. Y., ...and Lieut. John Francis Regis Seitz, ...son of Mrs. George Hillary Seitz ...of Wilmington, Del. The wedding and ...reception are to take place at the ...Winnetka residence of the bride to ...her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. ...Ayres Boal, on Dec. 19.

Mrs. Hardenbergh, her daughters, ...Miss Helen and Miss Susan Hardenbergh, and her son, Raymond Jr., are ...expected in Winnetka the first week ...in December to be with Mr. and Mrs. ...Boal and Mrs. Lorenzo Johnson until ...after Christmas, and Maj. Hardenbergh will join them shortly before ...the wedding.

...Definite plans for the wedding ...haven't yet been made, but there'll ...probably be lots of army uniforms in ...evidence, and the arched aisle of ...crossed sabers for the bride and groom ...to go through. Lieut. Seitz is to be ...stationed at Fort Snelling as aide on ...Gen. John Hughes' staff.

Colorado Keeley Memorial to Be Dedicated on Friday.

The Gertrude Keeley memorial terrace, given to the Passavant Memorial hospital by Mr. James Keeley in memory of his wife, is to be formally opened on Friday afternoon with a tea to be given by the Woman's Aid society of the hospital, of which Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman is president. I haven't a very clear idea of the memorial part, except that it's a large glass and metal structure on the ninth floor of the hospital to be used for convalescing patients, that it's something entirely new architecturally, that it's very modern and very lovely.

Mrs. Coleman is to be present at the tea, even though she'll have to be in a wheel chair because her broken ankle bone hasn't yet mended, and the members of the board will assist in receiving and at the tea table.

Official announcement of the charity ball comes from J. Russell Forgan, chairman of the benefits division of the joint emergency relief fund for Cook county. It's to be at the Auditorium theater on Dec. 4; the entire proceeds are to be turned over to the benefits division. Howard F. Gillette has been named chairman of the men's committee, and Mrs. Potter Palmer is to serve as chairman of the women's committee. The Junior league is to cooperate with the committee in charge of the arrangements. I've heard that various organizations before have contemplated using the Auditorium for benefits but have been deterred by the expensive prospect of cleaning and renovating the place.

Elizabeth Dickinson's Debut Tea Given at Fortnightly.

Count and Countess Ruzellai (Theron Higginson) spent a few hours yesterday with Mrs. Darrow Bruce Fabian between their arrival in the morning from the east and their departure at 5 o'clock for Arizona.

Miss Elizabeth Dickinson wore a pale green satin dress and held a colorful arm bouquet of fall flowers when she received the guests at the debut tea her parents, the William Woodbridge Dickinsons, gave for her yesterday afternoon at the Fortnightly. After the tea her aunt, Mrs. Max Hoffman, gave a dinner at the Casino and a theater party for the bud and her assistants. Margaret Chapman, Alice Sue Dickinson, Dorothy Dewes, Jane Farnam, Barbara Graf, Margaret Hamill, Gwendolyn Juergens, Myra Little, Catherine Molloy, Louise Neff, Anne Swift, and Jane Valentine were among the assisting debutantes.

Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick is giving a tea at her apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive this afternoon for the distinguished guest committee of the Woman's City club and other members who are interested in the club's benefit card party to be given the first Wednesday afternoon in December at the Bendix galleries.

Notes—Miss Jeanne de Mars is to give three lectures on Monday afternoons beginning next week on "The New Impulse in Modern Life," "Mysteries Ancient and Modern," and "The Relationship Between the Living and the Dead" at the respective residences of Mrs. J. M. Patterson of 30 Lake Shore drive; Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, of 2430 Lake View avenue, and of Mrs. Waller Borden of 2000 Lake Shore drive. . . . Although she's still in bed as a result of her fall in the hunt at Wheaton on Sunday, Miss Howard Linn is "carrying on" valiantly with the preparations for the Olivet institute "Tableaux vivants" benefit at Orchestra hall on Nov. 17. Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson is having a meeting of the debutantes, who are to sell tickets, this morning. . . . Mrs. Hugh J. McBirney has come in from Lake Forest and is staying at the Drake hotel. . . . Reservations for the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations luncheon at the Palmer house tomorrow have been made by Mrs. Stephen Y. Hords, the Charles G. Dewers, the Stuart Otises, and Miss John V. Farwell.

There is to be a meeting of the friends of Opera on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 17 at the Drake ballroom.

To Have Military Wedding

MISS HELEN HARDENBERGH.
[Jay T. Winburn Photo.]

The marriage of Miss Helen Hardenbergh, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Raymond W. Hardenbergh of Fort Hamilton, N. Y., and Lieut. Francis Regis Seitz, U. S. A., son of Mrs. George Hillary Seitz of Wilmington, Del., is to take place on Dec. 19 at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ayres Boal in Winnetka.

SOCIETY AT THE OPERA

After the blaze of glory which ushered in the opera on Monday night, last night's audience at "The Magic Flute," the second performance of the season, seemed unusually quiet. To be sure, every box had its quota of fashionably attired occupants, but the single intermission left little time for the visiting and promenading which is as much a part of the show and color of opera as the performance behind the footlights.

Among the regular Tuesday night subscribers present in the lower tier were: Mr. and Mrs. James Simpson, who had with them their son, John Simpson, the W. B. Simpsons, and Miss Laura Hammer; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Caldwell, who were hosts to Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCormick Adams, and Mr. and Mrs. Laurence O. Wilson; Mr. and Mrs. George M. Reynolds, with the Earle Reynoldses and the Abner Stilwells as their guests.

Mrs. John R. Thompson, wearing green brocade, was the hostess in the Harry L. Thomas box to her daughter, Mrs. W. David Owen, in a trailing black velvet gown with a shoulder corsage of scarlet velvet flowers, and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rinaker.

One of the more decorative looking boxes was the Howard Linns. There Mrs. William Mitchell Blair and her mother, Mrs. Alfred H. Granger, had as guests Mrs. Marjory Caldwell and Shepherd —Vogelsang. Mrs. Blair's gown was a lovely flowing model of transparent black velvet, untrimmed except for a rhinestone clasp terminating the deep V decolletage where it met the high waistline in back. Mrs. Granger wore a brown satin gown and Mrs. Caldwell a white chiffon velvet gown and a wide sleeved jacket with rhinestone bands crossing at the shoulders.

In the Frederick H. Rawson box Mrs. Dudley Rutter was hostess to a group including Mrs. Richardson Dunbana, Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Phelps Hoyt, Mrs. John Gary, and Mrs. William P. Martin.

The Charles H. Swifts occupied seats close to the orchestra on the main floor and lent their box to a party of young people composed of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sims, Miss Caroline McNair, Mr. and Mrs. Sangor Henchman, and George Getz Jr. Others on the main floor were Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Insull, the latter in a white satin gown with rhinestone trimming and a midnight blue velvet cape banded in fox; Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Durbin, and Mrs. Frederic W. Upham.

Among other boxholders present were Mr. and Mrs. Warren Fairbanks, the latter in flesh colored satin, with their daughter, Miss Cornelia Fairbanks, who wore a wine colored satin gown with a "harness" decolletage and ruffled peplum; Mr. and Mrs. George T. Leach, whose guests were the Shreve Badgers and the Hamilton Allports; Col. and Mrs. William Nelson Pelouze with their daughter, Miss Medora; Mr. and Mrs. George Rasmussen, who had Mrs. Edward A. Leight as their guest; Mrs. James Offield, who had a party of guests in the William Wrigley Jr. box; Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Yager, whose guests included Miss Louise Yager, Samuel Givens Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Cantwell Jr. Mrs. Columbus Healy, in brown satin, Mrs. E. W. Pardridge, wearing black satin with diamonte trimming, and Miss Janet Frye occupied the Stuyvesant Peabody box.

33d Division's Veterans Will Meet Dec. 5

The call for mobilization has been issued. Veterans of the Thirty-third division, Illinois National Guard, are to assemble at 10 a. m., Dec. 5, at the Hotel Sherman. Infantry, machine gun battalions, artillery, engineers, ammunition train, military police, division headquarters troops are expected to report for duty. None is expected to falter in this war, which will only last two days.

The convention will open at about 10 with an invocation by the Rev. John J. O'Hearn. Mess call will sound at noon. Assembly will be blown at 2 p. m. and the convention will be resumed. An election of officers will be held. After that arduous campaign, there will be a banquet at 7:30 in the grand ballroom. There will be a review or revue at midnight, the orders are not clear as to which is meant.

The following day the veterans will visit the grave of their commander, Maj. Gen. George Bell Jr., at Rosehill cemetery. The ceremony there will be at 11 a. m.

14 Utah Students for 50-50 Club for Dates

Salt Lake City, Utah, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Acting on the recent suggestion of President George Thomas of the University of Utah that women students should share in the expenses of social affairs, 14 men students announced the organization of a "fifty-fifty" club. A clubman said: "If the girls don't want to pay half, they can stay at home."
"There are plenty of other fish in the pond," a co-ed remarked.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover had as their guests at luncheon today Hans Kindler, conductor of the National Symphony orchestra, which made its debut concert yesterday afternoon, and Albert Herter.

Mrs. Hoover attended the birthday party of the girl aids department of the Y. W. C. A. this afternoon in the Little House, headquarters of the Y. W. C. A. The tea was given from 4 to 6 o'clock and Mrs. Hoover cut the great birthday cake which bore fifty lighted candles. Miss Mary Lesta Wakeman, president of the girls aids, received the guests, who were representatives of various organizations of young women in the capital. Assisting at the party were presidents of the 21 girl aids' clubs in the district. Before returning to the White House, Mrs. Hoover viewed the opening of the exhibit at the Sears-Roebuck art gallery on Connecticut avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hart were hosts at a buffet supper this evening, entertaining in honor of Rafael Sabatini, who gave a lecture at the community institute this evening. Mrs. Hart is better known in the book world as Frances Noyes Hart and is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Noyes, who lived in Chicago for some years.

Miss Clara Bolling, niece of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, was entertained at luncheon today at the National Woman's Country club by Miss Emiscah Gale Davis. The other guests were those who will attend Miss Bolling at her marriage Saturday to Harry R. Fowler.

Mrs. John R. Hertz of Chicago is visiting Rear Admiral and Mrs. Cary T. Grayson.

Cold Insurance
He carries it with him, ready for just such times. That little box of Bayer Aspirin. If he catches cold, what of it? Bayer Aspirin will stop it. If his throat feels sore, he will end the soreness with one good gargle made from these tablets.
Dangerous complications can follow the neglect of "a common cold!" Every case of tonsilitis began with "just a sore throat!" It's a wise plan to take aspirin after any undue exposure to bad weather, or whenever there is any chance that you've caught cold. If it's genuine aspirin it can't possibly hurt you; and how it does banish the aches and pains caused by colds, neuralgia, neuritis, lumbago, and even rheumatism.
Bayer Aspirin will insure your comfort through the worst cold season. The more susceptible you are to colds, the more you need it. Does not depress the heart.

ical drama, touching shores of thought barely explored as yet on the stage, but its form is one of the simplest that Eugene O'Neill ever has used. The three plays are as straightaway drama as any Augustus Thomas might have written. There is nothing of the methods which have made Mr. O'Neill's drama spectacular in the past. The method of "Strange Interlude," that of the spoken thought as well as the spoken word being given by each character, has been discarded entirely. There never is an aside. Likewise the trick of using masks to conceal, as well as reveal, the thoughts of the characters which he used in "The Great God Brown" has been discarded. And yet "Mourning Becomes Electra" gives to the reader a terrific sense of the unspoken thoughts of the characters and of their masklike hiding of those thoughts. It is almost as if Mr. O'Neill had, by the use of those devices, taught himself how to do without them. He has achieved in this play an effect of psychological revealment even more remarkable than that effect in either "Strange Interlude" or "The Great God Brown."

The play takes place in New England in 1865 and 1866. It begins with the possession by the great Mannon house, a "temple of hate," of the spirits of those who live in it. It ends with that possession. The drama of the struggle of the characters to escape that possession is the drama of man defying his fate, and being, despite all of his struggles, possessed by it. Within that major struggle are played subdramas of an intensity and a terror rarely found in modern literature.

Mrs. Dolly Gann Plans to Attend Movie Banquet

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Because Mrs. Dolly Gann is going to the west coast to see and be seen by the stars of Hollywood, a big Armistice day ball here will have to go on without her. Mrs. Gann is honorary chairman of Armistice ball patronesses, with Mrs. William E. Borah, active chairman. With her brother, Vice President Curtis, she will attend the Motion Picture academy banquet on Nov. 10.

Exhibit of Jade Traces Lore of Old, New China

Jade, a sacred stone of old China, carved into 1,300 objects of art, is the predominating subject of a collection which was placed on exhibition yesterday at the Field Museum of Natural History.

The objects range from about 2000 B. C. to the end of the eighteenth century, according to Stephen C. Simms, director of the museum. This span of nearly 4,000 years covers the development of jade carving, one of the fine arts of China.

Folklore and the customs of the Chinese people are reflected in the work. The ancient Chinese notion of the shape of the earth, flat and square outside, and rounded in the interior are revealed in emblems of the earth deity carved from jade. In the collection is a pair of jade sandals, which were worn by ancient sovereigns during the imperial sacrifice to the deity of heaven.

Many of the jades are found carved in the form of insects, especially cicadas. These were sent to the funerals of one's friends and placed on the tongue of the corpse.

Of historical interest in the collection is an imperial seal of jade, weighing six pounds, which was conferred upon the Empress Jui, consort of Emperor Kia-k'ing of the Manchu dynasty on Feb. 12, 1796. This was upon the occasion of her first official appointment as empress of China. The seal bears a pair of carved dragons.

The large group of jade objects represents years of effort on the part of collectors. The foundation of the collection was laid by the Blackstone expedition to China for the Field museum in 1908-10, which was sponsored by the late Mrs. T. B. Blackstone and led by Dr. Berthold Laufer, curator of anthropology under whose supervision the collection was arranged for exhibition. Additional material was collected by the Marshall Field expedition to China in 1923. There are many donors in Chicago and New York.

MASTRO FIGHTS FOR BOXING TITLE TONIGHT

BIG TEN TITLE HALO HOVERS OVER WILDCATS

Just on Paper, N. U. Seems to Have It.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The final standings in the Western conference football race, which ends two weeks from Saturday, already have taken definite shape. While this is not proved, and can't be until Nov. 21, the 1931 title probably was decided Oct. 17, when Michigan lost to Ohio State and Wisconsin upset Purdue, leaving Northwestern to set the pace.

The Big Ten results are doubly interesting this year, for they will determine the lineup for the post-season charity contests. Although each university has at least two conference games to play and four of them have nine games each, the final standings can be predicted with a fair degree of accuracy.

Here Are Standings.

The Big Ten standings at this date are:

	W.	L.	T.	Games to play.
Minnesota	3	0	0	Minn. Indiana Iowa
Illinois	3	0	0	N. W. Mich.
Indiana	3	1	0	Indiana Minn.
Purdue	3	1	0	Iowa Indiana
Ohio State	3	1	0	Wis. Illinois
Wisconsin	1	1	0	Illinois Ohio Chicago
Iowa	1	1	1	Mich. N. W. Purdue
Chicago	0	1	1	Purdue N. W.
Michigan	0	2	0	Illinois Wis.
Northwestern	0	3	0	Wis. Chicago Ohio

It is trite to say that no game is decided until the final whistle has blown. But the remaining Big Ten games certainly provide opportunity for astronomical guessing. Not more than five of these games are subject to even betting on the result, and then it may be stretching the point to call some of the teams evenly matched on their season's records.

These five games are:

Minnesota vs. Michigan.
Purdue vs. Indiana.
Ohio State vs. Wisconsin.
Wisconsin vs. Illinois.
Chicago vs. Illinois.

Michigan defeated Minnesota last year only 7 to 0 by the return of a punt for the touchdown. Michigan's running attack, which only has appeared strong against Illinois this year, matches the Gophers' running plays in approximate strength.

Purdue Still a Puzzle.

Purdue, the enigma of the conference, has yet to get the touchdowns it was duped to score. Weakness in the line offsets backfield strength and to a degree accounts for Wisconsin's 7 to 6 victory and the Boilermakers' narrow 7 to 0 win over Illinois. Consequently, Indiana has just an excellent opportunity to beat Purdue as it had in 1929, when it upset its state rival, 7 to 6.

Ohio State and Wisconsin played a thriller to last year, and while the Buckeyes have defeated Michigan, they did not appear to an advantage at Indiana last Saturday.

While Wisconsin's record is far superior to that of the Illini, its victory over Purdue may be discounted to a degree by the Badgers' collapse against Pennsylvania and defeat last Saturday, 14 to 6, by Minnesota. Unless Wisconsin pulls together this week Illinois may win. Just how Northwestern's team, which has scored only one touchdown in three conference games, is going to do this is another good guess. However, Illinois' games were against first division teams—Michigan, Purdue, and Northwestern.

Blind Maroon Result Dubious.

If Illinois does not beat Wisconsin, it might be well to include the Chicago-Illinois game as doubtful. Chicago was the only Big Ten team defeated by Illinois in 1930. The score was 21 to 6, but Chicago has done a lot better this fall while Illinois, if anything, is worse.

Checking over the remainder of the schedule, the final standings should look something like this:

Northwestern	5	0	0	Wisconsin	3	2	0
Purdue	4	1	0	Indiana	3	4	1
Ohio State	4	1	0	Illinois	1	5	0
Minnesota	4	1	0	Iowa	0	3	1
Michigan	3	2	0	Chicago	0	5	0

Granting that the finish approximates the above standings, our suggestions for post-season charity games are: Michigan vs. Northwestern, Purdue vs. Ohio State, Minnesota vs. Illinois, Indiana vs. Wisconsin, and Chicago vs. Iowa.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

A comparison of college and professional football is ridiculous in the opinion of a large percentage of the readers who have taken enough interest in the discussion to write in their views. They contend that the post graduate game is so much superior there is no comparison.

DICK HANLEY.

Having spent several years of his life in the business of being ridiculous, this writer does not hesitate to state that, in his estimation, with due allowance for reshuffling of war debts and reparations and recognition of the polluted condition of some of the Wisconsin streams, there is at least one college football team that can whip the Bears or the Packers any or every week-end of the season.

If any one doubts it, I wish he would arrange a game between Notre Dame and either the Packers or Bears for Soldiers' field Dec. 6.

There probably are two or three other rah rah elevens that could turn the trick, but I would be willing to wager my oil wells, copper mines, and handball glove only on Notre Dame.

I wasn't ready to shoot the works until I saw the Packers defeat the Bears at Wrigley field Sunday afternoon. This was supposed to represent the ultimate in gridiron technique. Maybe it was. But I am sure I have seen college teams, led by 19 or 20 year old quarter backs, show better strategy than either of these outstanding professional elevens displayed Sunday.

Nobody left Wrigley field feeling he had not received his money's worth. There have been few games more exciting. But as I watched expert backs fumble the ball on line plunges, throw forward passes to unprotected parts of the field and permit themselves to be trapped behind the goal line for safeties there was an increased yearning to see what would happen if they made mistakes like these against Notre Dame.

I pick Notre Dame as my standard bearer against the pros because it has the replacements to survive the physical strain of competing against heavier and more matured men. Then, too, Notre Dame is more versatile both on attack and defense than any college eleven I can name. It knows four or five ways to handle every play where most teams are satisfied if they have mastered one. The Irish are equally dangerous on land or in the air.

The pros, of course, would have greater weight, but added poundage does no particular good when your man scoots past before you realize what is going on. Russell Saunders, the 175 pound Green Bay boy who is playing his first year in post-graduate football, proved that Sunday.

And the clinching argument, as submitted by Bob Zuppke and Dick Hanley, is the collegians' "zest for the game."

Now, readers, it is your turn to shoot. I hope for the best but fear for the worst. I shall try to bear up with Spartan fortitude.

I might add that I picked Stribling to whip Schmeling.

3 ATHLETICS TO GO, SAYS MACK; HOLDS UP NAMES

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Record tonight quoted Connie Mack as saying two or three members of the American league champions will be traded or sold for waivers within a short time. Mack, the paper said, will announce details at the end of the week, with another "more important announcement" next Wednesday.

Mack refused to name the players, but the Record intimated Phil Todt, reserve first baseman, would be sent to St. Paul in part payment for Oscar Roettger,

PURPLE REBUILDS PASSING ATTACK AROUND OLSON

Rentner's Injured Thumb Causes Revision.

Apparently feeling that Saturday's game with Minnesota will be decided by forward passing and kicking, Northwestern's football team devoted most of its attention yesterday to these two phases of the game. The Gophers and Wildcats possess two outstanding kickers of the midwest in Munn and Olson, respectively.

The Wildcats found difficulty yesterday in stopping a freshman forward pass attack in which the yearlings emulated as closely as possible the Gopher aerial offense. The regulars have much respect for the passing of Ubl, Minnesota half back, and plan to spend considerable time this week on forward pass defense.

The Wildcats are building a new passing game of their own. The injury to Rentner's right hand will keep him from hurling his usual number of aerials. Rentner's threat against the Gophers will be confined to ball carrying, while the passing assignment will fall to Ollie Olson.

Auguston May Get Chance.

Ray Auguston, sophomore back, who performed with the B team until the Illinois game, may get a chance in the back field Saturday. His kicking, passing and running against Illinois has warranted further varsity duty in the opinion of the coaching staff.

The fact that Minnesota has added a strong passing and running game to its usual power attack has caused apprehension in the Wildcat camp this week. The Purple tacticians expect to meet a Minnesota team which will be 50 per cent improved over last year's. The job of stopping such open field runners as MacDougall and Somers, together with the line smashing of Manders and Munn, is what confronts the Wildcats this week-end.

Reb Russell Is Ready.

Reb Russell continues to show improvement in the daily workouts and will be prepared Saturday to add his line thrusts to the Purple attack. The long lay-off has not slowed up the big fellow and his presence in the Purple lineup for at least a portion of the game is certain.

Northwestern's homecoming celebration will get under way tomorrow night when the McKinlock campus division, comprising the professional schools of the university, holds its program in the 122d Field Artillery armory on Chicago avenue. Nearly 3,000 old grads are expected to attend the celebration at which Coach Dick Hanley and Athletic Director Tug Wilson will speak.

GOPHERS BACK TO WORK

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Completely rested after two days off, the Minnesota regulars tonight indulged in a light offensive scrimmage against the second freshman team.

Pete Somers was unable to take his place at quarter back because of a sore side and Kenny MacDougall went to that post. Otherwise the Minnesota lineup had no changes. Gay continued at left tackle in place of Wells, while Stein was at center.

Minnesota scouts who watched Northwestern last Saturday gave the varsity an idea of the Wildcats' defense before they began polishing off the Gophers' running and passing attacks.

Tickets for the Northwestern game have been sold so fast here since Saturday that an S. O. S. was sent to Evanston for more. About 5,000 Minnesota rooters will accompany the squad to Evanston.

HODAPP, INDIAN INFIELDER, WEDS; TO TOUR EUROPE

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Johnny Hodapp, Cleveland Indian second baseman, and Miss Martha Graham of Indianapolis, were married here today.

Hodapp and his wife left immediately for New York and will sail Nov. 5 for Europe. They will make their home in Cincinnati.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

PLAYER OF GREATEST VALUE.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S eighth annual silver football for the Big Ten football player of greatest value to his team, as already announced, will be awarded at the end of the 1931 season. Already discussion is taking place as to where that honor is most likely to fall.

Strangely enough, players from the same university never have repeated in the seven awards made. Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Purdue exponents of gridiron prowess have yet to win a silver football. It would, of course, be gratifying to see a player from one of that trio capture the coveted award. Yet the personnel of the board of award is such that merit governs and it is not possible to "pass around" the trophy.

Naturally, however, one looks through the Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Purdue rosters for possible candidates. Remember, players of each team choose their own representative—a plan inaugurated in 1930 — the man they consider has been of greatest all around service to his team. He need not necessarily be the best player.

Capt. Munn at Minnesota is a likely candidate. He was considered the best punter in the conference until Oliver Olson of Northwestern came so strongly into the limelight. Perhaps he still is. Munn is a great offensive and defensive lineman. He is game as a pebble. We saw him play a whale of a game against Stanford last year with a whole set of loose teeth, loosened from a blow in practice scrimmage.

In addition, Munn this year has been pulled back of the line for ball carrying. He scored one of the touchdowns against Wisconsin after receiving a lateral pass. The Wake is not attempting to anticipate the Minnesota players' choice, but Munn is a logical choice from this distance.

At Wisconsin and Purdue are players who are doing much for the Badgers and Boilermakers. It is more difficult for an outsider to estimate their relative values. Fellow players will be able to do that.

From the ten most valuable players named by their teammates, the board of award votes to determine the final choice.

Maroon Support.

Dear Harve: Last summer various letters were printed on the sport page from both Cub and Sox fans in which each accused the other of failing to support their respective teams when they were losing.

In view of the fact only a few thousand [mostly students and Purdue alumni] attended the Chicago-Purdue game Saturday, one wonders what has become of those thousands of lusty Maroon fans who cheered Stagg's winning teams of other years.

BRIDGE PLAYERS BEING PRIMED FOR EPIC CLASH

Lenz, Culbertson Reach Training Peak.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 3.—The ballyhoo is under way and proceeding nicely toward a battle of the century in the game of contract bridge. There seem to be two outstanding claimants of the title. Mr. Sidney Lenz has been recognized as champion by a group of experts corresponding to the New York fight commission, whose selections of prize fighting champions have been arbitrary and quite fallible.

Mr. Lenz might be said to be the Jack Sharkey or commission champion of contract bridge, Mr. Ely Culbertson is the challenger, recognized as the logical contender in New York and regarded as the actual champion by some.

Mr. Lenz, I understand, is the more scientific of the two, with a style best suited to a short bout. Whereas Mr. Culbertson's style, like that of Max Schmeling in the prize ring, is adapted to a longer distance. He is a forty-rounder or finish-contest bridge expert who likes to wear his man down with his chin.

Both Doing Quite Well.

Both boys have managers and are doing very well with their exhibitions and writings while waiting for the customers to turn on the heat and produce a great popular demand for the match. At present Mr. Culbertson, in his challenge, demands a match of 500 rubbers, which would be practically a finish bout, as one boy or the other would be almost certain to collapse within that limit. Mr. Lenz prefers a short bout to a decision, preferably 125 rubbers.

The ballyhoo has not yet reached the final stage. When that stage is reached there will be the usual deadlock over the referee and the foul rule, and each boy's manager will insist on being allowed to examine the cards before they are dealt. I know that in heavyweight championship prize fights the opposing managers always take great care to search their opponent's gloves just to keep the game of prize fighting on a high, clean plane and free of any slimy smirch of suspicion.

Watch Those Cards.

The contract bridge managers are not suspicious, but they also are jealous of the fair name of their sport and determined to keep it on a high, clean plane. Therefore, by all means, they should carefully examine the cards for readers, scuffed spots or nicked edges, and should agree on a neutral dealer of the highest integrity who cannot be reached by any of the sinister characters who are constantly skulking like a bad apple in a barrel, ready to strike a blow at something fine and clean. It must be assured that the dealer cannot be induced to deal them off the bottom to either boy.

Mr. Culbertson's challenge, as I understand it, would require the loser to pay $5,000 and the winner $1,000 to one of the funds for the unemployed. From this it might be inferred that the contract bridge boys are not very bright, because such a proposition is even worse than the winner-take-all agreement which was abandoned as bad business by the progressive business men of the prize fight industry years ago.

It's Title, Not Gate.

The boys are not much interested in the gate receipts of their actual bout, if any, and would regard the $1,000 contribution to charity as a trifling price to pay for the championship title with all its earning powers. Moreover, it appears that neither boy would have to put up the forfeit money himself, but would receive the backing of persons financially interested in his career.

The managers, however, should not carelessly overlook the possibilities of the actual gate receipts. Contract bridge has come to interest many more people than prize fighting nowadays and, given the proper ballyhoo and management, this bout might fill Madison Square Garden with customers or kibitzers at from $5 to $25 per head. The players naturally would have to be isolated in some sound-

A SHAKE AND A SHOWER

Meet the challenger in tonight's featherweight championship fight at the Stadium. Little Earl Mastro, a product of the local amateurs, receives words of encouragement from James C. Petrillo, his uncle, who is president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, as he winds up training for his title bout with Bat Battalino at the Stadium tonight.

Jacobs Picks Max to Be 1st Dempsey Foe

PARIS, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling, world's heavyweight boxing champion, today said that if Jack Dempsey ever returned to the ring Schmeling would be the man he would meet.

Jacobs, who sails for the United States on the Ile de France Thursday, cited a cablegram from Leonard Sachs, Dempsey's business manager, to substantiate his assertion.

Schmeling will sail for the United States late in November, Jacobs said, for an exhibition tour of the larger cities, ending his tour in Los Angeles in the middle of January. The champion will train there for his fight with Mickey Walker in February, said Jacobs, and then will meet Dempsey for the title in June if Max still has the crown and Jack decides to try a comeback.

Jacobs said the Madison Square Garden of Illinois had no contract with Schmeling, that he had been advised by his American lawyers that the contract it held on Max expired Sept. 30.

STRIBLING STOPS FITZSIMMONS IN FOURTH ROUND

Springfield, Mo., Nov. 3.—(AP)—William L. [Young] Stribling knocked down Fred Fitzsimmons of Waco, Tex., seven times in a bout here tonight before the referee decided the Texan had taken enough punishment and gave the bout to the Georgian on a technical knockout. The end came in the fourth round. Fitzsimmons was down in a corner trying to regain his feet when Referee George Puchca halted the fight. Stribling weighed 188½ pounds and Fitzsimmons 180.

Fitzsimmons was no match for the Georgian at any stage. He displayed plenty of gameness, however, getting to his feet six times after going down under a rain of blows.

Tonight's bout was the 300th in Stribling's career.

PACIFIC COAST LEAGUE ELECTS NEW PRESIDENT

Sacramento, Cal., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Hyland Baggerly, former San Francisco sports writer, and present owner of the Los Gatos, Cal., Mail-News, was elected today as president of the Pacific Coast Baseball league for a three year term.

Baggerly was advanced as a compromise candidate after Harry A. Williams, president for the last eight years, withdrew because the president's salary was reduced from $10,000 annually to $6,500.

BATTALINO TO RISK CROWN IN STADIUM RING

Champion Down to Weight Limit.

How They Compare

HERE'S the way Bat Battalino and Earl Mastro, principals in tonight's world featherweight championship bout, compare in weights and measurements:

BATTALINO.		MASTRO.
126 lbs.	Weight	124½ lbs.
5 ft. 6½ in.	Height	5 ft. 6½ in.
23	Age	23
69 in.	Reach	66½ in.
13 in.	Neck	14½ in.
35 in.	Chest [normal]	33½ in.
37½ in.	Chest [expanded]	34½ in.
29½ in.	Waist	30½ in.
20 in.	Thigh	16 in.
15 in.	Calf	11 in.
11¼ in.	Forearm	10 in.
9½ in.	Ankle	6¼ in.

BY FRENCH LANE.

The world's featherweight boxing crown, which in the past has adorned the heads of such illustrious ringmen as Abe Attel, Johnny Kilbane and more recently has been worn by Benny Bass, Tony Canzoneri and Andre Routis, will be tossed up for grabs at the Chicago Stadium tonight.

As some 17,000 spectators look on, Christopher Battling Battalino of Hartford, Conn., and Earl Mastro of Chicago's great west side will begin what many believe will be a mad, wild, furious scramble for it. It is Battalino's crown as the battle starts and has been his crown since 1929. But many Chicagoans, particularly the thousands of west siders who call Mastro "Neighbor," believe it will pass into the Chicago boy's hand tonight.

Mastro Is Favorite.

And it was this enormous home town backing which yesterday threatened to make Mastro a slight favorite at 9 to 10 over the champion at bell time. But because the betting pendulum was swinging in the opposite direction the champion's followers believed there was no cause for worry. On the last three occasions when Battalino has defended his title he has been the outsider in the betting.

In other words, he is a money fighter. Or at least that is what the wise men of fistiana called him along the cauliflower Rialto around Clark and Randolph streets yesterday. They pointed out that he is usually beaten when his championship is not at stake. Then they produced the past performances and proved to any and all listeners that he is there with the wallop and the fight when some upstart featherweight attempts to bounce the crown off his brow.

Bat Makes Weight.

But at the same time that roar of the Mastro backers on the west side was beginning to become audible in the loop. You couldn't get away from the fact that Mastro is ready for the fight of his rather short ring career, and one couldn't help but conclude that this is going to be quite a mauling affair before the title argument is finally settled one way or another.

The last worry of the Chicago Stadium officials vanished yesterday when Battalino weighed in at the featherweight limit of 126 pounds. So if the champion doesn't take an extra large drink of water or consume an extra high stack of wheat cakes this morning he will weigh about 125 1-2 pounds for the Illinois athletic commission this afternoon. Mastro will be a pound lighter.

Expect 17,000 Crowd.

The fighting styles of the champion and his rival give the added promise of it developing into a most exciting battle. Mastro, aggressive and fast, is at his best, as far as the spectators are concerned, when the other fellow is charging him. Battalino is forever charging for he depends upon a body attack for most of the damage he delivers.

They'll be at it at ten minutes before 10 o'clock tonight and they will be fighting for just a little less than a king's ransom, for the 17,000 spectators will pay about $45,000 to see the championship match.

This is the one fight Battalino says he wants to win more than any other. He has beaten back all the other leading contenders—La Barba and Chocolate—and he believes that with Mastro out of the way his place at the top of the featherweight ladder is comparatively safe for a long time to come.

Bet on Dubilnsky.

The matches backing up the championship affair are:

Sammy Mandell vs. Ralph Lenny, 10 rounds, 142 pounds.
Louis Kid Kaplan vs. Harry Dubilnsky, 8 rounds, 135 pounds.
Barney Ross vs. Lou Jellos, 6 rounds, 135 pounds.
Al Keegan vs. Charley Young, 6 rounds, heavyweights.

These bouts should be something more than just another fight. Great interest centers in the Mandell-Lenny clash. Hundreds of Mandell's old admirers are going to be on hand just to see if all the things that are being said and written about Sammy are really true. And as far as wagering is concerned more bets were made on the outcome of the Kaplan-Dubilnsky match yesterday than on either Battalino or Mastro.

Pimlico, Md., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Hygro qualified for the Pimlico futurity when he easily won the Helpful, the Maryland Jockey club's six furlong feature, here today. The Nevada stock farm color bearer set a new record for the stake, which carried a value of $3,680 to the winner.

Despite top impost of 128 pounds Hygro was able to whip seven others and finish in 1:12 1-5, four-fifths of a second faster than Campfire Tales in 1924 and Penstick in 1925. In preparation for the $50,000 stake on Saturday, Hygro was worked out an extra eighth of a mile, being timed in 1:26 for seven furlongs.

After three successive victories at Chicago, Hygro came to Laurel. He was beaten a nose by Burning Blaze in the Eastern Shore handicap and then finished out of the money for the Richard Johnson. Trainer Dick Carman was confident of victory today and feels sure that Hygro will give a good account of himself in the futurity.

When he swept past the judges, Hygro was four lengths in advance of the Northway stable's Gallant Sir, which just got up to be second by a nose over Rabbit Skin, Mrs. John Hay Whitney's bad post actor. The order after that was Masked Knight, Daisaburo, Flagpole, Ladfield, and Sweepingly.

Now's Time for Waterproofing Hunting Boots

BY BOB BECKER.

With sportsmen about to go afield on hunting trips, this is the time for them to check over their boots, both rubber and leather, so that the footgear will be shipshape for any kind of weather.

Sportsmen who stick to high top leather boots for most wet weather trips across country will find it advisable to take an evening to put some kind of waterproofing solution on them. This can be done in a short time by using either a home made waterproof dope or patented preparations, which can be purchased from any sporting goods store.

Although we use leather high tops for many trips afield, we have found that the combination rubber and leather pac is the most serviceable boot for extremely wet weather, especially tramping in slush. This pac is made of rubber below and has a leather top. For hiking in snow (we used them while snowshoeing on one trip), for sloppy weather, and for wading in shallow water they can not be beaten. The two pairs which we have do not have heels, so we have added a low pair of rubber cushion heels to the inside of the boots.

However, thousands of outdoor fans still stick to leather for their boots. Leather must be treated with a dressing to fill up its pores so that they will not let water get through. Here are a few old fashioned waterproofing combinations for those who want to make up their dopes. You'd better open the windows of the kitchen when you "cook" these, as the aroma from some of the ingredients is rather strong.

Take three parts of cod liver oil, one part pine tar, and two parts harness oil or neatsfoot oil. Boil these together. When your boots are dry and warm soak them in the hot mixture. The dope should be spread over the uppers with a cloth or a small brush, or, if you apply this dressing with your hand, rub it in the leather. Place boots in a warm place following the application of the dubbing. This mixture will keep them waterproof and soft for a long time in spite of repeated wettings.

Another very common mixture is to take equal parts of beeswax, ordinary mutton tallow, and neatsfoot oil. Melt them together and then apply to warm, dry leather.

SMITTY—THE TALKIE

GOLLY THE POOR KID IS AWFUL BLUE SINCE HE LOST HIS MA AND PA - I'LL TRY TO CHEER HIM UP A BIT
I CANT HELP IT BOSS - I WISH I KNEW WHERE MY FAMILY WAS ITS JUST ONE OF THOSE THINGS, KID - JUST A MATTER OF TIME BEFORE WE LOCATE THEM
GEE I WISH MY PA WAS HERE NOW
IF THERE IS ANYTHING I CAN DO FOR YOU IN HIS PLACE JUST SAY SO WELL THIS IS THE NIGHT HE ALWAYS TOOK ME TO THE MOVIES

CULVER INVITES AKRON TO CRUISE OVER CADET GAME

An aircraft display will accompany the St. Johns-Culver football game and military pageant at Soldiers' field on Nov. 14.

The St. Johns academy flying school will send its six training planes over the stadium before the game. They also will constitute the aerial part of the parade of cadet battalions through the loop to the field.

Culver's contribution is an effort to have the Akron fly to Chicago and over the field during the parade and game. Charles Francis Adams, secretary of the navy, will be a guest of honor at the game.

The American Legion and the Joint Emergency Relief fund will use profits for hospitalization work, and the relief of former service men who are unemployed.

Tug Wilson Talks to Elgin Prep Football Teams

Elgin, Ill., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Kenneth L. [Tug] Wilson, athletic director of Northwestern university, was the guest speaker at a banquet here tonight given by the Kiwanis club in honor of the two local prep football teams.

Elgin academy is leading the Midwest prep conference and Elgin High still has a chance to tie in the Big Six.

Ohio Ready to Play for Charity in Cleveland

Columbus, O., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Ohio State university is willing to play the charity football game allowed this year by the Western conference at Cleveland on Nov. 28, it agreed at a meeting of the athletic board today.

The board took no action, however, on seeking permission to meet Notre Dame in this game, as has been proposed in Cleveland. Athletic Director L. W. St. John said the board felt the game should be played with a team inside the Big Ten because of conference preference in this direction. The five extra charity games to be played by the Big Ten will be scheduled Nov. 16 at a meeting of the conference athletic directors.

CHARGING DEVICE TO LESSEN ACHES OF MAROON SQUAD

Players Hammer Machine in Drill for Arkansas.

A charging machine appeared for the first time yesterday on the practice grounds at the University of Chicago. Though the linemen were at first inclined to shy at the strange looking device they became accustomed to it quickly and had a fine time hooking into it savagely and driving back the new enemy, inch by inch, over the goal line.

Coach Stagg has gone mechanical this season. Early in October he restyled the tackling dummies which he had abandoned some years ago and set up three of them as targets. In view of his limited human resources Coach Stagg figures that there is economy in all this, since it is better to have men banging at inanimate objects than at each other.

The more serious part of yesterday's program, bred of a certain optimism about the game with Arkansas at Stagg field Saturday, was instruction on two new offensive plays, based on Stagg's fundamental formation.

Hamberg in Uniform.

Stanley Hamberg, who paired with Capt. Berwitz at guard early in the season, appeared in uniform yesterday for the first time in two weeks. Hamberg received a dislocated shoulder in the Indiana game, but his improvement has been faster than expected. He insists he will play Saturday. Maroon trainers are not so sure.

In the Arkansas game Chicago will be meeting opposition in its own class. Coach Fred C. Thomsen, a former Nebraska player who is the head man at Fayetteville football, recently declared, "I have only sixteen football players." In the exact definition of the term Coach Stagg hasn't any more than that on the Midway.

IRISH REVIEW WORK

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 3.—[Special]—Notre Dame went back to fundamentals as Coach Hunk Anderson resumed operations with his first and second teams today.

While the third squad got its first glimpse of Pennsylvania plays in scrimmage, Anderson sent the first two eleven through blocking, tackling, ball handling, passing, and charging drills before ordering signal practice.

The varsity, with Marchy Schwartz hurling, concentrated mainly on passes and trick formations.

James Harris replaced Norm Greene, who was injured Saturday, at left guard. Greeney, according to Trainer Eugene Young, will be able to play Saturday. Harry Wunsch, the only South Bend candidate on the first three squads, moved up to the second team.

Penn has one of the best lines in recent years and its back field is headed by Carl Perina, one of the best full backs in the east, and Gette and Munger, two running and passing threats.

MICHIGAN BACK SHINES

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Harry Eastman, a letter man, who reported late this year, performed in his old style at half back in the Michigan reserve team today, thereby threatening to further complicate the back field situation. Eastman's showing was hardly a surprise, in view of his work when Ducky Simpson was on the casualty list last season, and it placed him among the half back group of Fay, Hudson, Heston, Borhardus, and De Baker.

The reserve team, playing on offense against the freshmen while the regulars were walking through new plays, forced the yearlings from one end of the field to the other, with Eastman, Cox, and De Baker carrying the ball. Eastman picked holes well, plowed straight armed, and handled himself in a manner that pleased the coaches.

INDIANA LOSES PASSER

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Indiana's entire squad was out on the practice fields this afternoon for its first intensive drill of the week in preparation for the invasion of the Michigan team Saturday.

With Sabik injured again, the Indiana coaches have set about to develop another passer. Vic Dauer, veteran quarter back, seems to be the aim.

OHIO ROUTS LETHARGY

Columbus, O., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—The drowsy Ohio State football team that opposed Indiana last week at Bloomington was apparently fully recovered from its period of lethargy which has been on it since the Northwestern encounter.

The varsity players spent the first hour in romping about like schoolboys on the corner lot. But soon serious preparations began for the Navy game on Saturday. There was a scrimmage between the varsity subs and the freshmen, the latter using Navy plays.

PURDUE DEFENSE SHAKY

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Centenary's new spread formation, used for the first time against the Texas Aggies last week, provided trouble for Purdue's defense this afternoon as the Boilermakers prepared for Saturday's intersectional game.

The spread formation, with the end and tackle on the strong side, spread out three to five yards from the other linemen, enables massed interference to form rapidly for sweeping end runs, cut backs, or lateral passes. It was used successfully against Texas A. & M.

How Monte, Bill and the Dugans Figured in Life of Comiskey's Wisconsin Lodge

This is the ninth of a series of articles on the career of Charles A. Comiskey, late owner of the White Sox.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

In Comiskey there was an inherent love of the wilderness. He had no particular fondness for killing game, but he did find comfort in the silence of the woods. It became his habit as far back as 25 years ago, when his new found wealth permitted, to begin annual pilgrimages to the far northwest corner of Wisconsin. Or with selected friends aboard his houseboat, White Sox, he would journey leisurely down the Mississippi and occasionally up the Arkansas river.

The first of the Wisconsin trips was up in the neighborhood of Springstead and Fifield. A few years later Commy, Ban Johnson and some friends became interested in a lodge on Trude lake, some fourteen miles by rough logging trail, or nine miles by foot trail, from the railroad station at Mercer. It was a long time before an automobile could make the journey into camp. But it wasn't long before the place was turned into a wilderness show place. It was the mecca for Commy and his invited friends.

Reached High Water Mark in 1914

The high water mark was reached in the fall of 1914. In special sleepers and diners Commy headed a guest list of over 70. In a diner set aside for revelry champagne corks popped throughout the night. The boys wanted to get ready for the big "hunt." In the baggage car ahead were oysters by the barrel, sides of prime beef, uncut lamb sufficient for an army, and other things you would not expect to find at a table set out in the wilderness.

The camp itself was almost a country. It ran into acres by the thousands. The quarters, six in number, ranged around a quadrangle known as the "Loop." There was the "Home Plate," a log cabin built exclusively for Comiskey. There was the "Morgue," so-called because it had no stoves within. The "German Village" was a large two story log house where as many as forty could bunk, but not many ever went to bed. "Camp 20" was a cottage so called, for no particular reason except that the number became famous in the Cronin murder in Chicago. Next to "20" was another house which never was dignified with a name. Between the "Home Plate" and the "Morgue" was the ever popular dining shack.

The pump was a bit removed from the center of activity, but ample provision always was made to quench the thirst of the guests. In the "Loop" night and day, a keg, properly pitched up on stilts, stood ready to greet all comers. Bill Dorgan, by choice, presided over this. With every stein he presented you with the password of the "Dugans," a mythical organization of which he was the originator and president.

"Once a Dugan, Always a Dugan."

"Equal rights to all; special privileges to none. Once a Dugan always a Dugan," was Bill's speech. "We visit the sick, we bury the dead, take one drink at a time, and root for the White Sox. A Dugan never dies until they need an angel in heaven."

Almost as soon as the camp company was organized Commy and Ban conceived the idea of enrolling wild life in the membership. A high wire fence some sixteen miles in length was built around the property. Young deer were brought in and raised as pets. After the fence was built more than 30 wild deer were counted in the enclosure, and some of these in time learned where they could find food in abundance.

A pair of elk and a pair of antelopes were brought in from the far northwest. There also was a pair of buffalo. A baby bull moose, feeding on a bottle, was brought in in a crate. Bill, the moose, grew to full manhood and hung around the cottages. He always bore a menacing look that scared everybody. That is, all except Hank, one of the old guides, who when Bill would get so close as to prevent wood chopping and other chores would pick up a stick and slap the big fellow on the rump. Bill would retreat like a whipped puppy.

Bill Goes Home to Be Killed.

Some years later one of the gates was left open by accident, and Bill happened to be around. He walked out. Weeks later a moose was killed near Duluth. It was Bill, who instinctively had covered miles in his journey back toward the land of his birth.

The real pet of the premises was Minnie, mother of a deer family of twelve. Show Minnie an open door into one of the cottages and she'd stroll in for a nap on one of the beds. Or she would walk into the dining shack and calmly eat food off the plate in front of a hungry guest. Monte, one of the antelopes, also was in the habit of dashing into the dining room whenever possible.

Further popularity of the spot was shown by the residence of wild ducks, wild geese and partridge which acted like barnyard fowls. They were fed but never molested. There was a rule that a gun couldn't be fired inside the fence.

The camp finally broke up when its members disagreed with the plans of Comiskey and Johnson to modernize the plumbing. Commy then built, near Rhinelander, the retreat where he spent most of his time until his death.

Monte, one of the antelopes which frisked around the late Charles Comiskey's lodge in Wisconsin, assumes his favorite position outside the dining cabin door, awaiting a handout.

LAUNCH ROCKNE MEMORIAL FUND DRIVE TONIGHT

The nation wide campaign to obtain funds for the Rockne Memorial field house at Notre Dame university opens tonight with dinner meetings scheduled in more than 100 cities and towns. The Chicago dinner will be held at the Midland club.

Volunteer campaign workers attending dinner meetings from coast to coast will hear a national radio program of short addresses by Will Rogers, Mayor James Walker of New York, Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago, Grantland Rice, the Rev. Charles L. O'Donnell, C. S. C., president of Notre Dame university, and Elmer F. Layden, James H. Crowley, Don C. Miller, and Harry A. Stuhldreher, the Four Horsemen of Notre Dame's 1924 team. The broadcasting period is scheduled from 9 to 9:30, Chicago time.

The purpose of the campaign is to raise $1,000,000 to build and endow a field house in memory of Knute K. Rockne. The Rockne Memorial association is directing campaign activities under the chairmanship of A. R. Erskine of South Bend.

Erskine Directs Campaign.

The fieldhouse, which will be built on the athletic field where Rockne developed some of the greatest teams of his time, will be a modern all sports building for the use of every student. It has been designed as a place where the individual student, as distinguished from the varsity athlete, can get recreation and exercise in all forms of indoor sports.

Active solicitation of gifts for the Rockne memorial will be carried on this month under the direction of local committees which have been established throughout the country. A committee on special gifts, of which George F. Getz, Chicago sportsman, is chairman, will supplement the work of local committees.

Political Leaders Give Aid.

Sponsors of the Rockne memorial campaign are Alfred E. Smith, Owen D. Young, and Admiral Richard E. Byrd. Other citizens prominent in political and public life who have become associated with the campaign organization either as honorary or active chairmen include Gov. George White of Ohio, former Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio, John J. Raskob, Congressman Norton Lichtenwalner of Pennsylvania, Congressman William J. Granfield of Massachusetts, Edward J. Kelly, president of the Chicago south park board, and Mayor Russell Wilson of Cincinnati.

Florida County Legalizes Dog Race Pari-Mutuels

St. Petersburg, Fla., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Voters of Pinellas county legalized pari-mutuel betting at dog races today by a vote of 3 to 1. The St. Petersburg Kennel club will open a 90 day racing season at its track near here late this year.

Stanford Team of 1894 to Be Guests of Hoover Nov. 12

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—It was toward the close of the football season 37 years ago, that the Leland Stanford squad moved into a quiet little hotel for a few days of solitude and secret practice before the big game with California. A youth wearing gold rimmed spectacles made a deal with the hotel proprietor to room and board the Stanford players for a lump sum.

Stanford won, 6 to 0. But the hotel proprietor lost. He had not figured on football appetites when he closed the agreement with the financial manager whom the members of the team called "Bert" Hoover.

The 16 living members of that Stanford team, which beat Chicago 12 to 0 in one of the first big intersectional games and which won the 1894 championship of the west, are going to meet here on Nov. 12 with "Bert" Hoover as their host. The reunion dinner will be held in the state dining room of the White House.

Of the 16, one—Herbert Hoover—is President of the United States, two are judges, three are physicians and surgeons, five are engineers, three are bankers, one is a rancher and one is an Illinois state senator.

State Senator Herbert Hicks of Illinois, who managed the team, has been invited to the reunion dinner.

ZAHARIAS, DUSEK MEET MONDAY IN COLISEUM SHOW

Promoter Doc Krone announced yesterday that he will present an all heavyweight wrestling show next Monday night at the Coliseum.

For the main event, Krone has signed Rudy Dusek of Omaha and George Zaharias of Colorado. These two were the hit of the last Coliseum show, wrestling half an hour to a draw. The return match will be two out of three falls.

There will be five matches. The promoter is negotiating with several wrestlers. He has signed Earl McCready of Oklahoma, but has not yet found an opopnent for him. McCready won the national intercollegiate heavyweight championship twice while a student at Oklahoma A. & M.

Krone, who has been working on this show for several days, withheld announcement until yesterday because of the charity mat show at the Stadium Monday night.

CATHOLIC YOUTH FIGHT TOURNEY OPENS TONIGHT

Boxers in the Des Plaines district of the Catholic Youth organization's amateur tournament will go into action tonight at St. Mary's gymnasium in Des Plaines. There is an entry list of 100 in the Des Plaines meet and 32 boys who survive tonight's bouts will clash in the district trials to be held at St. Mary's gym on the night of Nov. 18.

Dick Curley, the boxing promoter, is leaving Chicago. He announced yesterday he was through with boxing and will travel to Los Angeles to manage Jack Sherry, a heavyweight wrestler.

Charley Retzlaff, Duluth heavyweight, is in Chicago training for a match with Giacomo Bergomas at New York Nov. 13. Paulino Uscudun and Tommy Loughran will fight on the same card.

Pete Verri, Central A. A. U. lightweight champion, and Don Messina, Golden Gloves welterweight star, were signed yesterday for the feature bout at the 24th Ward Democratic club's amateur show on Friday night.

When Mique Malloy presents his boxing show at White City on Monday night it will be "ladies night." All women will be admitted free. Malloy was busy arranging his card yesterday and signed Chuck Heffner, Denver middleweight, for a battle with Freddie Eller of Louisville.

King Levinsky received word yesterday from Jimmy Johnston, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, that he will be matched for a battle in the Garden on the night of Dec. 12.

HARD WORKOUT COSTS DE PAUL CAPT. M'CLANE

After De Paul university's intensive scrimmage yesterday in preparation for the Univeristy of Louisville game Saturday at Louisville, Capt. Everett McClane, guard, reported recurrence of an old knee injury.

He is expected to be in condition to start against Louisville, however. Emmet Cowhey has been shifted back to his old guard position, because of the improvement of John Sexton and John Pionke at the tackles.

CERMAK TO FIRE STARTING GUN AT 6 DAY BIKE RACE

Mayor Anton J. Cermak will fire the starting gun in Chicago's twenty-sixth international six day bicycle race at the Stadium Sunday night at 9 o'clock. The 15 starting teams which he will send away embrace all the veteran stars and 11 new riders.

Franco Georgetti, Italy, four times motor paced champion of America and winner of ten six-day races, will meet Freddie Spencer, thrice American sprint champion, in a mile match event in the preliminary program Saturday night.

Avanti Martinetti, Italian sprinter, making his first appearance in Chicago, will meet Bobby Walthour in a mile match race on the same program. Martinetti is the favorite to win this race, for he is one of the fastest riders in the world. The third race will introduce Learco Guerra, world road champion, in a medley match against Alfred Letourner, French rider.

The new riders who will make their Chicago debut Saturday are Eddie Seufert, Gregory Flatow, Learco Guerra, Avanti Martinetti, Jean Van Buggenhout, Albert Buysse, Prudent De Little, Michel Pecqueux, Georges Coupry, Otto and Walter Nickel.

ALLSTATES PLAY LINDSTROM.

The Allstates basketball team will seek its second victory of the season Friday night when it meets the Lindstrom All Stars at the West Side clubhouse, 4711 West Madison street.

PREP ELEVENS MEET SATURDAY IN SECTION FINALS

Parker, Fenger, Unbeaten, in South Division Tilt.

The sectional races in the Chicago Public High School Football league will come to an end Saturday afternoon. The north and central championships virtually have been decided, Schurz and Tilden defeating the outstanding teams on their schedules. The unbeaten Parker and Fenger squads will meet at Shewbridge field for the south title, while Harrison Tech, with three consecutive victories, which faces Crane Tech at Mills stadium, is expected to represent the west division in the semi-finals.

Tilden and Schurz, however, have one game to play before being officially recognized as champions of their sections. Tilden, which won from Lindblom, 1930 league champion, last Saturday, will meet Hyde Park in its last game at White City, while Schurz concludes its league schedule against Senn at Loyola field.

Both Fenger and Parker have won their first three league contests. Parker, which boasts a powerful attack, having defeated Kankakee, East Aurora, and Hyde Park in practice games, and winning from Morgan Park, Calumet and Wendell Phillips, its first three south section foes, is expected to have little difficulty in disposing of Fenger.

In Parker's backfield will be Bill Snyder, quarter back, who scored three touchdowns against Wendell Phillips last Saturday; Jack Shoop, 176 pound full back, and Rudy Mohrien, left half back. Morrie Ray, who is playing his first year on the squad, will alternate with Sam Angelich at right half back.

John Fogel, veteran Mount Carmel center, injured his right ankle last Sunday when Mount Carmel clinched the south section championship. He will be out of practice all week. Mount Carmel meets Joliet at White City Sunday afternoon in its last sectional battle.

Oak Park, leader of the Suburban league, faces Proviso, which won two games and lost two, at Oak Park field Saturday. Oak Park will be seeking its fourth straight victory.

Maine, tied for second place in the West Suburban conference with Riverside, will meet Downers Grove at Des Plaines Saturday. Riverside and York will clash at Elmhurst. Glenbard, holder of first place, takes on West Chicago on the latter's field.

GORILLA JONES AND PIAZZA WIN BOXING TOURNEY

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Gorilla Jones, Akron, O., Negro, defeated Georgie Nichols, Buffalo, N. Y., southpaw, in the ten round windup of the quarter finals in the National Boxing association middleweight elimination tournament here tonight.

In the semi-windup Adonne Piazza middleweight champion of Italy, defeated Raoul Roja, the Cuban titleholder.

By winning tonight's matches Jones and Piazza advanced to the semi-finals of the tournament to be staged here Nov. 19. They will have as opponents Henry Firpo, Louisville, Ky., and Frankie O'Brien, Hartford, Conn.

The winner of the tournament will be adjudged the successor to Mickey Walker, retired world's middleweight champion.

KARR, ST. VIATOR QUARTER BACK, OUT OF HOSPITAL

De Kalb, Ill., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Ralph Karr, quarter back of the St. Viator football team, who was injured in the game with the De Kalb Teachers here last Saturday, was discharged from St. Mary's hospital this morning. He left immediately for Bourbonnais. Karr was carried from the field in the second quarter of Saturday's contest and taken to the hospital, where it was found that he was suffering from a punctured kidney.

Julian Defeats Durocher in Pocket Tournament

Coy Julian defeated Peter Durocher in the third game of the special pocket billiard tournament at the Kieckhefer Recreation yesterday, 125 to 113, in 24 innings.

A MIGHTY MUNN IS HE

Capt. Clarence Munn of Minnesota gets his big chance Saturday when the Gophers meet Northwestern in a game which probably will decide the Big Ten title. Munn, in addition to being a fine guard, carries the ball occasionally, and is one of the best kickers in the conference.

De Barrys Get 3,201 Count in Pin League

The pins are falling fast and furiously again this season in the Woodlawn Recreation Major Bowling league. With each member of the team shooting more than 600, the De Barrys turned in the high game of the season, a 3,201 total, in the most recent league competition.

Scores of 1,079, 1,046, and 1,076 were accumulated to reach the high three game total of 3,201. W. Lenzen's 654 was the highest individual count in the De Barrys' big offensive.

The S. and L. Motors, American Bowling Congress champions, boosted their team average to 1,024 for 21 games with their 3,167 series. George Morrison led with 654.

Further evidence that the Woodlawn bowlers have their eyes glued on the 1—3 pocket is shown by the fact that 36 members of the league shot 600 or better the last time out.

The Green Rivers are leading the league with 16 games won and five lost, with the S. and L. Motors, De Barrys, and Cherry Hill Golfers one game behind.

E. Maricich and R. Bailey are on top in the individual standing with averages of 213.13 and 213.11, respectively. The standings:

Layton Beats Valentine for Third Straight Win

Johnny Layton won his third straight victory against all comers at the three cushion billiards when he defeated Richard Valentine, 50 to 35, in 48 innings, at Bensinger's Randolph Billiard room yesterday. Layton had a high run of 8 to Valentine's 5.

Layton will meet Lee Lenny this afternoon and tonight he will play Joe Goldstein. He will end his three-cushion exhibitions tomorrow night.

N.Y.U. Coach Now Glad Oregon Had No More Invalids

New York, Nov. 3.—(AP)—John F. [Chick] Meehan, coach of the New York university Violets, is glad there were not a couple of half backs with broken legs playing on the University of Oregon thunderbolt that struck his team here Saturday.

Encountered today just after he had completed a three hour practice session in preparation for this week's tilt with Georgia, the Violets' coach still wore a subdued, dazzled expression. He is a man filled with emotion since he watched his violent Violets take a 14 to 6 trimming from an eleven they were figured to beat anywhere from two to five touchdowns.

"Feature this," he began dolefully "they not only beat us to the punch and outplayed us all the way, but they did it with a makeshift lineup and a list of injuries that look like a hospital bulletin board."

CENTRAL A. A. U. HOCKEY LEAGUE PLANS TRYOUTS

The first meeting of the Central A. A. U. ice hockey league will be held tomorrow evening at Spalding's, 211 South State street.

E. C. Delaporte, chairman of hockey, will announce plans for Olympic tryouts in this district.

The following teams have entered the league: The Raven Hockey club, the Pirates, the Mount Pleasant Athletic club, Les Canadiens, Red Devil Aces, Lake County Hockey club, Blackhawks Junior, Suburban Maple Leafs, Mid West Rainbows, and the Cicero Bulls.

30,000 WOMEN REQUEST TICKETS FOR BEAR GAME

Only 15,000 Free Seats Available Sunday.

Ticket requests for the Ladies' day game between the Bears and Portsmouth next Sunday afternoon already have completely eclipsed applications for first Ladies' day, when 30,000 bids were received.

Yesterday more than 30,000 requests had been received. It is estimated that by 6 o'clock tonight, the deadline, 40,000 free applications will have been received at the Wrigley field offices.

Only 15,000 tickets are available under the "first received, first filled" system.

Portsmouth, in the thick of the championship fight, will have in its lineup several stars who have never performed in Chicago. Among them is Father Lumpkin, 210 pound full back on Georgia Tech's national championship team in 1928; Earl Clark, ex-Colorado university quarter back; Glenn Presnell, Nebraska back; George Mitchell, Davis-Elkins end, and George Christensen, Oregon, who will play tackle.

Although he did not play the entire game against the Packers, Red Grange boosted his average gain from scrimmage last Sunday and leads all Bear backs. Nesbitt, who punted 72 yards against the Packers also raised his kicking average. The six league game averages follow:

MITCHELL WINS SOUTH SUBURBAN BANTAM TITLE

Art Mitchell won the bantamweight championship in the finals of the south suburban boxing tournament last night at the Midway arena by defeating Jimmy Christy in three rounds. Another favorite in the meet, Eddie Chinski, won a three round decision over Phil McQuillan for the lightweight title.

Harold Dunnington and Johnny Phagan, contestants in the last Golden Gloves tournament, also won. Dunnington took the featherweight championship, knocking out Jimmy Bacca in the second round, while Phagan won the welterweight crown, defeating Joe Serletic in three rounds. The results:

112 POUND CLASS.
Dave Bernstein knocked out Henry Fuscalda [3].

118 POUND CLASS.
Art Mitchell beat Jimmy Christy [3].

126 POUND CLASS.
Harold Dunnington knocked out Jimmy Bacca [3].

Bridge Audience Being Primed for Epic Championship Bout

proof room so that the groans and the cries of "lead your ace, you bum" could not be heard as the plays were run off on a large, illuminated board.

Bridge Fan Quite Partisan.

The bridge nut is far more partisan in the present rivalry than the prize fight customer, who is strictly a vicarious boxer and not committed to any one system, although the majority of them do have a mild preference for the free punching style. The bridge kibitzers are all players themselves, however, and devoted to one system or the other. Consequently they would turn out in large numbers, each one feeling that something that was part of his life was on trial. It might be advisable to segregate them according to their respective systems to avoid outbreaks of disorder.

I am not a bridge expert, but I always thought that in any game of cards the luck of the draw had something to do with the outcome. This seems not to be the case in bridge, as it is contended that system and skill are the thing.

How About Handicap Cards?

If that is actually so, it would seem that ordinary bridge sufferers, or suckers or whatever the technical term may be, should be rated on a handicap system something like that followed in golf. Obviously the Messrs. Lenz and Culbertson are scratch men and it would be no more fair for them to play ordinary commuters or Wednesday evening suburban bridge players on a scratch basis than it would be for Bobby Jones to meet a golfer with a thirty handicap in a scratch contest. Each player should be handicapped at a certain number of points, the ratings to be revised monthly, and any player sitting down to play bridge should be required to showed his certified handicap card.

The Messrs. Lenz and Culbertson seem destined to great wealth. If their bridge battle of the century takes place the winner will receive testimonial offers from manufacturers of various kinds of pimiento and anchovy paste and mayonnaise for bridge sandwiches, for cigarets, playing cards and scoring material. Even the loser, if shrewdly managed, would come in for some of this revenue, and both would be in demand for exhibition radio lectures and essays.

Might Be Mixed Match.

There might even come a mixed match between a lady and gentleman player for the championship of the world. Most of the lady experts are married, so I suppose the lady, if she won, would say, "No, I am not interested in boys. The fact is, I have a dear little husband at home with the babies and I always rush home and dump my end of the purse in his apron after every championship bout."

Members of the Lenz faction tell me that both boys object to being called card sharps, but that has always been the name applied to persons who make their living playing cards, and I see no difference between the bridge expert and the faro dealer or three card monte expert. But I do not want to make any social errors in this matter, and I trust that the boys will think up a substitute as brief and expressive as the term card sharp.

Schiller Lost to Wisconsin Eleven for Illinois Battle

Madison, Wis., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Wisconsin players today went through another driving workout which included a long tackling drill and 30 minutes of scrimmage.

Bobby Schiller, sophomore half back, who was hurt at Minnesota, will be unable to play against Illinois Saturday and it is doubtful if he will be available for duty against Ohio State in the Badgers' homecoming game on Nov. 14. Capt. Hal Smith's leg is improving and he may play Saturday. Buckets Goldenberg was back in uniform today, but was excused from heavy work. Doug Simmons, center, still is a casualty.

Several new plays were tried out in scrimmage and resulted in long gains against the freshmen. Schneller and Strain worked in the varsity back field with Linfor and Nelson. Strain has been understudying Schneller at full back, but his fine playing against Minnesota seems to have convinced Coach Thistlethwaite that he is too good to keep on the bench. The big Colorado sophomore made consistent gains and tossed long passes to Catlin, Lovshin, and Haworth.

JUGGLE ILLINI

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Tom Wilson, letter man end, who was shifted to the back field a fortnight ago, was given a guard position this afternoon as Coach Zuppke superintended the first heavy drill for the Wisconsin game here Saturday. Wilson's transfer was one of several experiments.

Casey Straw, who was used at guard for the first time in the Northwestern game, retained that place today instead of returning to his center position. Other changes involved the full back position. Ed Snavely may be the only full back in condition, so Bob May and George Hester, guards, were tried out. Eddie Schaik was in uniform and will be available for action against the Badgers, but Lind Murray and Art Schultz are not being counted on strongly.

Stan Jensen, out of the lineup since the Michigan game, engaged in scrimmage again, but he was at tackle instead of at guard. Sam Gorenstein also was transferred from guard to tackle.

Before scrimmage against the freshmen, the following lineups were used:

BLUES—O'Keefe, center; Perkins and Wilson, guards; Hyink and Kennedy, tackles; Frink and Schustek, ends; Walser, quarter back; Horsley and Evans, halves, and Hester, full back.

WHITES—Hedtke, center; Straw and Nusspickel, guards; Jensen and Gorenstein, tackles; Bailey and Fredenburg, ends; Munch, quarter back; Carson and Hladik, halves, and May, full back.

COACHES DRIVE HAWKEYES

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—The University of Iowa football drill for the Nebraska game found coaches in a fiery mood, with Head Coach Burt Ingwersen and his five aids driving the players through one of the stiffest two hour sessions of the season.

Gordon Locke and Rollie Williams, back field tutors, worked the backs on interference. Capt. Sansen, full back; Laws and Hickman, half backs, displayed the best blocking.

Ingwersen spent part of the session in pointing Stutsman and Akin, guards, on offensive charging. Stutsman probably will replace Hantelmann against the Huskers. Akin is expected to play the guard position left vacant by the injury to Tompkins.

SHAMROCKS PLAY OPENER AT HOME ON THANKSGIVING

Buffalo Majors Coming as Opponents.

The Shamrocks will meet the Buffalo Majors in the opening home game of the 1931-'32 American Hockey league at the Stadium Thanksgiving night, Nov. 26, it was announced yesterday. The Majors were an outstanding attraction in Chicago last year, and promise to furnish similar competition this season under the management of Eddie Oatman, who succeeds George Sears.

The Shamrocks have been in training at Hamilton, Ont., for ten days, and the Majors began working out Monday at Port Colborne, Ont. The two clubs will meet in an exhibition game at Hamilton on Nov. 11. They will meet again on the 15th and 17th at Buffalo in the opening game of the American league season.

All the American league clubs will be in training by the end of the week. The Tulsa Oilers, the Kansas City Pla-Mors, and the Duluth Hornets, who finished the 1930-31 season in the order named, will do their preparatory work on home ice. The St. Louis Fliers will get into trim at Duluth and possibly also at Hamilton. They may engage both the Hornets and the Shamrocks in practice games.

Every club in the league except Kansas City is under new management. The managers are as follows: Chicago, Babe Dye; St. Louis, Dick Carroll; Tulsa, Shorty Green; Buffalo, Eddie Oatman; Duluth, Johnny Mitchell; Kansas City, Bill Grant.

LAKE FOREST AND ILLINOIS CADETS MEET SATURDAY

Lake Forest academy football team will meet Illinois Military school of Abingdon, Ill., on the north shore school's gridiron Saturday. The Illinois cadets boast an unbeaten record, while the Lake Foresters have suffered only one defeat, that of last week by the Manlius school, in Manlius, N. Y.

Lake Forest victories include Morgan Park Military academy, Concordia Military school, St. Alban's school, and Campion academy.

Arrange Supporting Card for Loughran Bout Nov. 13

New York, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Three 10 round heavyweight bouts were announced today as the supporting card for the scheduled fight between Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia and Paulino Uzcudun of Spain at Madison Square Garden Nov. 13. Walter Cobb of Baltimore will meet Hans Birkie, recent importation from Germany, in the semi-final.

Farrell, 1928 Open Champ, Weds Nov. 24

New York, Nov. 3.—[Special]—John Joseph [Johnny] Farrell, United States open golf champion in 1928, and Catherine Theresa Hush, his partner in a recent series of talking pictures on golf technique, are to be married Nov. 24, it was announced today.

Following the ceremony to be held at 10:30 at St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, Bronxville, with Father Boyle, sometime golf partner of the groom, officiating, the couple will be accompanied by Gene Sarazen and his wife on a trip to California and Honolulu, and return through the south, playing in golf tournaments.

Announcement of the engagement was made a month ago by Mrs. Catherine T. Hush of Old Greenwich, mother of the bride-to-be. The latter, well known in Greenwich social circles, is a good golfer, is a graduate of the Notre Dame de Lourdes convent in New York City.

Farrell, son of Mrs. James F. Farrell of Mount Vernon, is professional at the Quaker Ridge Country club, Mamaroneck. In 1927 he won the Metropolitan and Eastern open championships in New York, in 1928 the New York state open, and this year the Pensacola open. In 1927 and 1929 he was a member of the United States Ryder cup teams.

W. AND J. ADOPTS TWO TEAM PLAN FOR MARQUETTE

Washington, Pa., Nov. 3.—[Special]—Head Coach Bill Amos of the Washington and Jefferson football team announced today that for the remainder of the season he would maintain a two team system.

He said the team that started against Temple last Friday night would remain intact as No. 1 and a replacement eleven of apparently equal strength would function as a unit. The system follows somewhat the one in use by Notre Dame and will be employed for the first time next Saturday against Marquette at Milwaukee.

Team No. 1 probably will be sent against Marquette and will comprise the following: McNeil and Bob Fisher, ends; Rhodes and Meleyar, tackles; Massock and John Fife, guards; Rooney, center; Port, quarter back; Domedowitz and Rometo, half backs; Wilson, full back.

PRINCIPAL TELLS OF FOOD NEED IN W. SIDE SCHOOL

Many Pupils Underfed; Asks for Help.

Cash contributions to the Hungry Children's Fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1101 East 63d street, and 4132 West Madison street.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Nobody knows better than the principals of the various schools of the city the desperate conditions to be found in their districts as the result of unemployment. One letter setting forth a typical outline of the situation was received yesterday from the head of the Whittier school, 1900 West 63d street, in an appeal for aid for the Hungry School Children's Fund. He writes:

"As principal of this school, I am writing to you for aid in whatever way you have. This school is situated, as you may know, in a foreign working class district. Most of the people are out of work at present. They are respectable, law abiding people, and when able, do the best they can for their children.

Many Children Underfed.

"Many of these children are undernourished, many come to school without breakfast. Every day I have requests for shoes and clothing, which is so ably supplied by the School Children's Aid society. Last year my pupils contributed toward a fund which we had for this purpose, but the teachers not being paid, this has been discontinued. My kindergarten teacher has supplied crackers and some milk up to date, but now must stop that, also.

"I know you are doing a fine piece of work, and if able will help us in many more of these future citizens in school. I have not burdened you with a great deal of detail about poverty, but rest assured that they are here. Any aid you may give will be appreciated.

"Yours truly,
"JAMES A. WEBBER."

SEEKS $100,000 ON CLAIM SHE IS BROKER'S WIDOW

A bill to set aside the will of Charles Stier, a grain and seed merchant, who left an $100,000 estate when he died on Jan. 9, last, was filed in the Circuit court yesterday by Mildred Wedell, 1948 Washington boulevard. The woman asserted that she was Stier's common-law wife, having lived with him since May, 1905. Common-law marriage was invalidated in July, 1905, although it was recognized prior to that time.

Stier willed his estate to Mrs. Ottilie Steinbach, his sister, her husband, Carl, and their son, Carl Jr.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

BOY, 10, WHO KILLED PLAYMATE, RELEASED TO PARENTS' CUSTODY

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—After serving two months in juvenile hall, Allen Van De Sandt, 10, who shot and killed Johnny Geseck, his 3 year old playmate, today was released to custody of his parents by Superior Judge Samuel Blake. The judge stipulated as a condition of freeing the child that his parents move to a community where the boy's deed was not known. At the boy's trial, it was testified that he fired on the Geseck child with a rifle while the pair were playing Indian.

FIRE DAMAGES HOMES OF ELITE IN FILM WORLD

Malibu Beach, Cal., Nov. 3.—(AP)—A major fire struck the exclusive Malibu colony for the second time in little more than a year tonight, destroying four luxurious cottages.

Figures of fame in the motion picture world formed a bucket brigade and aided firemen in checking the flames, which originated in the home of Nash Carlan, Los Angeles banker.

The Cartan home, as well as those of Barbara Stanwyck, motion picture star; Ned Marin, director, and Joseph Stanley, actor, were destroyed with their furnishings.

The loss was estimated at about $80,000. Fourteen Malibu beach homes were burned to the ground with a loss of $700,000 in October, 1930.

Bessie Rennert Will for $200,000 Estate Is Filed

The will of Mrs. Bessie M. Rennert, which disposes of her $200,000 estate, was admitted to probate yesterday by Assistant Probate Judge Oscar S. Caplan. Mrs. Rennert died on Oct. 5 in Hart, Mich. She was 67 years old. Under the will the Mayo foundation of Rochester, Minn., was given $10,000, as were both the Salvation Army and the Home for Destitute and Crippled Children in Chicago. Relatives, friends, doctors, and nurses share numerous bequests amounting in all to $75,000, and the residue is left to a brother, Charmes M. Easton of Pentwater, Mich.

Public Defender Saves $150,000 in Jury Fees

Jury fees amounting to $150,000 and special counsel fees aggregating $13,500 were saved the county during the last year by Public Defender Ben Bachrach and his four assistants, reports submitted to county commissioners disclosed. A total of 2,166 defendants were represented by the lawyers in the public defender's office. This number is 59 per cent of all the cases disposed of in the Criminal courts. The county appropriated $25,620 for the office when it was created last year.

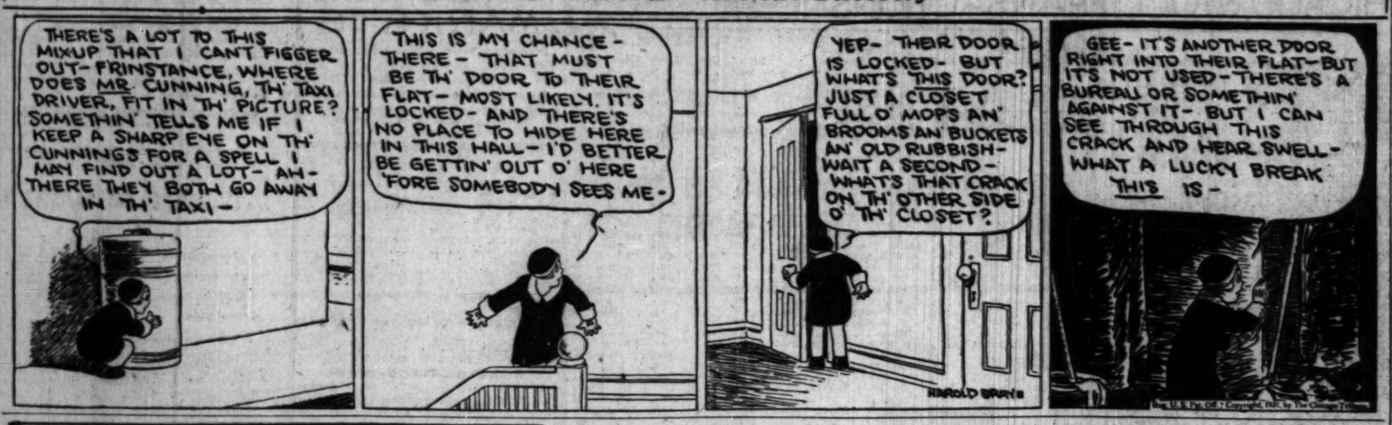
Robert Williams, Stage and Screen Star, Dead

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Robert Williams, noted young stage and motion picture actor, died in the Hollywood hospital tonight from peritonitis which set in after an appendicitis operation last week. Physicians said delay in seeking an operation aggravated his condition.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Discovery



POISON PICNIC MURDER CASE IS GIVEN TO JURY

Weighing the Fate of Mrs. Simmons.

BULLETIN.

Lebanon, Ind., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The jury deliberating the case of Mrs. Carrie Simmons, charged with poisoning her 10 year old daughter, Alice Jean, was locked up for the night shortly after 11 o'clock. Judge John W. Hornaday ordered that if a verdict was reached it should be sealed and returned at the opening of court tomorrow.

Lebanon, Ind., Nov. 3.—(AP)—After the legal big guns in the Carrie Simmons poison murder trial had fired their last broadsides, the case was given to the jury for consideration tonight.

Mrs. Simmons, 47 year old wife of John W. Simmons, Hancock county farmer, is accused of poisoning her 10 year old daughter, Alice Jean.

The trial which has been in progress since Monday, Sept. 28, was climaxed today with final arguments of Charles Tindall, Greenfield attorney, chief of defense counsel; and Roy W. Adney, special assistant prosecutor.

Judge John W. Hornaday then issued his instructions to the jurymen and they began their deliberations.

Two Children Poisoned.

Alice Jean is alleged to have been a victim of a poison filled capsule placed in a sandwich prepared by her mother for the Simmons-Pollard family reunion held here last June 21. Alice Jean's 14 year old sister, Virginia, was also a victim of a poisoned sandwich.

The state has contended that Mrs. Simmons placed capsules containing a deadly drug in about 12 of 18 sandwiches which she brought to the reunion. Several persons other than the two Simmons' children were made ill by the sandwiches, but recovered.

Adney, in his final argument, declared the state had produced positive evidence that Mrs. Simmons was responsible for poisoning the sandwiches.

Brother-in-Law Accused.

Tindall had startled the crowded courtroom earlier in the day by making a direct accusation that Horace M. Jackson, brother-in-law of Mrs. Simmons, was responsible for placing the poison filled capsules in the sandwiches.

During the trial Mrs. Simmons' attorneys, upheld by a ruling of Judge Hornaday, have sought to show a possibility that Jackson put the poison in the sandwiches while the Simmons' picnic food was left unguarded in the family automobile during the time it was parked near the W. H. Pollard home here.

Tindall said he would not ask the jury to take a middle ground. "This woman," he said, "is either innocent or she is guilty of the most heinous crime ever committed."

Tisdall argued that Mrs. Simmons is fully accountable for her actions. Her admission, while testifying as a witness, that she slept soundly but two hours a night was not unusual, the attorney argued.

Susanne Small, Sister of Former Governor, Dies

Kankakee, Ill., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Miss Susanne Small, sister of former Gov. Len Small and Judge John Small, died at her home today. She had studied art here and abroad and had gained considerable recognition as an amateur landscape and portrait artist.

Miss Small was 77. She was born here and lived in the family homestead all her life. Her death was due to the infirmities of age.

Miss Small was survived by two sisters, Mrs. Calista Humrichouse of Kankakee and Mrs. Mabel McKinstry of Winesap, Wash. Her paintings have been hung in the Chicago Art institute and other galleries.

Lost Ugly Fat

Her Husband Says She Looks Five Years Younger!

There is a certain weight at which every woman looks her loveliest—not skinny underweight nor pendulous overweight, but normal weight. "My husband says I look five years younger," writes this lady of 29 who—thanks to her daily dose of Kruschen Salts—has unburdened her body of 18 pounds of ugly fat. Read her letter:—

"Having heard from a friend of mine that she had lost considerable weight since taking Kruschen Salts, I started using them in July last, when I weighed 177 lbs. I have lost weight steadily since then, and am now 159 lbs.—my normal weight. Moreover, I feel brighter and more energetic in every way. I have inquired of my dressmaker my measurements, which in August last were: Bust 40, Hips 43½, Waist 33½ inches. Last week they were: Bust 38, Hips 40, Waist 31 inches, which is normal for my height, which is 5 ft. 8 in. My age is 29. My husband is a very severe critic. He says I look five years younger. There is no other reason for my loss of weight except Kruschen, as I do not take any particular diet." (Mrs.) S. R., London, England.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that will last four weeks costs but 85 cents—Try one bottle—if not joyfully satisfied—money back.

CONSCIENCE JAILS HIT-RUN DRIVER IN FATAL MISHAP

Driven by his conscience, a hit and run motorist early this morning returned to the scene where a short time before his automobile had struck and killed a youth, confessed that he was the one whom the police were seeking, and was taken into custody.

The motorist is Andrew Kozlowski, 21 years old, 1739 West 14th place. The accident occurred at 35th street and Ashland avenue, where the victim, who was unidentified, was run over by Kozlowski's car as he was trying to cross the avenue. Kozlowski told the police that he went home and put his car in the garage, but was unable to stay away from the accident scene because his conscience bothered him.

The deaths of the youth and two other persons increased the county motor fatality toll to 1,070 since Jan. 1. The other victims:

Michael Keefe, 69 years old, 122 North Lotus avenue, a retired city fireman. Died in St. Anne's hospital from a skull fracture received when he was struck by a sedan in front of 5442 West Madison street. Philip Victory, 3037 Flournoy street was the driver.

John Polletti, 50 years old, 4002 Iowa street. Died in the Keystone hospital of injuries suffered on Oct. 29, when he was struck in front of 4159 West Grand avenue by an automobile driven by Henry Maslin, 48 years old, 5019 George street.

BANTA FUNERAL TODAY; VETERAN OF AUTO TRADE

The body of A. J. Banta, a veteran in the automobile industry, will arrive in Chicago this morning for funeral services at 11:30 a. m. in the chapel of the Forest Home cemetery in Forest Park. Mr. Banta died on Friday in Hollywood, Cal., at the age of 59. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Charlotte Banta. Mr. Banta was born at Ridgefarm, Ill. He came to Chicago in 1905 and for twelve years was branch manager here for the Locomobile company. He retired to California a few years ago from the position of sales manager of the General Motors truck division.

John Adank, Who Fought Fire of 1871, Dies at 80

John Adank, 80 years old, a member of Chicago's volunteer fire department and a veteran of the fire of 1871, died yesterday in his home, 542 Sheridan road, Evanston. Following the fire he founded a livery business, in which he was engaged until 18 years ago. He is survived by his widow, a daughter, two sisters, two brothers and two grandsons. The funeral will be held in the home at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

BUNDESEN SAYS 6 DEATHS IN DAY CAUSE GAS EDICT

Tells Aldermen Peril in Bath Heaters.

Health Commissioner Bundesen yesterday informed a city council subcommittee on health yesterday that six accidental deaths from gas in one day caused him to direct the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company to disconnect all gas water heaters installed in bathrooms in violation of the city code.

The order was called to the attention of the aldermen after the gas company had sent notices to 72,000 consumers whose heaters are illegally installed. Representatives of the gas company told the subcommittee at its hearing yesterday that a field crew is now disconnecting the heaters.

Bundesen Tells of Peril.

"These deaths are occurring where the heaters are illegally installed—in bathrooms and usually without a flue connection to the outside," asid Dr. Bundesen. "I felt that if there should be a real cold spell, and the landlords delayed a few days in building fires so that the heaters would be in constant use, there would be nothing short of a slaughter. Therefore, I told the gas company that the heaters must be disconnected at once."

W. G. Rudd, an official of the company, stated that the company already has disconnected all bathroom heaters that had no flues, 3,000 of them. They are considered the more dangerous than those with flues.

"If there was only one death that would mean more than the rumpus this order stirred up," said Mr. Rudd. "I'm in accord with Dr. Bundesen's order, and mean to carry it out."

New Gas Less Poisonous.

Under questioning by the aldermen Mr. Rudd said that the new gas is less poisonous than the old. "The artificial gas had from 7 to 15 per cent carbon monoxide in it," he said, "while the new mixture has only 3 per cent. In fact, the humane society complained to me that it now takes from two to three times as long to kill dogs as it did before."

Upon the completion of testimony by gas experts Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th], chairman, ordered Dr. Bundesen and Commissioner of Public Service O'Connor to make exhaustive tests to determine the lethal content of the new gas. Tests will be made also to determine if a heater in a bathroom with a flue is less dangerous than one without a flue.

Real relief from CONSTIPATION

WHENEVER digestive distress follows mealtime, you can suspect an acid condition.

Acidity affects the appetite. What food you do eat sours in the stomach. The tongue becomes coated. The breath is bad. Sick headaches become frequent. You are constipated.

These are danger signals which should never go unheeded. Your system is fairly shouting its need of help; something to help remove the acid waste and restore alkaline balance. An anti-acid to offset the effect of too rich a diet, nervousness, excitement, etc.

Men and women who meet this need promptly with Phillips' Milk of Magnesia do not suffer. They eat well, and their food doesn't ferment in the stomach. Every trace of over-acidity soon disappears. All sour gas is dispelled. Stomach, liver and bowels have a better chance to function.

If there is the least hint of too much acid, just take a spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia today, and for several days. Feel this sweeten your stomach. Note how appetite improves. And elimination. You will wonder how anything so pleasant-tasting can be so promptly effective. 25c and 50c bottles at drug stores everywhere.

Phillips' Dental Magnesia Tooth-paste guards against acid-mouth; keeps gums firm and teeth pearly white.

JULES HUMMEL DIES; ONCE MAYOR; BETTER KNOWN AS FIDDLER

Sandwich, Ill., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Jules Hummel, 90, one of the picturesque characters of northern Illinois, died at his home here today of pneumonia. Hummel was a former mayor of this city, but was best known as a fiddler and caller at rustic dances.

By vocation he was a business man, having had a large hardware store here for many years. He was also one of the founders of the De Kalb county fair, one of the largest expositions of the kind in the state.

On his ninetieth birthday, Jan. 10, last, Mr. Hummel was the honored guest at a reception at the city hall. City and countryside united in felicitations. Mr. Hummel is survived by four sons and three daughters.

Top yesterday, $6.50; average, $5.50.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 11,000; hogs, 26,000; sheep, 18,000.

The hog market turned active after a slow top heavy opening and much of the loss recorded on first rounds was recovered before the finish. The extreme top and general average prices, however, sank to new low levels at $4.80 and $4.60, respectively, the lowest they have been since March, 1908.

The present price basis is only 50c above the lowest spot since 1899. At that time the top went down to $3.80. Small local packers, city butchers, and shippers were eager for hogs yesterday when the new low prices had been established and some of the 7,000 left at the close were being held off in hopes of some improvement in conditions later in the week. Eastern demand has expanded and traders hope that buying by outsiders may halt the drastic cut today. The movement of supplies toward all leading centers, however, shows little sign of abatement. Five leading markets report 51,500 in sight for today against 43,000 last Wednesday.

Hog Futures Steady.

Little change was noted in the hog futures market yesterday. November contracts carried bids of $4.25, while December and January hogs were bid $4.50 and some December heavy grades were offered at $5.00. March mediums were offered at $6.50 and heavy at $6.00.

Cattle were slower to sell yesterday and at the finish some loss was cited in plain kinds, which comprised the bulk of offerings. Highly finished medium weight steers eligible to the top quotation were absent, but a shipment of exceptionally good mixed yearling steers and heifers averaging 816 lbs went to Swift at $11.50, a new top for the class. Three head of steers from the same shipment averaged 1,036 lbs. and brought $11.75. They were from Mercer county, Ill. Buyers are finding it difficult to fill orders for choice grades of beef steers. W. B. Mitchell of Marfa, Tex., who is marketing 1,000 Highland Hereford steers, made this remark while on the market yesterday: "We have about the only industry in the country that is under rather than over produced, and this condition will become more pronounced in the course of time. Feed was never cheaper, and not only for coming months, but, looking longer into the future, the returns on investment in feeding stock should be favorable." Other prominent cattle feeders have also been in with reports of a marked shortage, particularly of choice grades of stock.

Lambs React Again.

The gain scored in the lamb market Monday on the strongest eastern support in more than a month's time was erased on yesterday's session, prices falling 25@50c before the finish. Large local packers were eager for stock at the reduced prices and the clearance was good. The advance at the close Monday attracted a good many natives and fed westerns from nearby points, and packers had the advantage of larger offerings of slaughter stock.

Most sorted native and fed western lambs sold at $6@6.25, all interests going up to $6.40@6.50 for best fed stock at the close. Aged sheep and yearlings were unchanged. Feeding lambs met better demand and prices regained 15@25c of the recent loss, some of the best selections going up to $5.00@5.25.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 11,000 cattle, 26,000 hogs and 18,000 sheep, against 7,852 cattle, 24,015 hogs and 25,214 sheep, the previous Wednesday, and 10,321 cattle, 21,955 hogs and 25,819 sheep a year ago.

CONSERVATION OF RESOURCES ONLY STARTED, CLAIM

No more than a beginning has been made in the work of conservation of the natural resources of this country, according to the Index, published by the New York Trust company.

"Notwithstanding periodic protests," it says, "against the unrestricted exploitation of our natural wealth, many of our most valuable raw materials have been utilized without regard to future needs. The reserves which in many instances are irreplaceable have been reduced with alarming rapidity.

"While, for example, the original area of virgin forest in this country covered more than 822,000,000 acres, there remain today only 125,000,000 acres of virgin timber, and the total forest stand is estimated by the secretary of agriculture to be 550,000,000 acres, or about two-thirds of the original area. The present consumption of lumber is from three to four times larger than the rate of forest growth for its replacement.

"Although there is considerable difference of opinion as to the extent of this country's remaining reserves of petroleum, all observers are agreed that they are comparatively limited when considered in relation to the rapidly increasing rate of consumption."

According to the federal oil conservation board, natural gas, with a value at the well of millions of dollars a year, is being blown into the air, an invisible but actual leak, it continues.

HOLDS LOWER WAGES NEEDED FOR RECOVERY

Prof. Stone Sees Aid to Employment.

BY O. A. MATHER

Attempts to keep wages up during the early stages of the current depression postponed recovery and further wage cuts will be necessary before an upward movement in trade can take place. These assertions were made last night by Prof. R. W. Stone of the University of Chicago school of commerce and administration in an address before the executives' council of the Society of Engineers.

"The creed of higher wages and shorter hours was espoused by hard-headed business men, liberals and trade unionists as the road to plenty," Prof. Stone recalled. "The same theory now is being used by those allied groups in opposing a cut in wages on the ground that such a measure would not only undermine the welfare of the wage earners but also would hurt business by reducing purchasing power.

Wage Cutting Delayed.

"The sentiments of those who oppose wage adjustments are laudable but in my opinion their contentions are short sighted and unsound. The interests of the workers, as well as of society in general, would have been better served by a general and substantial cut in wages more than a year ago. Since the end of the depression is not yet in sight, the adjustment of wages, now partially accomplished, should be completed.

"In former major depressions," he continued, "general reductions in wage rates, although lagging behind the fall in other prices, were an early and major step in the process of liquidation. In the current depression action for adjustment of wage rates did not appear until early in 1931, almost 18 months after the beginning of the recession.

"Prospects of profit margins sufficient to stimulate business enterprise and expand employment must be restored. The processes of liquidation which have moved in this direction must be carried further. The only important practicable method of liquidation remaining is a further adjustment of wage rates.

"Effective employment of the human resources is the basic economic problem in achieving a high level of welfare for workers. The first consideration is effective utilization is full time employment. A high level of welfare cannot be sustained when more than one-sixth of the workers are unemployed.

Should Increase Employment.

"The immediate problem is to increase employment. The way to restore normal employment is to increase investment. There is no reason for thinking that the public works programs that may develop will serve to do more than help to maintain the present level of business activity. The problem, then, is how to restore prospective profit margins sufficiently to stimulate a considerable amount of new private investment.

"Real wages are certain to increase with rising productivity, and, contrary to popular theory, wage earners will most probably get a fair share of the product resulting from increased efficiency. The present status and outlook for business indicate that further liquidation of costs is necessary to stimulate expansion. It may be possible to further improve efficiency and to cut costs by reductions in interest, rent, and taxes, but the prospects are relatively slight. Since wages represent approximately 75 per cent of cost, and since wage rates have been little affected to date, it would appear that the further liquidation required must be effected largely by cutting wage rates."

Board of Trade Elects Four New Members

Four applicants were elected to membership on the Chicago Board of Trade at a meeting of the directors yesterday. They are: George F. Brennan, Harriman & Co.; Herman J. Philips, partner of Philips & Salomon, and Winthrop H. Smith, partner of E. A. Pierce & Co., all of New York, and Edward G. Bern, Chicago.

Federal Life Insurance Co. Buys Michigan Avenue Fee

BY AL CHASE.

Boul Mich stepped into the realty spotlight yesterday with the largest and most important land transaction reported in many months. The Federal Life Insurance company of Chicago, founded in 1900 by Isaac Miller Hamilton, its president, purchased for cash the fee under the twelve story office building at 166-168 North Michigan avenue. This merges the fee and leasehold. The Federal Life Insurance company erected this structure in 1912 from plans by Marshall & Fox. The property is assessed at $1,296,636, of which $765,892 is for the land.

ISAAC MILLER HAMILTON.

Pioneer in District.

The land, which fronts 48 feet on North Michigan avenue, is 130 feet deep, extending west to Benton place. It is in the block between Randolph and Lake streets, on the west side of the boulevard. It was purchased from the Sharpe estate. The price was not disclosed, but it is stated that it was an all cash transaction. H. H. Harper & Co. were the only real estate brokers in the transaction.

The Federal Life Insurance company was a pioneer in this district. It leased the land in question back in 1911 for 99 years. The lease has 79 years yet to run at an annual rental of $8,000. The risk concern at once erected a twelve story structure especially designed to take care of its rapidly expanding business.

At that time the part of Michigan avenue where the property is located was the center of the wholesale coffee and grocery business and the sidewalks were usually blocked by loading platforms and pedestrians had to do as much up and down climbing as horizontal walking. Today, of course, this section has been completely changed into one of the city's highest class shopping districts.

May Add Five Stories Soon.

President Hamilton calls attention to the fact that the building is supported on caisson foundations sufficient to carry five additional stories and that the growth of the company is such that these are likely to be constructed in the near future.

Practically all of the building is occupied with the home office activities of the risk concern. The executive offices of the company are housed in the building. In addition, there are several hundred employes engaged in clerical work.

INT'L HARVESTER CO. REOPENS ALL PLANTS ON PART TIME BASIS

All plants of the International Harvester company in the United States and Canada resumed active operation Nov. 1, officials announced yesterday. By the end of the week several hundred men will be back at work at wages ranging from 10 to 20 per cent under former rates.

Seniority rights will be observed in the reemployment and married men will be given preference. The men have been urged to make voluntary contributions of 2 per cent toward unemployment relief. The new schedule, in most plants increasing the week to 4 days, will effect approximately 20 plants.

Chicago Bank of Commerce Adds Nine Union Directors

Nine former directors of the Union Bank of Chicago, which recently was absorbed by the Chicago Bank of Commerce, were elected directors of the latter bank yesterday. They are Walter J. Buettner, William Cameron, C. Wallace Johnson, Lloyd Maxwell, Werner A. Wieboldt, Clarke Washburne, Daniel V. Harkin, Henry R. Kent, and Charles E. Schlytern. Walter J. Cox, who became president of the merged banks, also was made a director. John Gulliksen, Clarke Washburne, Leroy H. Tolzein, and Edward N. Heinz were elected vice presidents, and John G. Nichols was made assistant cashier and savings manager.

Willys-Overland Shows Profit for Nine Months

Toledo, O., Nov. 3.—(AP)—In spite of a net loss of $184,185 in the third quarter of the current year, the Willys-Overland company for the nine months operation shows net profit of $120,462, L. A. Miller, president, reported today. The company had a loss of $2,581,197 in the quarter ending Sept. 30 last year. Economies and close adjustment of costs to sales volume have given the better results this year notwithstanding general business conditions, the report said.

Continental Oil Company Boosts Retail Gas Prices

Tulsa, Okla., Nov. 3.—(AP)—A top price of 85 cents a barrel for the best grade of crude oil had been posted tonight by all the major purchasing companies of the midcontinent area and with the advance in oil came announcement of higher gasoline prices at filling stations. Continental Oil company was the first to announce an increase.

SAYS UPTURN IN DAIRY PRODUCTS IS HAPPY OMEN

One of the factors giving rise to beliefs that the depression period is at or near its end is the higher prices prevailing for dairy products and eggs, the two most important farm products, according to Harry H. Field, president of the Chicago Mercantile exchange. On June 1 the Chicago quotation on butter extras was 23¾c. Tuesday the price was 28¾c. In the egg market firsts were selling at 16½c on June 1 and Tuesday at 26c.

"The value of the milk crop and eggs annually in the United States is twice as great as the value of grains," Mr. Field pointed out, "and where the advance in wheat may affect only a relatively few farmers, advancing prices of eggs and butterfat affect a much greater number.

"Butterfat and eggs are called the money crops of the farm. It is the money received daily or weekly from these products which contribute greatly to the farmer's annual income. Grains give the farmer money at only a brief part of the year, but the butter and egg checks come in regularly throughout the year. Obviously, therefore, the farmer's buying power in the last five months has been increased tremendously because of the rising prices mentioned above."

Ford Motor Co. Is Building Plant at Ypsilanti, Mich.

Ypsilanti, Mich., Nov. 3.—(AP)—A hydro-electric plant and a factory building designed to employ 400 men are under construction here in a 1,000 acre tract along the Huron river owned by the Ford Motor company. Ford officials have stated that 400 men will be employed in the factory upon its completion, but have declined to comment on the nature of manufacturing to be engaged in at the plant. Rumors are current, however, that the site will be used for the manufacture of upholstery textiles. Two hundred Ford employés are constructing the factory building, while two shifts of fifty men each are working on a dam under the direction of a Detroit contractor.

U. S. Realty and Improvement.

Will you kindly furnish me with the information that your files may contain on U. S. Realty and Improvement company stock?—M. M.

U. S. Realty and Improvement company operates in two fields. It owns and operates properties and, through subsidiaries, is in the construction and construction material supply business. Among the properties owned are the Savoy-Plaza hotel, Hotel Plaza, and U. S. Realty building, all in New York City. It owns all the preferred and part of the common stock of National Hotel of Cuba corporation, which operates a $7,000,000 hotel at Havana, which was opened at the close of 1930. It has an interest in the Pierre hotel of New York City and also hotel and golf properties in Florida.

For 1930 net income was $4,349,152, or $4.42 per share, including nonrecurring income equal to 92 cents per share. For the eight months ended Dec. 31, 1929, net income was $3,460,642, or $3.52 per share. For the twelve months ended April 30, 1929, net income was $3,666,184, against $5,516,303 for the preceding twelve months.

A report dated Aug. 11, 1931, stated that the company's New York hotels were operating at a deficit. For the nine months to Sept. 30, 1931, net income was $443,298, or 47 cents per share. Deficit after dividends was $1,023,585. Net loss for the third quarter of 1931 was $194,584.

Some improvement is expected in the building division from the contract for construction of the 43 story Marshall Field building in Chicago.

On June 30, 1931, current assets were $11,462,211 and current liabilities were $4,286,488. Cash alone was $6,236,628. Funded debt, including subsidiaries, was $40,304,240. Working capital was $7,175,723, against $14,053,828 the year before. There were outstanding 994,978 shares of no par capital stock.

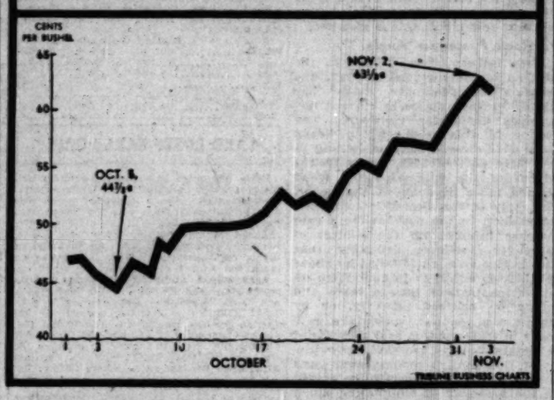
A 25 cent dividend was paid Sept. 15, 1931, and a dividend of 50 cents per share was paid June 15, 1931. The dividend due Dec. 15, 1931, was passed.

Nevada-California Electric.

Can you give me any information on a bond issued by Nevada-California Electric corporation?—G. R.

Nevada-California Electric corporation supplies electric power to a population of 311,000 in California, Nevada, and Arizona. It also supplies telephone and ice service. For the twelve months ended June 30, 1931, fixed charges were earned 1.53 times, against 1.55 times the year before. For the twelve months ended Sept. 30, 1931, gross revenues were $5,760,318, against $5,638,721 for the preceding twelve months. The first 5s, due 1956 are a business man's risk. The debenture 6s, due 1941, are somewhat speculative.

PRICE OF DECEMBER WHEAT ON THE CHICAGO BOARD OF TRADE



ADVANCES IN WHEAT AND COTTON SIGNAL GOOD TIMES ON FARM

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, said here today rising markets for wheat and cotton indicate prices for those two great American surplus crops have passed the bottom.

Designating the two crops as bellwethers of agricultural commodities, Secretary Hyde was inclined to a belief that their upturn may signal better times on the farm.

Northern States Profit.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Bankers today estimated that recent price increases have added from $30,000,000 to $40,000,000 to the value of wheat held in Minnesota and the Dakotas. Basing estimates on federal reserve computations of grain held by farmers, country elevators and mills, they said about $20,000,000 of this has accrued to the benefit of farmers.

Ohio Estimates Increase.

Columbus, O., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Recent advances in wheat, corn and oats on the Chicago Board of Trade has increased the value of Ohio farmers' holding $18,000,000, Murray D. Lincoln, executive secretary of the Ohio Farm Bureau corporation said today.

Canadian Farmers Aided.

CALGARY, Alta., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Officials of the Alberta wheat pool calculated today that maintenance of the present price on wheat would benefit farmers of the province to the extent of $18,600,000.

Chicago Board of Trade Officials See Hoover Today

Short selling of grains and other important factors in which the grain trade is vitally interested, is to be discussed with President Hoover in Washington today by Peter B. Carey, vice president of the Chicago Board of Trade; S. C. Harris, second vice-president; and Fred Uhlmann, a director. They are considered among the best posted men in the grain trade. It is said that the advance in wheat of 20 cents a bushel in the last three weeks has caused the trade and the public to forget all about short selling.

Crude Oil Production Turns Up as October Ends

New York, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 50,000 barrels in the week ended Oct. 31, totaling 2,431,250 barrels, the American Petroleum Institute's weekly summary indicates. Imports of crude and refined oils at principal United States ports totaled 1,986,000 barrels against 1,204,000 barrels.

ENGLISH POUND SINKS FURTHER, STOCKS HIGHER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 3.—The London market reported further advance in railway and industrial stocks and improvement in foreign bonds, but a further and rather emphatic fall in sterling. Dispatches quoted the rate at $3.68¾, which would represent a decline of 3¼ cents from Monday's closing and of 14 cents since Saturday.

The market has not touched so low a rate as this since Sept. 25, five days after the British suspension of gold payments, when it went momentarily to the period's low level of $3.49.

In view of England's peculiar situation on exchange, it is not without interest to recall that yesterday's price for sterling was lower than was quoted at any time between the autumn of 1921 and England's resumption of gold payments at the end of April, 1925. But November is always a month of pressure on sterling, when payment is being made for Europe's large autumn importation of overseas foodstuffs.

Hard Work Cure for the Slump, Cord Official Says

L. B. Manning, executive vice president of the Cord corporation, yesterday declared that American business leaders could end the country's depression by hard work. Manning laid the present situation to "flabby muscles," brought on by way of easy selling in a "seller" market; loose and decadent management; failure to recognize new merchandising conditions and problems, and the placing of men in highly paid executive jobs for which they were wholly unqualified.

Every division of the Cord corporation, Manning said, had increased its sales; made greater profits, and had more workmen on the pay rolls in 1931 than in any previous year. He said the Cord companies had prepared for the new conditions in 1930 and 1931, and instead of joining "a calamity chorus had met these conditions intelligently, and buckled down to hard work."

Predicts Auto Industry Will Show Early Upturn

Toledo, O., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The automobile industry is emerging from its slump and most factories will start production of new models in November or December, insuring an improvement in demand for plate and safety glass during the last two months of the year, John B. Biggers, president of the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company, said in the quarterly statement issued today. The company showed a loss of $342,411 for the quarter ending Sept. 30, which makes the total loss for the nine months of the year $514,503.

RAILROADS SHOW GAIN IN FREIGHT HOLDINGS; LOWER THAN YEAR AGO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—Loading of revenue freight for the week ended on Oct. 24 totaled 769,673 cars, the car service division of the American Railway association announced today. This was an increase of 7,954 cars above the preceding week, but 189,819 cars below the corresponding week last year and 364,487 cars under the same week two years ago.

Miscellaneous freight loading for the week of Oct. 24 totaled 284,566 cars, an increase of 8,063 cars above the preceding week this year, but 81,513 cars under the corresponding week in 1930, and 168,261 cars under the same week in 1929.

Banking Group Offers Missouri Bonds Today

An issue of $5,000,000 state of Missouri 4 per cent bonds will be offered today by a syndicate composed of the First Union Trust and Savings bank, Guaranty Company of New York, Harris Trust and Savings bank, Continental Illinois company, Northern Trust company, Lawrence Stern & Co., Mercantile-Commerce company, and Mississippi Valley company. The bonds are dated Nov. 1, 1931, and are due $1,000,000 each Nov. 1, 1948-1952, and are priced to yield 4.25 per cent, according to maturity.

SOVIET EXPORTS WILL CONTINUE, OFFICIAL SAYS

[Copyright; 1931; By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Nov. 3.—When a soviet official was asked today about the truth of foreign reports that Russia would be unable to carry out wheat deliveries and the Toronto story that Ambassador Dovgalevsky in Paris had said no more soviet wheat would be exported this year or next, the reply was:

"How much wheat do you want at current prices? Just make an offer and we will sell you any amount. These rumors are sheer nonsense—not without a purpose, of course, a double purpose, indeed, but wholly untrue. First, they tend to raise prices, which every one wants; second, they tend to harm us, which a lot of people also want.

"I can't give you a figure on our grain export, although you know well enough that, chiefly owing to gutted markets and low world prices, they are likely to be smaller than last year, but I can say we are exporting and will export what we planned to export."

Chicago Firm Has Order for 150 Motor Trucks

An order for 150 motor trucks was announced yesterday by E. J. Bush, vice president of the Diamond T Motor Car company, Chicago. The order was received from Dugan Brothers, Inc., New York, purveyor of bakery goods selling direct from trucks to consumers.

WHEAT SLUMPS WHEN EVERY ONE GRABS PROFITS

Cancel Early Rise on Foreign Buying.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Heavy profit taking in wheat by all classes of traders was under way yesterday. While a new high for the present movement was made early in sympathy with a wild advance in the Liverpool market, sufficient pressure developed to cause a recession of 2⅛@2⅝c from the outside figures. This was the greatest reaction which has occurred during the advance of 19⅛@20¼c from the low on Oct. 5.

Houses that usually act for leading local and eastern traders, as well as innumerable scattered longs, started to take profits, regarding the advance as sufficient for the time being. While there was persistent buying early it was not as effective as of late and the market acted somewhat overbought. Closing trades were at net losses of ⅞@1¼c, with December finishing at 62@62½c; March, 65½c; May, 66⅝@66¾c, and July, 67¼@67⅜c.

Foreign News Favors Bulls.

Foreign news on wheat was the most bullish so far this season, with an advance of as much as 5¼c per bu in Liverpool at the opening, due to general speculative buying with an absence of offerings of cash grain from Russia, Argentina, and North America. It developed later, however, that there had been plenty of wheat offered from the United States and Canada, but representatives abroad had not attempted to do business owing to weakness in sterling. A strong reaction came from the high point abroad, but the finish was at equal to ⅛@1⅜c higher. May wheat in the latter touched 76c at the opening and closed at 72½c, based on sterling at $3.72.

There were intimations of a big export business having been put through in North American wheat as the result of the reaction in futures yesterday, but details were lacking and the seaboard reported only 600,000 to 750,000 bu disposed of. Bullish articles on the Russian situation had considerable influence on the Liverpool market yesterday. While it was denied that exports would cease, foreigners were inclined to take a rather pessimistic view of prospects of any grain of consequence being cleared in the future.

Winnipeg Deliveries Up.

All deliveries of wheat at Winnipeg sold at a new high for the season early, but reacted over 4c from the top and closed 1⅞@1¾c lower with De-

INQUIRY IS PROMISED ON CONTRACTS FOR OCEAN AND AIR MAIL

Washington, D. C., Nov. 3.—[Special.]—An investigation of the methods by which the postoffice department awards ocean and air mail contracts will be begun shortly after congress convenes in December, Representative Will R. Wood [Rep., Ind.] announced today. Twice delayed, the inquiry will be conducted by a subcommittee of the house committee on appropriations of which Representative Wood is chairman.

According to the terms of the resolution passed by the last congress authorizing the investigation, particular attention will be given to the awarding of air mail contracts.

The total appropriation for ocean and air mail service for the current fiscal year is $56,600,000. Of this amount, $7,000,000 was allowed for foreign air mail and $20,000,000 for domestic air mail service.

Several complaints about the manner of awarding air mail contracts in the United States were received prior to the authorization of the subcommittee last winter. Since that time several large passenger air line operators have filed complaints with various members of the subcommittee as well as other members of congress, in which they charged that Postmaster General Brown had discriminated against them in extending and opening new domestic air mail routes by which 90 per cent of the contracts went to four large operators. Steamship operators, too, have filed complaints against the postoffice department's policy, Representative Wood said today.

Cleveland Division of Credit Corp. to Begin Operation

Cleveland, O., Nov. 3.—(AP)—The Cleveland unit of the National Credit corporation will be ready to carry its share of the attack on frozen assets next week. Organization of the unit, covering 27 counties in northeastern Ohio, was completed late yesterday with heads of the Cleveland Clearing House association subscribing the full quota of $9,110,000.

WHEAT SLUMPS WHEN EVERY ONE GRABS PROFITS

Decline Most Severe in a Month.

cember finishing at 68⅝c in Canadian currency. Hedging sales in volume and profit taking were responsible for the break from the high point in that market. Buenos Aires closed ⅝@¾c lower, with December at 51⅝c. Good rains were reported in the province of Santa Fé. Difficulties in selling exchange are hampering exports from that country, but it is estimated domestic consumption has been well above normal owing to low prices. Much grain is being fed to live stock.

Cash Corn in Demand.

The best shipping demand for cash corn experienced in several months with sales of 408,000 bu to the east resulted in an unsettled market in futures, the close being ⅛c higher on the December and ⅛c lower on the deferred deliveries. December finished at 41⅜@41⅝c; March, 44½@44⅝c; May, 46½c, and July, 48¼c. Prices fluctuated rapidly within a range of 1⅝@1¾c, with commission houses and the pit element on both sides.

Reports to J. E. Bennett & Co. from Iowa points indicated that the movement of corn from that state would probably be light owing to the active demand which exists from more western territory.

Cash interests were buyers of oats early, but the market eased later with other gains and closed ½@¾c lower, with the December at 25½c; March, 27¼c; May and July, 28½c. Shipping sales aggregated 47,000 bu. Export sales of 200,000 bu or more of barley were claimed at the seaboard.

Germany Buys Rye.

Bullish news had little effect on the rye market. Germany was reported having bought both cash rye and futures in Canada owing to the prospective shortage in supplies and probability that Russia would not be able to ship. No. 2 Canadian rye was reported offered abroad at about the same figure to slightly under, compared with Russian, and Germany bought a few loads during the day. According to Rotterdam cables, Russian rye was held at 7c per bu advance. Futures finished ⅛c higher to ½c lower, with December 44½c and May 50⅝c.

CASH-GRAIN NEWS

There were intimations yesterday of a very large export business having been put through in cash wheat as the result of the sharp break in futures, but the seaboard estimated sales in all positions at 600,000 to 750,000 bu, including Manitobas and hard winter. The United Kingdom bought both kinds, while France, Italy, and Germany were credited with taking Manitobas, and there was some business claimed at the Pacific coast with Japan.

Chicago handlers sold 21,000 bu wheat, 408,000 bu corn and 47,000 bu oats to the domestic trade with 50,000 bu corn to go to store. Purchases to arrive were 7,000 bu wheat, 43,000 bu corn and 6,000 bu oats.

Cash wheat basis showed little change. Offerings were not large. No. 1 red was quoted at 1⅛@2c over; No. 1 hard, 2½@3c over; No. 2 red and hard, 1@1½c over, and No. 3 red and hard winter, ½@¾c over December, while No. 2 yellow hard was ¼@½c over and No. 2 mixed ½@1c over the future.

Eastern demand for cash corn was the largest in months but there was no change in the basis in the cash market. Basis on new corn follows: No. 2 yellow, 1c over; No. 3 yellow, ½@2c under; mixed, 1½c under; white, ½c under; No. 4 yellow, 1½@2c under; mixed, 2c under; No. 5 yellow, 3½c under December. Premiums on old corn, compared with the future follow: No. 1 and No. 2 mixed, 2c; yellow, 2½c; No. 1 white, 3c; No. 2 white, 2¾@3c; No. 3 mixed, 1½c; yellow, 2c; white, 2½c.

Offerings of cash oats were light and the basis was steady at 1@1½c over December for No. 2 white and ½c under to ¾c over for No. 3 white. No. 2 rye was nominally 5@10c over December.

Official receipts of grain at Chicago Tuesday: Wheat, 89 cars; corn, 121 cars; oats, 31 cars; barley, 3 cars.

BUTTER FUTURES LOWER

Butter futures broke sharply on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday due to heavy selling pressure on bearish storage news. Losses were ¾@1½c or $140 and $170 per carlot on the two deliveries. Egg futures also were weak and ¾@1¼c lower at the close. Potatoes closed 1c lower on round white. Daily and weekly storage reports in butter showed the outward storage movement to be sharply off from last year. Liquidation started early and continued heavily to the close, support being largely of a covering nature. The egg news also failed to prove encouraging, but some indications of cooler weather induced better buying than in butter, the decline being more orderly and a slight recovery coming at the close. Sales: Butter, 2,880,000 lbs; eggs, 1,800,000 dozen; potatoes, 170,000 lbs. Deliveries: Butter, 19 cars storage standards; eggs, 9 cars refrigerator standards. Prices follow:

Three Banks in Missouri, Two in W. Virginia Close

Jefferson City, Mo., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Three more state banks closed in Missouri today. They were the Bank of Barnett, the Bank of Oak Grove, and the Waverly bank.

Two in West Virginia.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Two banks, a national and a state institution, failed to open for business here today. They were the First National bank and the Central Bank and Trust company.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Gauge Auto Demand.

Automobile executives who are attempting to gauge the probable demand for cars next year are finding consolation in the thought that the potential replacement demand will be very large. Several authorities have estimated that about one-fourth of those now in service would be replaced if the owners' purchasing power or feeling of financial security could be improved. The trend of the grain and cotton markets, as well as of the stock market, will have a great effect upon purchasing power during the next few months, it is asserted.

Overlook Passenger Angle.

With railway freight rates to the fore as a controversial subject, the question of passenger traffic has largely escaped notice in current discussions about the railroads. The decline in this traffic which began about 1920 showed signs of halting in the early part of 1929, but with the advent of the depression the trend became more pronounced than ever. The reply of the interstate commerce commission to the petition for a rate increase brought up the subject of passenger business, asserting that this service as a whole failed by about $450,000,000 annually to contribute its proportional share toward taxes and return on railroad property, or by almost the amount which the railroads in their petition said they hoped to obtain by the increase they proposed. Railway management and commission policies seem to be agreed on the necessity of eliminating much unprofitable passenger service.

Steel Earnings.

The nine leading steel producing companies had an operating loss of a little more than $5,000,000 during the third quarter, before the payment of dividends, it is computed. During the corresponding period of last year the companies reported an operating profit of $29,908,076. Steel executives do not anticipate that the fourth quarter will show much improvement in earnings, owing to the 28 per cent rate of activity at the mills during October and the likelihood that any improvement in operations shown this month would be succeeded by the year-end period of dullness.

Watch Bond Action.

Probably the greatest factor calculated to steady the market for municipal bonds is the continued improvement in the market for United States government long term obligations. Usually it is the case that when government bond prices move up briskly, the highest rated state and municipal bonds display a firmer tone and as the improvement continues other municipal issues begin to experience modest gains. Thus, the gains made by the governments during the last few days are being watched with satisfaction not only by specialists in these issues but by the municipal banking fraternity as a whole.

North Western October Loadings Gain Slightly

Car loadings on the Chicago and North Western railway from Oct. 1 to Oct. 31, inclusive, were slightly better per day than during September this year, 4,771 cars being loaded per day in the 27 working days, as compared with 4,751 per day in the 25 working days of September. The percentage of decrease from 1930 was also slightly better than the September percentage. The total cars loaded, 127,817, being 22 per cent under the 164,828 loaded in 1930, as compared with a 25 per cent decrease of September, 1931, loadings over September, 1930, loadings. Cars loaded in all classifications were up over the previous month due, for the most part, to the fact that October had two more working days than September.

LARD LOSES EARLY GAIN

Early buying in December and January lard futures, which appeared to be for foreigners, made a sharp advance in prices, which was quickly lost as brokers who act for packers took the selling side, and the close was unchanged to 2½c higher. Hogs were lower. Liverpool lard was 3d lower on spot and 1s higher on January and May. There was no report on export clearances.

Lard stocks at leading western packing points decreased 20,209,715 lbs last month and are 25,857,000 lbs, compared with 19,517,000 lbs a year ago, when the reduction for the month was 19,599,000 lbs. Stocks of meats were 143,086,000 lbs against 129,672,000 lbs last year. The decrease for the month was 38,417,000 lbs against 31,310,000 lbs last year. Prices follow:

EASY TONE IN COTTON

Cotton prices moved up to slightly above Monday's close early, but eased off later and at the finish futures in Chicago were 8@9 points lower and in New Orleans 9@13 points off. The New York market was closed on account of the election. Spots in New Orleans were 5 points higher at the close at 6.50c, with Galveston and Houston 6.30c. Liverpool closed 8@9 points net higher.

Sales of spots in the south Monday were 57,000 bales, compared with 44,000 bales the same day last year. Total sales for the season were 3,251,000 bales, against 3,043,000 bales last year. The weather was clear and cool over the entire south, with a forecast for higher temperatures for the eastern two-thirds of the belt and colder weather for the western section. Prices follow:

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Arthur W. Cutten's idea is that foreigners who have bought wheat for the last three weeks because of the change in the Russian situation are largely responsible for the advance. The strong demand for cash wheat from abroad in a measure is due to their inability to get Russian wheat, owing to refusals of Russians to accept the depreciated English sterling.

Pit traders took the selling of several million bushels of May wheat here and at Minneapolis, as for the Grain Stabilization corporation. It was said this was to turn over hedges on cash wheat.

Men who have been a power in the stock market in Wall street for years are known to have bought wheat for three weeks past. Their purchases were of comparatively moderate quantities. A leading steel operator is said to have had orders in the market to buy 20,000 bu on every fractional decline and to have absorbed a good sized line, as he regarded wheat an investment at present prices.

As a result of the advance in wheat in the last two weeks, Board of Trade memberships sold yesterday at $11,000, while a week ago sales were at $8,000 and $7,000.

The DEAD MONTHS that follow FIRE

FIRES in stores, factories and other commercial buildings are followed by dead months. Trade stops—customers go elsewhere for goods—expenses pile up while the building is being replaced or repaired. It is sound business to insure a continuance of your normal profit—and dividends—during the non-earning period following a fire.

The insurance that gives this guarantee is called Business Interruption (Use and Occupancy) insurance. Ask your Stock Fire Insurance agent to explain it.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE

provides and supports many services that reduce the probability of either direct or indirect fire losses, but as long as destruction continues there will be suspended business activities. You should provide this kind of protection.

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

COMMONWEALTH'S rate on amounts above $104 is substantially lower than the lawful rate usually charged.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest, at the Reduced Rate, is charged only while you keep the money.

Also Salary and Auto Loans.

Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The Nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Household's rate on all loans above $100 is almost one-third lower than the maximum permitted by the small-loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1929, and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

For example:

The average monthly cost of a $200 loan, repaid in 20 equal monthly payments, is $2.63. This is the lowest cost in Chicago.
